They might, in fact, lose the entire battle and find their places filled by other men, and the work they have been building up for twenty or more years would go crashing down.

STRIKE VOTE IS CLUB.

Assurances were given at today's meeting that the shopmen would have the moral and financial support of the brotherhoods and other unions in the railroad service. This means, according to its intepretation at the meeting, that all railroad transportation would be tied up, in event of a strike of the shop crafts, until their demands were settled. This is the interpretation made by the more radical elements in the unions. Men on the inside, however, say they do not anticipate a strike and that the vote is primarily intended to provide the union leaders with a club wherewith to induce the railroads to listen to their demands. One of the leaders, who returned last night to his home in Iowa after several days in conference here, gave out a statement to this effect, and it was further verified today by the conservative leaders, who, for obvious reasons, declined to permit the use of their names.

PHYSICIAN TO RETURN.

Didn't Know of Tragedy.

First Man to Treat Virginia Rappe Expected in San Francisco Today.

BY BURTON D. SMITH.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Hope of the District Attorney's office to bring new evidence against Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle was revived again this afternoon when a message from Dr. Arthur Beardslee gave the information that he would be in San Francisco tomorrow. Upon his arrival Dist.-Atty. Brady will immediately call him for consultation and will then indicate whether there is any reason to change his position that he is positive of a conviction of murder, in connection with the death of Miss Rappe.

Dr. Beardslee is house physician of the St. Francis Hotel and was the first doctor to attend Miss Rappe after the affair which is said to have caused her death. It is the hope of the prosecution that Dr. Beardslee will tell practically the same story as the several women witnesses who have given evidence detrimental to Arbuckle. It has been conceded that the medical testimony so far given has been favorable to the actor-defendant.

SERIES OF RUMORS.

Since the now famous case has occupied the attention of the District Attorney's office and the courts there has been an effort made to get in touch with Dr. Beardslee, and his absence has given rise to a series of rumors leading to insinuations that the physician was evading the service of legal papers.

A telegram received by the management of the St. Francis Hotel today set at rest all such reports. The message was dated at Bridgeport, Cal., and said that the doctor was enjoying an outing at a hunting lodge which he visited each year in company with Judge Parker.

Dr. Beardslee said he had not learned of the fatal termination of the Arbuckle party until he read it in the newspapers. He asked that the press be informed that he was leaving immediately for San Francisco and would arrive Monday.

LIQUOR INVESTIGATION.

Investigation into alleged violations of the Volstead Act in connection with the Arbuckle case is continuing under the direction of Robert H. McCormick, special assistant United States Attorney-General, who said today that developments of the last few hours had caused him to change his mind as to his determination expressed yesterday to ask for at least three indictments before the Federal grand jury.

McCormick says that he has found several new leads which he will follow up in the Los Angeles motion-picture colony. He indicated that his investigations would now probably cover a three-week period, at the end of which time he would be in a position to ask for a large number of indictments and bring to light conditions which he said would "appear as a revelation even to those who imagined they have a knowledge of conditions in Hollywood."

The attorney absolutely refused to indicate along what lines his investigations would lead saying that secrecy was his only hope of success. "I am determined to make a clean-up of this whole affair," is all that he would say.

With the absence of Frank Dominguez, chief counsel for Arbuckle, from the city neither Milton Cohen nor Charles Brennan, the other lawyers in the case, would make any comment on the return of Dr. Beardsley or any other angle of the story.

THOUSANDS SEE BODY OF DEAD GIRL.

Mildred Harris Among Those Who Send Flowers for Hotel Slaying Victim.

Viewed by more than 3000 persons in six hours, the body of Virginia Rappe, the beautiful film actress for whose death Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, has been charged with murder, yesterday lay in the flower-banked chapel of the Strother & Dayton undertaking establishment on Hollywood Boulevard awaiting the funeral services which are to be conducted at 10.30 a.m. today. Many film folk yesterday went there; many were friends, but the greatest number were curious strangers.

From 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 p.m. women and men lined the sidewalks in front of the undertaking establishment, extending to the corner and many times even to the opposite side of the street. It was an orderly crowd that gathered to view the young girl's body. Many women came. In fact, a check kept on the crowds during the entire day showed that there were more than twice as many women as men in the line. Several children also were there, accompanying their parents.

The body of Miss Rappe, clothed in the conventional burial robe, reposed in an expensive casket that was surrounded by hundreds of floral offerings. Before the funeral she will be clothed in a white evening gown, a favorite of hers, and will be buried in that. The gown is made of lace over flesh-colored georgette and crepe de chine with short sleeves and a medium cut neck.

A silver and white headpiece, interwoven with tube roses and lilies of the valley, and a corsage bouquet of the roses, lilies and orchids were sent by Mildred Harris to be worn by Miss Rappe today. The services will start at 10:30 a.m. with Rev. Frank Roudenbush in charge. Burial will be in the Hollywood cemetery in a lot owned by Harry Lehrman, cinema director and avowed sweetheart of the dead girl.

BROTHERS VISIT ARBUCKLE.

Comedian's Million-Dollar Smile Returns for Short Time As He Talks.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Roscoe Arbuckle's million-dollar smile, totally eclipsed for the last eight days by the shadow of a murder charge, appeared again intermittently for twenty minutes this afternoon. His two brothers visited him at the city prison during that time. One of them—W. H. Arbuckle, living in Fresno—the motion-picture comedian had not seen for many months. The other—A. C. Arbuckle, local electrician—had visited the screen star at the jail previously.

The pressure of a profound silence under which Arbuckle had been struggling for more than a week, with only his thoughts for company, was lifted and the prisoner talked freely with his brothers.

The three sat on a narrow bench just outside the long tiers of cells. Roscoe, seated in the middle, dwarfed his next of kin considerably, although they are men of generous proportions themselves.

The prisoner talked in an undertone that fell short of the ears of other inmates pacing the corridor near by. Occasionally the comedian's face broadened into a smile with a suggestion of a laugh following.

WIRES FOR LOCK OF HAIR

Chief of Police O'Brien of San Francisco last night telegraphed the police here to obtain a lock of hair from the head of Virginia Rappe and send it to the northern city. The matter was turned over to the Hollywood police and the request carried out.

DOG SAVES MISTRESS

DUNN (N. C.) Sept. 18.—Joe, a Shepherd dog, saved his mistress from probable death when her dress caught fire today. When Mrs. Martha Wood attmepted to start a fire with gasoline supposing it to be kerosene, her dress became ablaze. She ran screaming to the back porch. The dog leaped to her aid, tearing the burning clothing from her body.

CAFE MAN, WIFE ROBBED

Held up by two youths as they drove into their garage at the rear of their home, 622 South Normandie avenue, shortly before midnight last night, Hugo Aleidis, part owner of the Victor Hugo restaurant, and his wife were robbed of valuables worth $1760. The bandits' loot included $110 in bills, a $200 watch, a moleskin coat valued at $700 and a diamond lavalliere valued at $700. Mrs. Aleidis saved two diamond rings valued at $700 by placing them in her mouth. Officers Gross and Gruey of the police flying squadron investigated.

BRADY IS AFTER WITNESS FIXERS.

Declares He Has Information of Tampering With Those in Arbuckle Case.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18. Dist.-Atty. Brady announced tonight that definite information of tampering with Arbuckle witnesses had reached him and would be presented to the San Francisco county grand jury for consideration tomorrow night. He said Dr. Gabor Kingstone and Reggie Morley, former film actor, were subpoenaed to tell of alleged conversations with two material witnesses.

FOLLOWERS DECLARE ANY CONCESSION TO ENGLAND MEANS HIS RETIREMENT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 18.—Eamonn de Valera's job as President of the Irish republic hangs on the stand he maintains toward Prime Minister Lloyd George in the next few days. If he comes down from his attitude upholding Ireland as an independent, sovereign nation he will be retired from the Presidency of the republic and possibly from any participation whatsoever in the republic's affairs.

The above was declared to be the fact of the Irish situation today by some of De Valera's most ardent followers.

They said that the developments in the situation in the last forty-eight hours have caused consternation among the Sinn Fein and have practically convinced them that De Valera and his Cabinet are really anxious to hold a meeting with Mr. Lloyd George and his Cabinet. They point to the Irish leader's promptness in answering Mr. Lloyd George's messages as substantiating their belief.

The followers of De Valera declared that if he yields an iota of the position he has maintained it will mean a sacrifice of the Irish position and, they say, "his retirement from the Presidency and public life and the appointment of some one to take his place."

They delare that no part of the present position can be given up by any authority short of a plebiscite by the entire people, and they are positive that a plebiscite at this moment would result in reassertion of independence.

LLOYD GEORGE FIRM.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 18. — Premier Lloyd George today added another to the telegrams between Dublin and Gairloch, which leaves Eamonn de Valera's search for a formula enabling him to accept the invitation to a conference still unsatisfied, and the position on the Irish question is virtually the same as Friday.

In his message the Premier remains firm in refusing to meet the Irish delegation as representing an independent and sovereign state, and declares that unless that section of Mr. De Valera's letter insisting on the delegates acting as representatives of an independent Ireland was withdrawn, a conference between the British Cabinet and the Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries would be impossible.

GIVES DE VALERA OPENING.

Notwithstanding the firm tone of the telegram, it is interpreted as displaying solicitude to furnish Mr. De Valera a favorable opening for abandoning his attitude.

The telegram follows:

"I have received your telegram of last night and observe it does not

PROFITEER BANKS HIT.

Head of Federal Reserve Talks.

Governor Harding Says Attitude of Organization is Misrepresented.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, Chicago Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Hitting at banks which profiteer on rediscounts and which misrepresent the attitude of the Federal Reserve Board to excuse refusal of loans to farmers, W. P. G. Harding, governor of the board, has slammed back vigorously at those in and out of Congress who have been complaining of alleged restriction by Washington of agricultural credit.

Gov. Harding defended the board from these attacks in a letter to Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska, who inquired whether receipts for grain stored on the farm could be made the basis for loans eligible to rediscount and to extend the credit facilities to Nebraska farmers.

POLICY OF BOARD.

"The Federal Reserve Board," replied Gov. Harding, "has always stressed the importance of sustaining the agricultural and live-stock interests of the country and its policies have always been shaped with a view of encouraging member banks to extend all reasonable accommodations to those engaged in these vital industries.

"The liquidation which has taken place, at least so far as this liquidation is reflected in the statements of the Federal reserve banks, shows that the reduction in loans has been mainly in the large cities and in industrial centers.

Federal reserve banks are not permitted by law to make loans direct to individuals, firms or corporations and they rediscount only paper which bears the indorsement of a member bank. Consequently, in order for a Federal reserve bank to render financial assistance to those engaged in agriculture or the raising of live stock, it is necessary that the loans be negotiated with member banks.

HAVE NO CONTROL.

Neither these Federal reserve banks nor the Federal Reserve Board has any control over the loan policy of any member bank. We cannot compel a member bank to make a loan which it does not desire to make, nor can we restain it from making a loan which is not forbidden by law.

"About one-third of the member

POLICE FACE HARD TASK.

Law Violators Defy Penalty.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Sept. 18.—Relations between motor car thefts and the fabulous profits of liquor-running, as well as the problems presented in enforcement of prohibition laws, were outlined by Chief of Police Saunders today before the Lions' Club in a summary of the intricate problems of policing a city evolved by the substitution of the jazz for the liquor era.

Immensely profitable as the stealing of motor cars and liquor-running proves to be when considered as co-ordinated pursuits, Chief Saunders said puts upon the police department a practically impossible task. When one cargo of liquor run into Iowa from Canada in a stolen car will net the smuggler a profit of several thousand dollars, it is not to be wondered that the practice persists.

LAWS ARE INADEQUATE.

Moreover, the laws for punishment of the rum smuggler and automobile thief are entirely inadequate, Chief Saunders asserted. Laws were made at a time when by no possibility could the framers of the statutes have had the foresight to provide for conditions that have developed in the prohibition era. Nor would he go so far as to declare he had a solution of the problem. It was something that required the co-operation of all good citizens at any rate. He was of the opinion that provisions whereby police officers would obtain rewards for the conviction of violators of the law would be of material benefit.

Nor is the bootlegger and liquor-runner class confined to people of recognized criminal tendencies, the Chief of Police observed. Quite the contrary.

BUSINESS MEN ARE THIEVES.

"Some of Des Moines' most highly respected business men are making fortunes in automobile thievery," he asserted. "There are business men in Des Moines who have made $500,000 in aiding and abetting automobile thieves."

"In the last three months $250,000 worth of automobiles have been stolen in Des Moines. In this connection Saunders highly praised the activities of the automobile theft bu-

HARDING VACATION ENDED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—President Harding has finished his vacation and immediately on his return to Washington today began work on pressing matters in the executive offices. But for brief trips he will be busy until Congress finishes the regular session.

When the Senate reconvenes on Wednesday the legislative machinery will be set in motion only to be terminated at the end of the regular session except for a brief holiday recess at Christmas time.

President Harding will be occupied with the domestic problems of redeeming the campaign promises of revised internal tax laws and a new tariff. He will present to the Senate for ratification the treaty with Germany and will also submit some very important matters arising from our relations with Mexico and other foreign matters.

TAX REVISION UP SOON.

Present indications are that the Senate will begin the consideration of the tax revision bill Thursday. According to the present program the bill will be finally voted on Wednesday by the committee and reported to the Senate Wednesday, but its actual consideration will go over to the day following. Many Senators believe that the finances of the country will not permit the cancellation of the excess profits tax and other features of the present law as of Jan. 1, 1921, and express the belief that the law in its final shape will provide for this change on Jan. 1, 1922. On the other hand, the President wants this part of the bill retroactive to affect the returns for the year 1921 and will make a fight for his plan. Senator Smoot will make a fight on the floor for his sales tax, but it is predicted after a close poll of the Senate that his plan will reach no serious consideration and that the general plans of revision as outlined by Senator Penrose, chairman of the Finance Committee, will be the essentials in the new law.

AVOID TARIFF TINKERING.

President Harding is said to have requested that no Panama Canal tolls legislation or permanent tariff legislation be attempted until after the disarmanent conference has concluded its work, and there is a disposition on the part of the Senate leaders to do as he wishes in this matter. The agricultural block in the Senate, however, has not subscribed to this program and will only do so on guarantees that some of the special legislation for the farmer is agreed to in advance.

The President has great expectations for the disarmament conference and is giving personal attention to some of the more delicate and disturbing questions, such as the representation at the conference of South China, and will seek through the State Department to find a satisfactory solution to this perplexing problem.

WHOLE OF INDUSTRY ON TRIAL, BRIEGLEB'S VIEW.

Producers Must Clean House to Live; Booze Parties Must Go, Assert Other Local Pastors.

The Arbuckle case was discussed in a number of local pulpits yesterday, the preachers finding in it a comment upon present-day civilization, a test of the reliability of the courts, a proof of the need for motion-picture censorship and an evidence of the departure of the nation from its basic ideals.

Among those who discussed the issue were Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Rev. T. O. Grieves, Rev. Bruce Brown, Rev. Gustav A. Briegleb, Rev. Willsie Martin and Rev. R. P. Shuler. As a prelude to his sermon at Temple Baptist Church last night Dr. Brougher said:

"As the result of a convivial party a terrible tragedy was enacted at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco that resulted in the death of a beautiful young woman and blasted the life hopes of a talented young man. It is to be regretted beyond all possible expression. There is nothing but shame and sadness connected with every feature of it. What an awful calamity it is for young people to so misunderstand the meaning of a good time that in order to gain their desire they must break both the laws of God and man.

LOP-SIDED MORALLY.

"It is a sad commentary upon many of our popular heroes that they are so lop-sided morally that they cannot maintain their balance on the pedestal to which the public has exalted them. This is no reason, however, that all motion pictures should be censored or condemned. The hour has come when the decent men and women in the motion picture business, whether as producer, actor or actress, must take a positive stand against the roughnecks in the profession. They should let it be known so positively that they are against the lawless element that it will not be long before those bringing the business into disrepute will be eliminated from it.

"Only narrow-minded, prejudiced people will condemn all motion-picture people because of the misdeeds of the few. It is the greatest possible injustice to any class to insinuate wrong-doing and malign those who are worthy of highest respect simply because a few, careless of their own good name, are bringing disgrace upon themselves and their profession. I know a great many of the leading motion-picture people, and they rank with the leading business men and women of the city in character and conduct. We should not condemn them because of the Arbuckle party. Moreover, we ought not to condemn Roscoe Arbuckle without a full hearing.

"There are, however, one or two facts admitted that deserve comment. It is conceded that the occasion for the tragedy was the drinking of booze. Roscoe Arbuckle is reported to have said, soon after his incarceration: 'I am through with booze forever. I shall never touch it again.'

BOOZE NO EXCUSE.

"The inexpressibly sad fact is that he ought to have come to that conclusion long ago. Getting drunk is no excuse for other crimes. It is because intoxicating liquor has brought upon the human race such tragedies as the Arbuckle calamity that most of us are opposed to booze in every form.

"I am sorry for Miss Rappe and her friends. I am sorry for Roscoe Arbuckle and his friends. I am extremely sad over the whole disgusting affair. But my sadness and the sadness of millions will never do away with these tragedies until we have eliminated every form of intoxicating drink that robs young men and young women of their manhood and womanhood and finally sends them down to a death of shame and disgrace.

TOO GREAT FOR RUIN.

"The motion-picture business is too great and important an industry to have its service to mankind ruined by booze and rough-necks."

Rev. T. O. Grieves, speaking upon "Nemesis and Americanism" last night at Westlake Methodist Church, said:

"Shocking as was the happening in San Francisco that sent a thrill of horror through the entire American nation, it was not the event itself so much as its causes that compelled attention. It is to be true that the lust of those who have lost all sense of control because of inflamed passions, due to alcohol and immodest womanhood has more than once sent a woman to an early grave, and the world has not known it.

"But it has had no cinema stars to anathematize, therefore, it has taken little notice of the awful tragedies that crowd into the very vitals of every great city's life.

"I leave to the courts the proper adjudication of the guilt or innocence of this man, but I indict society tonight with the 'true bill' that it and it alone is responsible for its crimes against womanhood and possible motherhood.

FOOLING WITH SIN.

"The fact is that society, in the sense of all of us, is fooling with sin and counting it a darling to be fondled. In this case it is the sin of lust. By the breaking down of respect for womanhood, due to indecency in dress and immodesty in actions, the natural protection of our daughters and sisters is lost, and men everywhere are counting woman but a pleasure of a moment, and when through with her they cast her away as a 'moustrous rag,' as the Scripture declares. Say not the world is evil—who is to blame?

"Great wealth was made possible for this man because American ideals have been forgotten. It was only a few months ago that the local papers carried the news that an uncrowned cinema king had purchased his present home 'because of the great stock of liquor that it contained.' Yet in spite of this, and the admitted revelry that has gone on in this home, so-called Christian people have stood in line by the hour in order to pay money to see such a man act. Shame upon us Americans who have so far forgotten the ideals of our fathers."

Dr. Gustav A. Briegleb, president of the Ministerial Union of Los Angeles, in his sermon in the Westlake Presbyterian Church, said:

"There is no more remarkable passage of Scripture than that spoken by Solomon in the twenty-second chapter of the Book of Proverbs and the eighth verse, which reads: 'He that soweth iniquity shall reap calamity.' Such a verse is a splendid commentary upon the tragedy enacted recently in the city of San Francisco. A man by the name of Roscoe Arbuckle, who had risen to great heights of popular favor, having been petted and showered with gold, assumed that he could live his life as a law unto himself. Not that he possessed powers in any way superior to many others. His strength on the screen lay in four things and four only. Dramatic art had nothing to do with his success. Nature endowed him with a grotesquely fat body; he could roll a cigarette with one hand; he could do what the average people call flop, gracefully; he could present a face as blank as a piece of marble. Beyond these four things there was absolutely nothing more that he could call into play. Caruso, upon being praised once for having an audience which paid $5 and $10 to hear him sing, immediately replied: 'Ah, that is nothing. Will they not pay $50 and $100 to see two men pummel each other in the ring?' So that Arbuckle's popularity should never be interpreted as a sign of great dramatic ability.

LIKED HORSE PLAY.

"But the public, and particularly the little folk, liked his horse play. And so prosperity and gold came to him. Few, if any, of the thousands who went to see his pictures ever asked what his moral standards were. It was to be assumed, very naturally, that no man who was sincere could possibly be other than a man of moral integrity in the light of the faith which little children and the public generally placed in Mr. Arbuckle. But, unfortunately, he lacked the poise and balance to hold inviolable nature's best gifts. His magnificent home, his many automobiles, his convival friends, the plaudits of the multitude—these all conspired to make him the victim of the base and the mean. Before he knew it the rainbow of pleasure and lust which he swung out after led him into the land of midnight darkness. His nerves became unsteady, his crown fell from his head, and, giving rein to every passion, he became the perpetrator of all that was bestial and low. Whether he is guilty or not of the charge of killing Virginia Rappe, the revolting picture of his revel at the St. Francis will never be forgotten by the public. A man must remember that as we sow, so we reap. How many there are who think they can sow their wild oats and escape the penalty.

ONLY A PHANTOM.

"Such, chase only a phantom rainbow. Mr. Arbuckle will never again face an American public on the screen. No decent audience would sit through a single reel. As for Virginia Rappe, she is not altogether without blame. She must have known that to visit his rooms was to court danger and disaster. She is gone, however, and the most charitable thing is to let her rest. But the text holds true. Roscoe Arbuckle has sown iniquity and calamity is here not only for himself, but for the motion picture industry. Rumors have been rife for a long time that orgies are common among a certain class of film stars. We well know that women and men cannot allow themselves to be photographed in semi-nude postures without there following in the soul and life of the individuals photographed a gradual breakdown of moral fiber. Once this occurs, there is no limit to moral perversion. Pictures shown recently would indicate that much that is photographed is exceedingly beyond the limits of propriety. The motion picture industry is on trial. We beg the question when we say the banking world was not judged harshly because a man by the name of Stillman was judged guilty of marital misconduct by the public. The fact is that the banking world almost immediately forced Mr. Stillman out of banking circles and this before any jury of law had adjudged him guilty. Up to the present moment no such action has been taken by the motion picture industry. With regard to Mr. Arbuckle the effort seems to be on the part of the industry to hush matters up as far as possible, consonant with the enforcement of the law. The motion picture industry is on trial as never before. America is speaking in no uncertain tones. As Americans, we recognize that what goes on in the studios is of private business and we have no right to enter a man's place of business and inquire into his methods. But Americans do recognize that if a man on Broadway were to ask his employees to assume postures and to dress as do many of the performers in movie productions it would not be long before the police would raid his place of business. We cannot govern the production of the films, but we can determine what shall be shown to our children. This can be done only through a fair and impartial censorship. It does not take an expert in art or mechanical technique to determine what is good and what is bad in a picture. Let one or two pictures be rejected and producers will soon understand that America stands for decency and cleanliness. Mr. Arbuckle has sown iniquity and calamity is at hand not only for himself, but for the industry unless the industry can read the writing on the wall. The hour is at hand when the motion picture people must stop chasing the rainbows with their pot of gold at the end and come down to earth seeking to make an honest endeavor to make the industry what God Almighty intended it to be—the greatest agency next to the school and the pulpit for the elevation of mankind. Unless the industry seeks to realize this ideal it will reap for the sowing of its iniquity only calamity."

JUNGLE MEN OR GENTLEMEN.

Dr. Willsie Martin, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Hollywood, speaking on "Junglemen or Gentlemen," said:

"Forest fires begin in the brush. "The jungle is always and forever a menace to the fine things of life. It is the foe of progress and civilization. It is forever reaching up to tear down to its own level every achievement of man. The jungle drives out the desirable. This is the law that one observes in nature, it is true in finance, politics, industry, business and religion.

"The foe that every group and institution has to fear is the jungle men within it.

"No class is beyond the danger of the bramble and the jungle. There is a potential jungle element in every class and community. The only way you can keep grafters out of politics and the venal out of business is by a continual struggle against the jungle. Compromises or trifle with the jungle man and he will reward you by burning up your best.

"Good citizenship demands that every citizen shall fight the jungle wherever he sees it. Every community owes it to itself to lead in destroying its jungle tendencies.

"The worst foe of any group is the jungle man in it. Is not this true in the church, in big business, in politics and in union labor?

"Recently there appeared an article in The Times on the "Wowser," the sort of a thing there described belonging to the days of dying Rome.

SHEER ANIMALISM.

"Now hard on the heels of spectacle comes this revolting, nauseating tragedy and the offenders are from Hollywood and Los Angeles. That sort of a party is not American, it belongs to the ages of Nero, the depraved. If there had been no deaths it is the sort of a party to make every real American burn his head with shame. It was not art, it was sheer animalism. Only when man become animals do they go further than animals ever go.

"Now, it is up to us in no uncertain terms and in no uncertain fashion to clean our yards of the jungle element. We must not be behind any city in moral shame and must determine against this sort of life that made this tragedy possible. To condemn or apologize for this sort of thing is a sign of ethical obtuseness and moral decay.

"One does not attend such an orgy and remain there unless he has been trained to like that sort of thing. This was not an accidental party, it was planned in a great hotel with the grease for the skids of debauchery at hand. To plan and like such a party suggests training in that sort of life and that something of the sort had been going on for a good while in that coterie.

"I am not here to make a tirade against the screen world and indict them all as culpable. But I am here to say the real foes of the movie industry are not paid agitators, they are roughnecks, the lecherous and depraved, in its own ranks. If the film world expects the confidence and trust of the republic it must be the first to go over the top against the jungle men and women who bring criticism and disgrace upon the whole art. It must go on record against the life that leads to such a disgraceful orgy. It must not condone, compromise or attempt to whitewash the participants in this and other revels in the cinema world.

CITY HOODWINKED.

"The jungle has made its appearance in Los Angeles because we have been hoodwinked by the sophistry that morality was a variable thing depending on one's profession or wealth. The standards of honesty and decency are the same for all. The man who asks exemption from them is a jungle product. This shame has come to us because we have been selfish, self-centered and indifferent to the public good. It has come because we have not been true to our heritage and our ideals.

"If we are to stamp out the jungle we must encourage brotherhood. We must be interested in the common good. We must be neighborly. We must carry our share of the common load. We must keep our ideals true. We must get back to a clean vision of God and a definitely spiritual life.

"To this task of driving jungle men out of our community and national life, we summon the clean and the decent of every craft and creed."

HOUSECLEANING URGED.

Rev. R. P. Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, in his sermon last night, said:

"If the picture producers can only see a little further ahead than the saloon men saw, they will spare this same public opinion the necessity of a like verdict for themselves. I have heard these same producers say that their line was purely commercial, purely a money-making game. If so, it ought to be doomed and damned, and the sooner the better. The movies deal more certainly with the making or unmaking of American character than even the public schools. They do more to build up or tear down idealism than the churches can do with their limited opportunity. If the producers are wise, they will clean up the movies by cleaning up a few hundred actors, and they will clean them up by cleaning them out. Yes, if the producers are wise they will clean out the libertines and harlots from their outfit before the public decides to clean the whole business."

KOKUMINTO TO SEND DELEGATE TO MEET.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—The Kokuminto, or Nationalist party, has decided to send one of its leaders, Representative Etsujiro Uehara, to the United States during the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Pacific problems, with the purpose of advocating friendly relations between America and Japan.

The Seiyu Kai, or Government party, will dispatch several of its members privately to act as advisers to the official delegation.

DISCOVER LONG LIQUOR TRAIL.

Arbuckle Investigation is Growing Wider.

California Millionaires Said to be Angels.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Sensational testimony which exposes a well-biased bootlegging trail extending from Mexico to Los Angeles and San Francisco and involves men prominent in public life, arrived in San Francisco today in the form of signed statements from Fred Fischbach and Lowell Sherman, who were at the fatal wine orgy in Roscoe Arbuckle's room at the St. Francis Hotel.

This much was indicated by Robert H. McCormack, Assistant Attorney-General, in charge of prohibition enforcement, after his perusal of the deposition, which arrived by mail yesterday.

McCormack said that the statements of Sherman, the movie actor, and Fischbach were of such nature that they could not be made public without seriously hindering the investigation of the Arbuckle booze party.

ENTIRELY NEW LIGHT.

The prohibition prosecutor, however, said that the depositions had placed an entirely new light on the matter and will result in an investigation into which all the resources of the Federal government will be called.

"The statements of Sherman and Fischbach differ very materially from recent reports received from Los Angeles by a San Francisco newspaper," McCormack said. "In fact, the depositions have so many 'leads' to other important angles of the case that it will take considerable time to complete the investigation.

"The statements have opened up a big thing in the bootlegging game. We will have to call many witnesses before we get to the bottom of this affair, but we are sure to bag our game in the end.

"We are going to take our time before we expose our hand. The receipt of the depositions has made it necessary to take this course of action."

McCormack stated that his plan of prosecution had been necessarily changed by the Los Angeles statements. He said he would not ask for indictments at this time in the investigation of the source of the Arbuckle liquor supply when the grand jury meets Tuesday.

SCORES OF WITNESSES.

Scores of witnesses will be called by the Federal prosecutor before the indictments will be asked for, he said.

"This Arbuckle affair will be thoroughly investigated," he continued. "Instead of going before the grand jury with demands for piecemeal indictments, we are going to wait until we have finished our case, then we will be able to go ahead with some sense of security."

Investigators sent out by McCormack of the Arbuckle case have turned up so many new angles in the bootlegging industry that extra men will have to be employed if a complete round-up is effected, Federal officials said today.

MILLIONAIRE ANGELS.

It is said that a number of California millionaires, whose names are known the length and breadth of the Pacific Coast, are the "angels" for a gigantic bootlegging ring, which not only employs coastwise ships, but uses the air route to smuggle in rum over the Mexican border.

Although the statement of Al Semnacher, manager for Virginia Rappe, whose death occurred following the wild liquor party and who was a member of the party for a time, was expected yesterday by McCormack, it failed to arrive. Later in the day he was informed that Semnacher had been ordered to appear today before the Los Angeles authorities to give his version of the ill-fated drinking bout. His statement will be mailed at once to San Francisco and probably will be received tomorrow at McCormack's office.

The deposition of Ira Portlouis, the cloak salesman, who was a member of the Arbuckle party, also will be taken at Los Angeles tomorrow.

McCormack spent all day today in his office with several advisors in rounding up the evidence, so far produced in the probe.

among the three brothers was divulged by any of them.

Arbuckle slept well during the night despite the narrowness of his bunk. He passed most of the morning reading the feature sections of the Sunday newspapers, and possibly anticipating the arrival of his brothers, he was in more cheerful frame of mind during the day than at any other time since he was first lodged in the City Prison.

TRY TO SEE COMEDIAN.

Several small groups of people came to the Hall of Justice in the afternoon and asked if they might tour the City Prison. Written all over their faces were the curiosity they attempted to cloak with an indifferent request—they hoped to catch a glimpse of Arbuckle in his cell.

In some cases the visitors were turned away; in a few cases they were permitted to go through the jail.

Other groups of Sunday strollers looked in at the police garage at the Hall of Justice under the impression that the film star's $28,000 automobile was parked there awaiting his release from jail. It was not.

Cars Collide, Twenty Persons Slightly Hurt.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Two surface cars of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company collided on Brooklyn bridge this afternoon. Twenty persons, mostly women and children, were slightly injured. First reports reaching the police stated that several had been killed and that many were seriously injured. All available ambulances were hurried to the bridge, but it was found that their services were not needed. None of the injured was seriously hurt and all went on their way after being given first aid.

"You made no such condition in advance when you came to see me in July. I invited you then to meet me, in the words of my letter, as the chosen leader of the great majority in Southern Ireland and you accepted.

"From the outset of our conversations I told you that we looked to Ireland to own allegiance to the throne and to make her future as a member of the British commonwealth. That was the basis of our proposals, and we cannot alter it.

"The status you now claim in advance for your delegates is in effect a repudiation of that basis. I am prepared to meet your delegates as I met you in July, in the capacity of the chosen spokesmen for your people to discuss the association of Ireland with the British commonwealth.

"My colleagues and I cannot meet them as representatives of a sovereign and independent state without disloyity on our part to the throne and the empire. I must therefore repeat that unless the second paragraph of the letter of the 12th is withdrawn, conference between us is impossible."

TEXT OF PARAGRAPH.

The second paragraph of Mr. De Valera's letter of Sept. 12, follows:

"In this final note we deem it our duty to reaffirm that our position is and can only be as we have defined it. Our nation has formally declared its independence and recognizes itself as a sovereign state. It is only as representatives of that state and of its chosen guardians that we have authority or powers to act on behalf of our people. As regards the principal of government by consent of the governed, in the very nature, it must be the basis of any agreement that will achieve the purpose we have at heart—that is, final reconciliation of our nation with yours. We have suggested no interpretation of that principle, save its every-day interpretation, the sense, for example, in which it was understood by the plain men and women of the world, when on Jan. 5, 1918, you said:

"The settlement of Europe must be based on such grounds of reason and justice as will give some promise of stability. Therefore, it is that we feel that government with the consent of the governed must be the basis of any territorial settlement in this war."

MORE WOMEN QUESTIONED.

District Attorney Revisits Hotel Suite Where Arbuckle Party Was Held.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Several women who have been questioned in connection with the charge of murder on file here against Roscoe Arbuckle, screen comedian, were questioned today by Dist. Atty. Matthew Brady and his assistants.

Until Brady announces the results of today's conference with the women, it will not be known if they will appear as witnesses against Arbuckle. Their names were not made public.

WIFE EXPECTED TODAY.

Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle, known professionally as Minta Durfee, is expected to arrive here late tomorrow from New York to assist in her husband's defense. According to word received here, she stayed in Chicago ten hours last Friday looking up acquaintances of Miss Rappe.

Brady and his aides today visited the suite of rooms in the Hotel St. Francis where Arbuckle's party was held. The furniture, according to Brady, was arranged exactly as it was found when the suite was vacated.

Twin beds in the rooms, which had been remade, were ordered disarranged by Brady. This was done by Mrs. B. M. Delmont, Mrs. Blake and Miss Zoh Prevon, members of the Arbuckle party. Beds were put in the same condition, the women said, as they when they entered to inspect Miss Rappe's cries.

STOPS GUESTS TRIP.

Upon information from Los Angeles that Lowell Sherman, actor, who attended the party, had left that city en route for the East, Dist. Atty. Brady last night telegraphed the police in Salt Lake City and many other cities to intercept and return the actor to San Francisco. Brady simultaneously telegraphed the District Attorney of Los Angeles to locate and place under surveillance Al Semnacher, Fred Fischbach and Ira Portlouis, members of the Arbuckle party.

Brady said he wished to question Semnacher, Fischbach and Portlouis, watched to prevent their leaving the State and getting out of the jurisdiction of the California courts.

reau of the police department, declaring that decidedly favorable results had been obtained in the recovery of stolen cars. He urged that automobile owners co-operate by placing on the body, chassis and engine of their cars private identification marks in the presence of a witness. This, he said, would help offset the changing of numbers and parts of cars by automobile thieves.

The lure of illicit profits in liquor, however, the Chief of Police observed, is not confined only to the imaginative major law violator to whom the spectacular profits of border running appeal. The profits of the trade offer a problem in a time of unemployment such as the present.

"When a man out of work can liquor a day, and can live in comparative ease by disposing of a pint of liquor a day, it is no wonder stills dot the town and the department is confronted with almost hopeless task to break down the sources of the traffic," he said.

Negroes have a drink of their own, Chief did not know the name of it, made the sweeping assertion that 50 per cent of the negroes in Los Angeles drink it. Dan Mosher, a negro, is said to be the originator of this peculiar drink in the city, it is a product of illicit distillation. The only recipe the police department could get was that the cause stuff was distilled with a still, to take a sample to police headquarters. Inferentially, the Chief suggested the job of running down these stills in homes was impossible.

Among the remedies which he declared, he would like to see adopted would be a law permitting confiscation of all the property of the automobile thief, and the owner who is captured. The present schedule of fines is a joke, he declared, and later when the immense profits in the traffic are considered, is a confident they can obtain the desired credits abroad while enhancing the German supply of foreign moneys by increased exports. The government also is planning measures to force German financial branches in Danzig, Holland, Switzerland, etc., to place their resources at the government's disposal. These resources were taken out of Germany in order to escape the government's taxation program, and also as a result of anti-government nationalist propaganda designed to weaken the republic financially and thus help bring about its downfall.

The negotiations now about to be opened are designed, among other things, to meet this problem. The success of this move will depend upon the measure of co-operation that German finance and industry is willing to give to the government.

ORGY OF SPECULATION.

The problem uppermost in the minds of German financial and business men today is how to curb the wild orgy of speculation responsible for the abnormal and irregular operation of the Berlin bourse. It is said that the government is preparing legislation prohibiting speculation in exchange on the bourse, while the board of governors of the bourse is likewise discussing ways and means of curtailing the speculations which is believed to be partly responsible for the well-nigh disastrous collapse of the mark in the last few days.

It is felt that unless the government and the bourse take radical measures to at least curtail speculation Germany will find herself in a desperate economic situation, with the government's plans for meeting allied reparations, as well as the internal budget, shattered.

There is, therefore, close connection between the standing of the mark and the very life of the Wirth government, which has undertaken to carry out the greatest financial obligations in the history of Germany.

FUTURE OF BOURSE.

Until the bourse and the government agree on some definite plan to curtail speculation, it cannot be expected that the bourse will resume regular operations. The probability is that it will remain idle for at least three days a week.

There is one bright spot in the decline of the mark, however. Although it entails grave consequences as far as German exports and domestic business relations are concerned, it does help German exports, which are continuing to show increasing growth. All export industries such as dyes, chemicals and paper are evincing constant improvement. Automobile sales also are standing up strong in export demand. Little fear is expressed for the Silesian votes stocks, even in case the Silesian decision is unfavorable to Germany. Several important industrial combinations are now in progress in Silesia preparatory to such an eventuality.

STEAL RELIEF SUPPLIES.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REVAL, Sept. 18.—Soviet stevedores detailed to unload the first ship arriving in Petrograd with American foodstuffs did not attempt to hide their pilferings of supplies, according to Capt. Ole Olson of the Danish steamer Phoenix, which is now in quarantine at Reval.

The stevedores, relates the captain, used hooks in handling the sugar, rice and flour sacks, ripping them open, and also they broke open cases of milk—all before the eyes of American relief administration officials superintending the discharge of the cargo.

While attempting to prevent looting one American was threatened by the workers, who declared several strikes daily, using the slightest pretense, continued the captain. On one occasion the same American took away the hooks to prevent the ripping of more sacks, for which the workers threatened to throw him overboard, and then they declared a strike until the hooks were returned.

CAPTAIN IS POWERLESS.

Capt. Olson said that he was powerless to interfere because the ship's crew numbered sixteen, while there were 150 Russians.

"When Sunday arrived," declared the captain, "the workers found that only cases of milk remained to be unloaded, so they refused to work. When they were finally persuaded to finish the job they began to break open more cases.

EMPTY CASES FOUND.

"When the ship was unloaded sixteen empty cases were found in the hold. The men appeared to be barely able to lift them during the day and they found many excuses for going ashore. We noticed they had tied their trousers around their ankles and had filled their pants legs with rice, sugar, cocoa and flour. Walking along the docks, we saw tiny streams of sugar, etc., trickling from the holes in their trousers.

"We never had more than six soldiers for guards and they stole as much as the stevedores. It was difficult to be angry with them, for they looked to be half-starved."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Claiming that there are from 600,000 to 700,000 veterans of the World War out of work, the American Legion, through its national legislative committee, has issued an appeal to employers throughout the country "to loosen their business strings, lend their vision and make jobs for the men who kept American business safe from a German indemnity."

The Legion's appeal says a careful study made by the organization in sixteen States indicates there are 150,000 veterans out of employment in Pennsylvania, 100,000 in New York, 35,000 in Illinois, 20,000 in Massachusetts, 10,000 in Minnesota, 7500 in Washington, 2000 in Arizona and from 5000 to 20,000 in all the remaining sixteen States under survey.

STRIPPING TREASURIES.

It says that in a number of States veterans' relief laws, originally enacted to help needy Civil War veterans and amended to apply to World War veterans, are enabling unemployed ex-service men to obtain the bare necessities of life; that in other States where no such legislation has been passed American Legion posts are stripping their treasuries of their resources "to keep bread in the mouths and clothes on the backs of needy comrades."

Continuing, the statement says:

JOBLESS WALK STREETS.

"Today more American veterans than fought at St. Mihiel, more American veterans than composed the First American Army, compose America's army of the unemployed. "Six hundred thousand jobless veterans are walking the streets of our towns and cities wondering where the next meal is to come from.

"The American Legion believes that, had Congress passed the adjusted compensation bill, the present serious condition would never have come about, at least not for the veterans of the war. And it likewise believes that, should Congress immediately upon reconvening pass the relief bill, the condition would be greatly alleviated."

STEAMER IN COLLISION IS LEAKING BADLY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The freight steamer Malden, bound for Boston from Norfolk, was in collision late last night with the freighter Janancy ten miles off Montauk Point, Long Island, and was leaking badly, according to a radio message intercepted here last night. The message added there was little hope of keeping the vessel afloat.

The Malden carried a crew of forty-six and registers 5045 gross tons.

The Jonancy was bound from Boston for Norfolk. She has a crew of thirty-six and registers 2289 gross tons.

The Cunard liner Saxonio reported by wireless that she was thirty miles from the Malden and was rushing to her assistance. The steamship New Britain is also heading toward the distressed vessel.

Crissy Aviation Field Opened.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Crissy Field, the Army's new $2,000,000 aviation field at the Presidio here, was formally opened last night. Army planes, despite a drizzling rain, circled the field.

The World Today

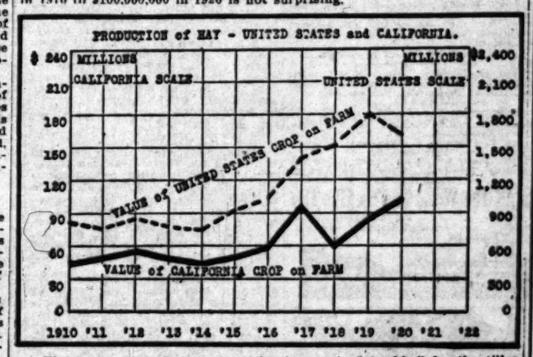
This is one of a series of articles on California's products compiled by the Research Department of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank.

That the production of tame hay in the United States has represented since 1916 an annual value in excess of a billion dollars is not generally known. The accompanying chart shows graphically the large money value of this crop for both the United States and California.

The year 1919 represented the greatest money value for the entire United States, when the value on the farms was $1,840,000,000. For California the greatest revenue was realized in 1920—the value on the farms being $100,000,000, or one-sixteenth of the total value for the United States.

The chart shows the steady increase in the value of this crop to California and is in contradiction to the general belief that California is almost solely a fruit raising State. Further, at the present time, practically all of this hay is consumed within the State with the exception of some shipments by water to New York. The only hay exported is alfalfa.

Alfalfa growing has been established upon a scientific basis and exports of this crop may be expected to steadily increase. California, especially Southern California, is particularly favored in the growing of this crop inasmuch as the long period of warm weather permits of an extra cutting of the crop. In view of this, an increase in value from $42,163,000 in 1910 to $100,000,000 in 1920 is not surprising.



The forage plant known as alfalfa is a main "stand-by" for the tiller of the soil in the great Southwest, and, indeed, throughout the irrigated regions of the United States, which extend from near the Canadian line to the frontier of Mexico. Alfalfa is good for horses, beef cattle, dairy cows, sheep, swine and chickens, and it has also of late been shown to be, when properly prepared, a nutritious and palatable food for man.

In England and throughout Western Europe alfalfa is called "Lucerne." The name "Lucerne" shows that it must have come to England from Switzerland. However, it did not originate there. Like so many of our useful and valuable horticultural products, alfalfa came originally from the southwestern part of Central Asia. The Persians were apparently the first nation to grow this plant. They took it with them when they invaded Greece about 490 B.C. to provide forage for their cavalry. Virgil and Pliny gave good instructions for the handling of alfalfa fields. The Mocrs introduced alfalfa into Spain about 800 A.D. and the Spaniards introduced it into Mexico and South America during the sixteenth century. It was not until 1854, when it was taken to San Francisco from Chile, that its rapid extension over the irrigated sections of the western States commenced. Its culture has since been extended to many of the non-irrigated sections of the West. Eastward of the 96th meridian its culture has been less successful.

The European name "Lucerne" was formerly applied to the plant in the eastern part of the United States, and in Utah, but this name has practically given way to the name "alfalfa," under which it was introduced by the Spaniards.

Alfalfa is in several respects a remarkable plant. One of its most noted characteristics is its long tap root, often extending 15 or more feet into the soil. This enables the plant to reach stores of plant food in the soil which cannot be secured by the ordinary shallow-rooted field crops. Alfalfa has adapted itself to nearly every soil and climate.

Southern California, where water can be obtained for irrigation, is specially adapted to the growth of alfalfa. Consequently, it has become one of the products of this section.

PROFITEERING BANKS SCORED.

banks in the Kansas City district have been very heavy borrowers during the past year, another one-third have been only moderate borrowers, while the remainder have not borrowed at all. It is possible that the Federal reserve bank may have called the attention of some of the larger borrowers to the advisability of reducing their discount lines at the Federal reserve bank, but in no case has the Federal reserve bank undertaken to say to a member bank just what particular loans it should call or ask be reduced.

BANKING PSYCHOLOGY.

"I was formerly in the banking business myself and know something of banking psychology. Banks as a rule do not like to admit to customers that they are short of loanable funds nor do they like to stir up enmity in declining to make loans or in asking for reductions.

"I know that in many cases they have found the Federal reserve bank or the Federal Reserve Board a convenient buffer and have stated to borrowers or would-be borrowers that they would like to grant extensions asked for or to make loans desired, but that the Federal reserve would not permit it.

"Such a procedure has a tendency to relieve the situation as far as the local bank is concerned, but it is not altogether fair to the Federal reserve system. The Federal Reserve Board has repeatedly issued public statements calling the attention of the banks of the country to the importance of granting adequate credits to farmers and cattlemen, and while the Federal Reserve Board is not a central bank and cannot discount any paper itself, it is assured by all Federal reserve banks that they are ready to extend liberal accommodations to all member banks in the way of rediscounting eligible paper."

Gov. Harding says it is for the member banks primarily and the reserve banks secondarily to determine whether farmers' warehouse receipts are acceptable as the basis of loans and rediscounts.

SHOWS PROFITEERING.

Showing up the profiteering by banks or rediscounts Gov. Harding instanced 111 notes aggregating $1,021,835 discounted at 5 per cent for twenty-one banks by the Omaha reserve bank branch on September 9. On fifty-two of these notes the banks had charged the borrowers 10 per cent, the Nebraska maximum, twenty-one notes at 9 per cent, two at 8½ per cent, fourteen at 8 per cent, thirteen at 7½ per cent, five at 7 per cent, two at 6½ per cent and two at 6 per cent.

"Where a bank in Nebraska," says Gov. Harding, "is able to rediscount at the Federal reserve bank at 6 per cent per annum paper which it has taken from its customer at 10 per cent, the profit is 66 2-3 per cent. If the paper is taken at 9 per cent the profit is 50 per cent, or if at 8 per cent the profit is 33 1-3 per cent.

"I sincerely hope that banks generally will recognize the fact that by charging lower rates of interest they would be building up their own communities and would in the long run reap greater profit themselves than would be the case if they should continue to charge all the law allowed—all the traffic will bear.

"The abrogation of the progressive rate has made it possible for banks in Nebraska to make a large percentage of profit on their rediscount transactions with the Federal reserve bank, but the daily statements made to the board do not indicate that the Nebraska banks, as a rule, have shared this advantage with their borrowers. Is there any reason to believe that in case the discount rate at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City should be further reduced the Nebraska banks would give their customers lower rates than they do at present?"

MESSAGES FROM MARS EXPECTED.

Marconi Expert Gives Views on Mysterious Signals.

Believes Radio Wizard Working on Experiment.

Declares Next Few Years Will See Great Strides.

BY EDWARD MARSHALL.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—"We shall talk to Mars, I think."

This was the flat statement of J. C. H. Macbeth, Marconi expert and probably greatest compiler of telegraphic codes the world ever has known, recently arrived in the United States from Europe.

"It is not inconceivable that many of humanity's greatest problems may be solved by the tremendous accession of knowledge which will come from communication with the intelligence of a planet thousands of times older than our own and, therefore, if inhabited, peopled by a race presumably of a mental development far beyond that of the best minds of the earth."

MYSTERIOUS SIGNALS.

Macbeth is fresh from Marconi House, in London, where the doings of the great inventor are continually under intimate discussion. There is little skepticism with regard to his accuracy in identifying as having come from Mars the mysterious signals received and, on Jan. 20, 1920, announced in an interview with Signor Marconi. Macbeth has no doubts whatsoever.

A "hard-headed Scotsman, no dreamer, but notably successful as a business man, with large interests in many portions of the world, including the Straits Settlements, he is not a man to be misled by madcap theories. Furthermore, he is one of the world's most accomplished lay experts in wireless and the greatest living expert in telegraphic codes, being the author of the Marconi code system, devised to cut in half the cost of telegraphic communication, both as regards time and money.

He knows this world well, whether or not he knows the other planets, for he has traveled eight times around it; and he is as familiar as anyone except the great inventor himself with what already has been done concerning the matter of the supposed interplanetary signals.

FASCINATING STORY.

The original interview with Signor Marconi, in which he for the first time told the fascinating story of the "mystery messages which had reached his instruments and seemed to come from interstellar space, I showed to both Mr. Edison and Mr. Tesla before publication, and both agreed that tremendous vistas might have been opened up, neither being willing then to declare the great Italian's theory unscientific or absurd. Since then, Mr. Tesla and some other experts have suggested that the "signals" may have been not what they seemed, but "wireless undertones."

"Certainly," said Macbeth, "the situation as it stands, with Signor Marconi on his wonderfully equipped yacht, the Elettra, in the Mediterranean, where he is likely to go when he wants to work wholly uninterrupted by outside influences, is one of the most interesting which could be imagined. I do not know that he is carrying out new experiments with regard to interplanetary communication, but if he were he would tell no one of it till he had results.

TESLA'S SUGGESTION.

"There was nothing novel in the thought that Mars was trying to send signals to the earth. Fourteen or fifteen years before Marconi made the suggestion, Nikola Tesla had declared a similar belief.

"The Church of England is considering the matter. At the modern churchman's congress held August 11, at Cambridge, a most important meeting, Canon E. W. Barnes declared it to be most improbable that the conditions of temperature and light in numerous other planets are not and never have been favorable to life and that he regarded it as not unlikely that on them the living cell had led to the evolution of animals carrying spiritual consciousness.

"Those 'experts' who explain the long waves which Signor Marconi has declared may be coming to the earth from Mars as 'wireless undertones' caused by interference from high-power stations here on earth, have formed a theory which I think untenable.

"I do not think that 'undertones,' 'overtones' or irregularities of whatever kind could transform themselves into such enormous wavelengths, of such steadiness, regularity and duration as mark those mysterious manifestations.

"I have not the slightest hesitation in declaring that I believe them to be signals sent through interplanetary space.

"Any fair-minded man of well-balanced vision must prefer the carefully considered opinions of Marconi who possesses unrivaled facilities for research and experiment, to the casually expressed conclusions of anonymous 'experts.'

"Marconi is the pioneer. He has given the world a new, practical method of communication. Scarcely any other human individual has rendered to humanity so great a service.

"He continually has surprised the scientific world. At a time when all the other scientists had been experimenting stumblingly in 'atmospherics' Marconi came back from a Mediterranean cruise smiling, having accomplished all that others had been trying to do. He will surprise the world again and many times."

SIR GILBERT PARKER EULOGIZES PICTURES.

EXPRESSES ENTHUSIASM FOR FILMS; DECLARES CINEMA EDUCATIONAL FACTOR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Sir Gilbert Parker, the novelist, after a year in Los Angeles, in connection with the picturization of some of his novels, expressed his enthusiasm in an interview yesterday for the motion-picture business.

He depreciated the hue and cry which has arisen in some quarters against the whole industry during the last few days.

"I think that critics do not approach the motion-picture business fairly," he said. "They expect in ten years—for after all, it is not more than ten years since the time of the nickelodeons—to find an art fully developed; nevertheless the whole movement of the film world has been upward during that time.

"It must not be forgotten that the great play goes to small places with third-rate actors and third-rate scenery, but the great film goes with its great actors and actresses, its first-rate scenery and its first-rate furnishings to the smallest places where there never was a theater and teaches men, as books could never do, even if they could read them.

"For myself, I always believed that it would be to the advantage of every government to establish films in the day schools."

He said that the film was a great champion of the cause of temperance, particularly in England, where the motion pictures were depriving the public houses of their patronage.

NO FEAR OF STRIKE, SAYS UNION OFFICIAL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CEDAR RAPIDS (Iowa) Sept. 18.—L. E. Sheppard, president of the railroad conductors, on his return here today, declared that if the members of the Big Four brotherhoods turned down the wage award of the Railroad Wage Board it would not necessarily mean a general strike.

Mr. Sheppard was shown a dispatch from Warren Stone, head of the locomotive engineers, who was reported to have said that an overwhelming majority of the brotherhood members would vote for a strike rather than accept a wage reduction. Mr. Sheppard said he did not think such alarming statements should be made. He said there would be further negotiations with the roads after the result of the vote was known. The vote will be canvassed on October 10, probably in Chicago, Mr. Sheppard said.

WOMAN PREACHER STIRS HARVARD.

Conducts Chapel Service for First Time in History of University.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Sept. 18.—Dr. Rowena Morse Mann, minister of the Third Unitarian Church in Chicago, the first woman to receive a degree from the University of Jena in Germany, has attained a new distinction.

When she appeared in the pulpit of Appleton Chapel at Harvard University to preach to the students of the summer school she broke Harvard tradition. Never before in the nearly 300 years of the institution's history has a woman conducted chapel services.

ARGENTINA IS STIRRED OVER COMING ELECTION.

TREMENDOUS EFFORT MADE TO OVERTHROW THE RADICALS, NOW IN CONTROL.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27.—With the election that is to choose the President of Argentina for the next six years only eight months off, political activity is becoming marked throughout the country, and there is much speculation as to who will be the nominees of President Yrigoyen's party, the Radical party and the opposition.

The law prevents the President himself from being re-elected, but it is generally conceded that President Yrigoyen desires to see himself succeeded by one of his faithful supporters so that his policies may be continued.

Among those who are most often mentioned for carrying the standard of his party are Dr. L. J. Cantilo, the present Mayor of Buenos Aires, and Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon, the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Dr. Lisandro de la Torre, who was the principal candidate opposing President Yrigoyen in the election in 1916, and who has long been a political opponent of the President, having once fought a duel with him, is often mentioned as the probable chief of the opposition during the next campaign.

The opposition to the Radical party in Argentina is at present split up into many sections, including the Socialists, Progressive Democrats, Conservatives and the National Civic Union, and attempts are now being made to bring about an understanding between them in order to defeat the present administration.

In the city of Buenos Aires, which holds approximately 25 per cent of the voting population of the country, the Progressive Democrats and the Socialists are strong, while in the various provinces the opposition is divided between different groups. The Radical party has a national organization.

Six years ago the Radical party came into power for the first time following changes in the voting law providing compulsory and secret balloting.

DEATH WINS GAME WITH AGED GAMBLER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—William McKay was 65 years old and for many years has made a more or less precarious living by gambling anywhere from San Francisco to New York and even in Europe. He had often declared his belief that a man should die when he reached the age of 65. A few days ago he passed this mark. An inventory of his worldly goods showed he was worth exactly 73 cents, besides his poor clothing. He decided to let the cards determine whether he should continue the game or quit. He locked the door of his room in a rooming-house and dealt the cards. If it came red, the game would go; if black, it was finished.

When his landlady forced the door of his room she saw a pack of cards on the table, with the eight of spades face up. On the floor lay McKay, dead, his throat cut with a razor.

SECRET ARSENAL FOUND IN VOLCANO'S CRATER.

VALUABLE HISTORIC DATA OF IMPORTANCE TO HAWAII AVAILABLE BY ACCIDENT.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

HONOLULU, (T. H.) Sept. 5.—(By Mail.)—The weapon storehouse in the immense crater of extinct Haleakala, where the natives of Maui many years ago made their last stand against the all-conquering king of Hawaii, has been discovered, according to Emil A. Berndt, a business man of Honolulu.

Only two others share the secret, and it is to be kept until a expert intendent of the Hawaii National Park is appointed, who can take steps to preserve the treasures of the cave.

The crater of the old volcano was the stronghold of the islanders of Maui. On its brink they had built many little fortresses and in a cave in its recesses they maintained their arsenal. Their defenses, however, proved futile against the advance of Kamehameha the Great, who united the archipelago in the kingdom of Hawaii and became its first ruler.

In the decades that have since elapsed, many of the "pill boxes" on the crater's lips have been discovered and robbed of weapons found beneath their stone floors.

Mr. Berndt says each of the three white men with knowledge of the cave stumbled across it while wandering aimlessly about after losing the way in the crater. He reports that it contains crude stone hatchets, immense quantities of slingshot stones, spear heads and other implements of ancient warfare.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE SUPPORTING MISSIONS.

REPORT OF SOCIETY REVEALS THEIR ACTIVITIES IN NEARLY ALL PARTS OF WORLD.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—How extensive is the work promoted by American women in foreign missionary fields is indicated in a report of activities of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which will be made at a meeting of its general executive committee at Wichita, Kan., October 25 to November 4.

The society has 420 missionaries in India, Burma, Malaysia, the Netherlands, Indies, Philippine Islands, China, Korea, Japan, Africa, Mexico, South America, Italy, Bulgaria and France, according to this report.

It supports 994 boarding schools, 1453 day schools, three colleges departments and nine English schools. It furnishes literature in nine languages besides English. It takes care of 309,569 patients in hospitals and dispensaries.

Its property in foreign lands is valued at $3,215,475.

Members of the society in the United States number 328,950, the report continues, while auxiliary societies bring this up to a total of 539,612. Last year's contributions ran over $2,600,000.

TURK NATIONALISTS ARRIVE IN GENEVA.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—Representatives of Mustapha Kemal Pasha have arrived in Geneva to handle the Turkish Nationalist affairs in the subject of League intervention to end the war in Asia Minor is introduced in the Assembly. The Persian delegate is expected to speak in favor of Turkey on the floor as he touched the subject in a speech last week on Armenia. The Greeks are not able to find any one willing to bring up before the League the subject of intervention on behalf of Greece.

Ump Byron Has Fun Bouncing Athletes from Fray.

BY HERBERT A. WILLIAMS.

The Angels were caught napping yesterday. While they were still asleep Sacramento sneaked out and tied them for first place by winning a morning ball game.

Then Killefer's athletes, hearing the alarm clock go off, dragged themselves out of bed and back into first place by belting the Tigers, 14 to 3, in the afternoon.

The combined efforts of Tony Faeth, Slim Love and Duke Cross were not sufficiently massive to hold the Angels, while the Tigers were short of their tripe. In the sixth, Faeth was driven to despair by the Angels, dragged out of the box by Essick and chased clear out of the park by Byron. He was more pursued than Roy Gardner. Three runs in that inning with the aid of an error, put the Angels way out in front, and Tony slammed the ball on the ground to show what he thought of these things. It was here that Essick gave him the finger. The waffle was still wavering, and Byron made it good by bouncing Tony clear out of the place. The waffle hasn't been thoroughly assimilated by the eighth, and Byron passed Zeider out of the park for beefing about a strike. Cross then sent Carl Sawyer to second base, figuring Byron would have compassion on a cripple. Then he sent Duke Cross in to pitch on the theory that he could get along with Byron, as both of them are of royal lineage, but this didn't prevent Los Angeles from battling the Duke even more bow-legged than he naturally is. Six runs in the eighth.

PETE HOMES.

George Lyons was so wild that they were spelling his name Lions, but not until the fourth did Red Killefer dare to be a Daniel and drag him out. Art Reinhart then went in and held all the Tigers except P. Samson Schneider, who busted a homer in the fifth. Pete had all the home-run territory to himself, nobody being on.

The umps had no real interruption. Between games, instead of crawling into their hole as becomes those who have been chastened, they tried to sit in the grand stand like regular human beings. A youngster couldn't resist growling Cozier with a cushion, and Jake is said to have grabbed his assailant. This made him unpopular, and with Byron, he was made the target of a dozen or more cushions at a nickel a throw. In every way they were made to feel unwelcome, and with umbrages from the club attaches made their way to the open field, where there is no fear and fewer favors.

A HANDKERCHIEF!

There have been times when we have been forced to take issue with Lord William Byron from a safe distance, but we seize this occasion to commend him. Mr. Byron now carries a white handkerchief in his left-pants pocket. Formerly, when he had nothing else to do, he would pull out his pewter watch, and that meant trouble for somebody else. Now, when things are dull, he drags out the handkerchief and wipes his nose while dusting the plate with a brush. Once yesterday he lost his presence of mind, wiping the plate with his handkerchief and dusting off his nose with the brush. However, the general results were satisfactory. He is keeping the game as clean as it is possible without resorting to Rinso.

In the second game, Los Angeles changed the usual procedure by cracking in the first inning, instead of waiting until the ninth. Possibly the Angels had a hunch there wouldn't be any ninth, a time limit having been placed on the pastime to enable them to grab a train for Seattle.

When the Tigers with a blast of hitting, and two helpful errors, spotted Wheezer Dell to four runs in the first frame, everybody except the violently insane realized that the jig was up. Smith's single, an error by Thomas, McAuley's low throw and a triple by Schneider did the early business. Then in the third, Truck Hannah socked a homer into Main street and flat-footed around the vacant bases. Lefty Thomas was lifted in the fourth when Dell opened with a double, and he failed to intercept the throw-in. Bugs Soria then took his stand on the mound, and thousands of brown derbies were lifted in honor of the Watsonville wizard. Smith spanked Soria for a single, scoring Dell, and took third on a safety by Chadbourne, scoring on Edington's sacrifice fly to Crawford. The decision was close, and during the argument Chadbourne started for second. Soria wrenched the ball from Baldwin's mitt, and heaved through to McCabe, barely missing Jake Croter's chin, which could have the point of it knocked off without spoiling his face. Chad then swiped third, and scored on an out.

CALLS TIME.

Time was up by the end of the seventh, and Byron had the satisfaction of calling a game and not arguing the antagonism of press and pulpit. In fact, no denunciations would have been hurled at Mr. Byron had he called it at the end of the first.

This was only the second time during the series that Mr. Byron had pulled out his pewter watch except to time himself from the hotel lobby to the dining-room. Where Bill makes his time is in taking the sharp turn into the dining-room without skidding.

Reports from the north that rain had injured the raisin crop tended to cast a pall of sorrow over the home brewers present. Looks bad for those who had looked forward

MARIE CURTIS WINS MILE RACE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAPITOLA (Cal.) Sept. 18.—Miss Marie Curtis of the Los Angeles Athletic Club won the Pacific Coast Association mile race for women here today over a large field of contestants. Her time was 32m. 52⅘s. Miss Florence Friesenhausen, San Francisco, winner of the mile race last year, placed second; Eleanor O'Brien, Oakland, third; Miss M. Hammerstein, Los Angeles Athletic Club, fourth, and Olga Chapital, San Francisco, fifth.

The 50-yard dash for men was won by Cliff Stowe, Santa Cruz, in 27⅘s. F. Perez, Santa Cruz, was second, and Stall, San Francisco, third.

Oxy Athlete Can Run Legs Off a Telegram.

Here we have Johnny Spangler, one of the fastest quarter-milers on the Coast. The Santa Ana boy also is something of a football player, performing well on the Oxy "Frosh" eleven last year. Under the clever tutelage of "Timber Wolf" Joe Pipal he is expected to develop into a whiz of a player.

BOBBY JONES BEST DRIVER.

Has An Average of Three Longest Swats in Special Golf Competition in St. Louis.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—The annual competition for the American golfer trophy, a driving competition and an approaching and putting contest gave the sixty-four players who qualified in the preliminary round of the national amateur golf championship a chance to limber up before the thirty-six-hole qualifying round tomorrow, which will determine the thirty-two players eligible to batter down for the title.

The trophy is a silver club, to which is attached the names of the winners engraved on a silver golf ball. This year's ball will be inscribed with the names of Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford of the Woodland club of Boston, who head with a best ball of 35-34—69, one stroke ahead of John G. Anderson and Jesse Sweetzer of Siwanoy, N. Y., who had 34-36—70.

BOB HUNTER SCORES.

The driving contest, which was an innovation at the national event, proved a big attraction in the afternoon of a big gallery lining the side of the polo grounds. The fairway was seventy yards wide, but the rain overnight and a switch in the breeze were a bar to any unusual distances. Bobby Jones of Atlanta, with an average of 222 for his three drives, took first prize, Robert Hunter of the Millwick club, Pasadena, and W. F. McPhil of Boston tying for second place with 220. Albert Seckel of Chicago was fourth with 218, Rudolph Wilhelm of Portland getting 217, with Bob Gardner next.

Gardner, after getting 218 yards on the first shot and half-topping his second effort for 177, borrowed Ouimet's driver, sending out a screamer which stopped 248 yards from the tee and was the longest hit of the afternoon. Jess Guilford, who is recognized as one of the longest hitters in the East, opened with 238 yards, but sent his second out of bounds, which nullified his final shot of 237 yards.

Several other strong hitters got a ball across the line. Following the driving event there was an approaching contest, each player shooting one ball from 100, 75 and 50 yards, the greens having circles of three, six and nine yards in diameter on each of them.

H. R. Wendel of Memphis and Clark Spiers of Seattle tied with a total of six, and in the play-off the latter won by a count of 3 to 0, Wendel not getting a ball in the circles.

COURSE IS SLOW.

Heavy rain on Saturday night left the course slow and, as today was cloudy, the sixty-four players tomorrow probably will face better conditions, which call for long carries and long second shots at a number of the holes. The greens undoubtedly will be slower than in the preliminary round.

Over the thirty-six-hole route the veteran campaigners should come through without much difficulty, but those who just squeezed under the wire on Saturday are in for a strenuous day.

The western players predominate with a total of forty-one, the eastern section having eleven representatives, the South ten, while Great Britain has two survivors in Will Hunter, the British amateur champion, and T. D. Armour of Scotland. As is customary, there was much speculation today as to the probable total which will gain entrance to the charmed circle of thirty-two. On Saturday it took a total of eighty to get into the first thirty-two places, making it look as if it will require a score of 160 or better to qualify tomorrow. Much, however, depends on the weather conditions, which tonight looked settled, while the temperature has fallen and the air was less humid.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Science has discovered why Babe Ruth is the greatest home-run hitter in the history of baseball. Furthermore, it has found that the Bambino could surpass every record he has made so far by eliminating his present waste of energy.

The experiments on the famous sultan of swat were conducted by two Columbia University professors—Albert Johnson, M.A., and Joseph Holmes, M.A.—of the psychological research department; and Hugh S. Fullerton, writing in Popular Science Monthly for October, describes how they measured Ruth's bodily efficiency, his intelligence, as demonstrated by quickness of understanding, and his co-ordination of eye, brain, nerves and muscle.

In detail the writer tells of a series of fascinating tests, which showed in brief that:

"Ruth is 98 per cent efficient, as compared with the human average of 50 per cent.

"His eyes are about 12 per cent faster than those of the average human being.

"His ears function at least 10 per cent faster than those of the ordinary man."

Even more interesting than these facts is the reported discovery of how, by breathing scientifically, Babe might hit the ball much harder and farther than he does.

"Baseball employs hundreds of scouts to explore the country and discover baseball talent," concludes Mr. Fullerton. "These scouts are known as 'ivory hunters.' If baseball owners take the hint from the Ruth experiments, they will organize a clinic, submit candidates to the tests undergone by Ruth, and discover whether or not other Ruths exist."

The scientific ivory-hunters, dissecting the home-run king, found brain instead of bone, and showed how little mere luck or even mere hitting strength has to do with his phenomenal record.

JINX PURSUES OCCIDENTAL.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Fate laid hard and ruthless hands on Occidental's football hopes last week. Jean Cory, the Tigers' best lineman in 1920 and unanimously selected as All-Southern California guard, packed up and stole away to the University of California. News of his departure leaked out last night.

Loss of Cory comes as a big shock to the Tigers. He had been counted as one of the main cogs in the Orange and Black rush line. Early in the summer he intimated that he would like to attend the State University, but when, three weeks after the opening at Berkeley he was at Balboa Beach and stated he intended to return to Occidental, Cory was counted on like money in the bank.

This blasts another large hole in the Tiger line that was to have been. One side was shattered when Pearson, guard, and Hitch, tackle, graduated last June. Corey was one of the best guards ever developed in Southern California. He came to Occidental from Pasadena High and captained the "frosh" team in 1919, which went through the season undefeated save for the squabble with U.S.C., which was won by the Trojans 14 to 7 on a sloppy field. Cory weights 190 pounds, and is all beef and muscle. There is no reason why he shouldn't prove a valuable adjunct to the Bears next fall.

MANY LOST.

Counting the noses, who will be missing from the Tiger campus has been going on a pace. Beside Cory, Pearson and Hitch, Oxy will have to struggle along without the services of Curtis, halfback; Holly Fulton, fullback and the discovery of the 1920 season; Davidson, end; Turman Johnson, sub center.

Pauley, sub tackle, will also be missing. He has entered the University of California.

Letter men who will return to college are powers, center; Jones, tackle; Long and Brotte, ends; Betts and Roberts, halfbacks; Norton, quarterback. That constitutes the sum and substance of available varsity material for Brother Joe Pipal to work with. Unless he changes his mind overnight "Timber Wolf" will give the boys the eagle eye this afternoon.

A ray of substance is seen in the return of Garey, halfback, on the pea-green eleven of 1919. He was married last year, and stayed out of college. He is a terribly fast man, having a record of 10⅘s. flat in the hundred, and is a chunky specimen capable of ripping orifices in almost any old line. He weighs 180 pounds stripped.

PEAGREEN STARS.

Available from the "frosh" team of last season will be Ronius, tackle and McCloskey, guard; John Powers, end; Cliff Argus, end; "Wahr" Walker, halfback, Johnny Spangler, halfback, and young Pimmy Norton, end, brother of the varsity Vic.

Ronius hails from Long Beach and is a robust young man who can give any tackle a very interesting afternoon. Cliff Argus is the junior national A.A.U. broad jump champion, as every one knows, but is something of a football player besides. Argus has been growing and scales around the 176 pound mark.

In the backfield Johnny Spangler is the best contributions, though Walker is a good defensive man and is known as a "fighting fool." Spangler is noted chiefly for his speed, and has a record of about 50⅘ flat in the quarter-mile run.

On a team of the type Pipal has been noted for turning out, speed will be a tremendous asset. Folks who remember the Sam McClung-Sid Foster days can attest to that. Pipal will have four sprinters to work with—Spangler, Argus, Garey and John Powers, and it is a safe bet that he rims up something with his concourse of fairy feets with which to outfox the opposition.

NORWALK BOWS TO ALEXANDER GIANTS.

COUNTY FAIR WILL HAVE FLASHY CARD.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HANFORD, Sept. 18.—The Kings County Fair Association has announced the line-up for the big card of boxing matches which will be featured as an evening attraction of fair week on Thursday, September 22, at 8 p.m. A special arena will be built in front of the grand stand at the race track, and fans from all parts of the valley will be out to see one of the best cards which has ever been offered in this section.

The events will be as follows:

Jack Clay of Fresno vs. Eddie Landon of Oakland, 120 pounds, main event.

Charlie Ross of Fresno vs. Young Murphy of Oakland, 120 pounds.

Raymond Sue of Newman, who is officiating as matchmaker for the Fair Association, writes:

"This is the best and most expensive talent I can get. Every man on the card has boxed main events with the exception of MacArel—and he is good."

E. L. Jewett will referee.

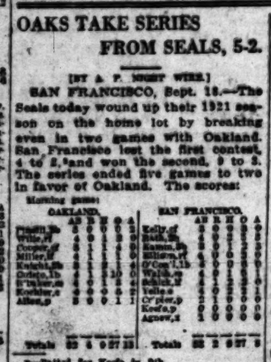
OAKS TAKE SERIES FROM SEALS, 5-2.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—The Seals today wound up their 1921 season on the home lot by breaking even in two games with Oakland. San Francisco lost the first contest, 4 to 2, and won the second, 9 to 5. The series ended five games to two in favor of Oakland. The scores:

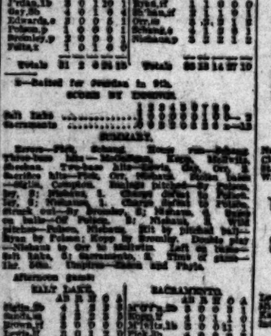


BEES TAKE SERIES FROM SACRAMENTO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18.—Salt Lake took the odd game of the series from Sacramento this afternoon, 4 to 3, when the two-run lead of the Solons was eaten up by the Bees off the offerings of Bill Prough. Compton and Strand got home runs.

In the morning game, Sacramento took advantage of Poison's wildness by hitting opportunely and driving him from the box in less than four innings. The score was 13 to 2. Schang hit a home run.



FORT WORTH COPS TEXAS LEAGUE RAG.

NOTRE DAME HAS TOUGH ROW TO HOE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NOTRE DAME (Ind.) Sept. 18.—Fully aware of the severity of the 1921 Notre Dame football schedule and the keen loss suffered by the death of George Gipp, all-American, and the graduation of five other regulars, Brandy, Coughlin and Smith all-Western, and Hayes and Barry three-year monogram men, the opening practice of the season at Notre Dame last Thursday was marked by a spirit of determination on the part of both the players and Coaches Rockne and Halas.

To be ready for the opening game with Kalamazoo, Coach Rockne put his team into heavy work at once and will keep them hard at it during the coming week. Passing, which always constitutes an important feature of the Notre Dame offense, was given a prominent place in the training program and Johnny Mohardt, backfield star of last year, is being groomed to fill the place left vacant in the air game by the death of George Gipp.

Gus Desch, world's champion low hurdler, is showing promise as a backfield candidate and is being looked to as a possible successor to the position at left half, who, with quarterback, form the two big problems which Rockne must face in the halfback. Chet Grant, last year understudy at the signal position, is out of the game because of illness and it is probable that a man will be developed from the sophomore candidates to fill his place. Fred Larson, last season's center, has not reported and may not return to school.

Seventy-five freshmen answered the first call for yearlings. The number will be cut down this week in the selection of a heavy squad which will scrimmage the varsity.

Kilbane Happy Over Comeback Against Frush.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.—Fight fans tonight were slowly recovering from the excitement created by the featherweight championship bout yesterday between Johnny Kilbane, titleholder, and Danny Frush of Baltimore, which was won by the champion with a knockout in the seventh round.

Discussion centered around whether Kilbane hit Frush in the groin with his knee in the first round. The act was visible to those at the ringside, but Referee W. C. Kelly declared he did not see the blow.

The gray-haired champion was resting today. He was jubilant over his comeback, having accomplished something few champions have done.

On February 22 he will have held the championship title ten years.

"Kilbane did not fight a clean fight, but I must give him credit for putting up a harder attack than I expected," Frush said.

CLEVELAND (O.) Sept. 18.—Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane will not be permitted to box in a local ring again, J. R. Wilberding, chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission, announced today.

When Kilbane signed articles to meet Danny Frush of Baltimore in a twelve-round bout here yesterday, it was agreed the commission should name the referee and judges, the two boxers and promoters agreeing to stand by the commission's choice.

Kilbane first objected to the appointment of Harry Ertle and then to Ed Smith of Chicago. Walter C. Kelly of Buffalo then was chosen.

An eleventh-hour objection was taken by the champion yesterday to Sam Hill of Chicago and Richard Guy of Pittsburg as judges. Local men were substituted.

"No boxer is so big he can refuse to obey rules of the boxing commission," Wilberding said.

KID PALMER DEFEATS TOLEDO MIDDLEWEIGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ, Sept. 18.—Kid Palmer, Philadelphia middleweight, was awarded the referee's decision in a fifteen-round bout with Johnny Celmara, Toledo, O., here today.

Pennant Seems to be in Grasp of the Giants.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The New York Giants have continued their winning streak and now enjoy a four-and-a-half game lead in the National League. Barring a complete reversal the pennant appears to be firmly in their grasp.

In the American League New York, by its victory over Detroit today, while Cleveland was losing to Washington, moved back into the lead slightly by a two-point margin. The Yankees must play almost perfect ball to win the flag. The series here this week between New York and Cleveland may decide the race.

The week's games in both leagues were marked by heavy hitting and scoring.

BAKERSFIELD CAN'T HIT RALPH STROUD.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HANFORD, Sept. 18.—Errors and inability to fathom Ralph Stroud's offerings lost the game for Bakersfield here today, the Kings winning by a score of 5 to 1.

Daring base running by Clyde Wares for Hanford and his brilliant catch in the first inning and the fast fielding of Radebaugh in left field for Bakersfield, were the outstanding features of a listless game. Harry Wolters and Claflin on the first and third corners for the Drillers vied with each other to see which could throw the poorest and catch the fewest. Dutch Rock, hurling for the visitors, allowed seven hits, while Stroud held Wolters's club to three hits. The score:

Hanford	5	7	0

MACABEES DOWN CUBS.

In a rapid-fire contest at Tournament Park yesterday afternoon the Los Angeles Macabees trimmed the Pasadena Cubs, 8 to 7. A ninth-inning rally won for the Macabees. Eichoh and Monicar of the Los Angeles nine clouted out home runs. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Macabees	8	10	4
Cubs	7	8	4

Batteries—Baleido, Kitchen and Rochell; Crowley, Fisher and Hilbert.

GLASS IS MISTAKEN, SAYS SIMS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, replying to an inquiry from the National Merchant Marine Association, declares that Senator Carter Glass, former Secretary of the Treasury, was mistaken in quoting him as stating in a talk in London that the United States ought not to undertake the development of a merchant marine of its own.

The restriction of the present shipping laws, Admiral Sims says he pointed out, would make it difficult to develop an adequate trade fleet under the American flag. The American Navy, he adds, would be of little defensive value if it were not for the American merchant marine.

"The two versions of the London conversation are at variance, it is shown in the correspondence between the National Merchant Marine Association and Admiral Sims.

The letter of inquiry from the association dated Washington, Sept. 8, 1921, addressed to the Admiral asked him for a statement of his views.

Replying under date of September 13, Admiral Sims writes:

"I am not surprised that Senator Glass was much amazed if he understood me to state in London that the United States ought not to undertake the development of a merchant marine of its own.

"Just how far this is from what I ever have or could have thought of the merchant marine you may judge from the fact that the Navy of the United States would be of very little value as a defense of the United States and our possessions if it were not for the merchant marine.

"As I remember my conversation with Senator Glass, it was to the effect that, with the restriction of our present shipping laws, it would be very difficult for our country to develop a merchent marine commensurate with our needs."

Salvation Army to Stake All Real "Buddies"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Starting today, the jobless ex-service man who is on the square can get a "stake" to carry him through his day's search for work.

The Salvation Army declares it pays ready and in a position to pay $1.50 a day to any "buddy" and give him a list of places where he can apply for work. The only conditions are that he must prove himself to be a bona fide former soldier or sailor and that he must prosecute his search for work earnestly and honestly.

If the jobless man, after securing work, desires to repay the "grub stake" it will be gladly accepted and immediately put to work helping another man, but this is not compulsory. The idea is to keep men up to their best energy by supplying meals and a place to sleep while they are seeking employment. Beneficiaries of this kind are not expected to turn down employment of a sufficiently remunerative character.

FRIEND OF BOYHOOD GREETED BY EDISON.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ORANGE (N. J.) Sept. 18.—Thomas A. Edison met again Saturday a boyhood friend he had not seen in fifty-seven years. It was John Burke, former Chief of Police of Mt. Clemens, Mich., now a sergeant on the same force, who used to be a candy butcher with Edison on trains running from Detroit to Port Huron. Both worked for Edison's father sixty years ago.

When Burke was ushered into the Edison office in East Orange he shoved his hand out and shouted, "Hello, Al."

Then they talked about old times for a few minutes. The "Al" is from Edison's middle name, Alva. Burke explained later.

"Al used to lock himself in and experiment when work was over," Burke said. "The rest of the boys played ball. We never could get him out, though."

A Vacation Scheme.

LONDON BUSY WITH AGENDA.

Proposed Topics Disappoint British Statesmen.

Believe Subjects Should be Set Forth Clearly.

Future of China Must be Settled, is Opinion.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The proposed agenda of the conference on Pacific problems and limitation of armaments which have been received at Downing street are now being closely studied at the Foreign Office and will be the subject of conversations between the American and British governments. The proposal from Washington is not likely to be published and may be considerably amended. The powers invited to the conference will express their views of it. Any representations the British government may feel called upon to make will probably be put forward by Lord Curzon in informal conversations with Ambassador Harvey.

Recently there has been little comment in the London press on the conference. This is not because there is any lack of interest in it here, for all British students of public affairs recognize that tremendous issues for good or evil will be taken up at Washington next November and what enormous changes for the better may be effected if the conference is successful; but there has been an almost total absence of news concerning the preparations for it, and comment has flagged for want of material.

AGENDA DISAPPOINTS.

There is now some disappointment at the form the proposed agenda have taken. It is realized here that disarmament can be accomplished only if certain broad questions are solved. There can be no disarmament, it is maintained, unless the future of China is settled, and some outlet for Japanese population and enterprise is provided, and there must be a clear understanding at Washington as to how these objects can be obtained before there can be useful discussion of details.

The share of the western powers in the development of Chinese resources and commerce will, of course, need consideration and settlement by the conference before it separates; but agreement about these details must depend upon the determination of the future of the country. Consequently it is likely that the British suggestions will take the shape of formulating general question of policy, the solution of which will make the rest of the work of the conference much easier.

LLOYD GEORGE CANNOT COME.

Yet another point raised here in connection with the agenda is the need of a preliminary definition and limitation of the subjects it mentions. It is felt that the mere citation of topics is insufficient and that it is important that there should be some measure of agreement when the conference meets as to how far the powers are prepared to go in discussing any subject. That, it is believed, would make the debates far more practical and far likelier to succeed.

While there has been no decision as to the composition of the British representation, it seems unlikely that Premier Lloyd George will be able to act as Great Britain's chief delegate, notwithstanding the fact that Premier Briand has undertaken to represent France. The British Prime Minister will have his hands more than full of domestic difficulties at the time of the conference. Nevertheless, Mr. Lloyd George cherishes the hope of being able at least to put in an appearance at Washington. Even if his visit should be a hurried one, he would greatly prefer to go for a few days rather than not at all.

AUSTRALIA SEEKS ENGLISH FARMERS.

WOULD RAISE JOINT FUND TO BRING MILLION TILLERS OF SOIL TO NEW LAND.

[BY A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

SYDNEY, Aug. 31.—Australians are interestedly discussing a scheme proposed by Sir Joseph Carruthers, Australian publicist and financier, for the settling of 1,000,000 English tillers of the soil upon 1,000,000 farms in Australia, through the creation of a fund of $150,000,000 to be raised in equal proportion by Australia and Great Britain.

He argued that the scheme would permit the emigration to Australia of a large number of the unemployed service men of the kingdom to some of the richest land in the world, which as yet has never felt a plowshare.

Sir Joseph stressed the value to Great Britain of the man power brought to Australia by the undertaking. He declared that it would be better for the United Kingdom to support such a scheme than to build warship in contemplation of Australia's danger should the Pacific become a war zone.

Australian government immigration officials in London lauded the scheme, pointing out that it was similar to a $100,000,000 plan submitted by Senator Millen, Minister for Repatrition, to the colonial emigration conference in January and February. It is solely a question of capital, they pointed out.

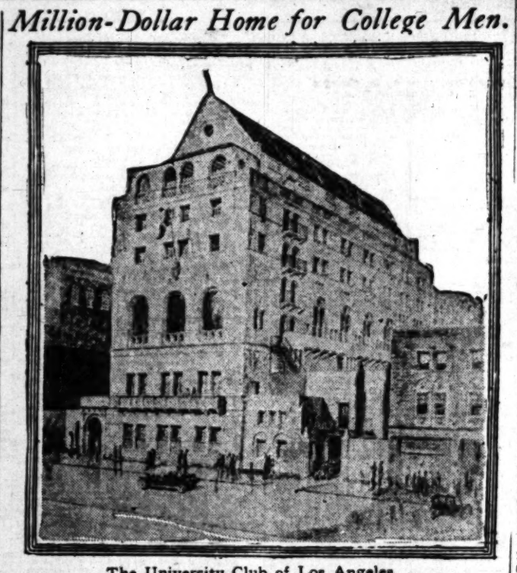
It is interesting to note in the same connection that Icheya Kadono, a Japanese newspaper man making a tour of Australia, suggested in an interview that it might be advisable to permit a limited number of good-type Japanese farmers to settle in the far north in Australia where they could grow tropical fruits, the region being in the tropical zone. The farmers could be brought out on a thirty years' agreement. If they made good at the end of the period they could have their leases renewed. In that way, he said, it would be possible to see what the north areas were capable of producing, and what type of immigrants the Japanese made.

SINGER DROWNS HERSELF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GREENWICH, (Ct.) Sept. 18.—Within a few hours after she had wandered away from Blythewood Sanatorium on the Stanwish road here, the body of Mrs. Albert Biggs, a prominent resident of Memphis, Tenn., was found in a lake on the Maurice Wertheim estate in Cos Cob, formerly the Ernest Thompson Seton property. In her clothing were found stones with which she had weighted herself.

Million-Dollar Home for College Men.



The University Club of Los Angeles.

Allison & Allison are the architects and E. L. Mayberry is the engineer.

PLAN MEMBERSHIP DRIVE.

With their new million-dollar home on the east side of Hope street, south of Sixth street, nearing completion, announcement was made yesterday by University Club members of an intensive drive to be undertaken during the next two or three months to increase the organization's membership.

To start the drive a get-together party has been arranged for the evening of September 23. The program will included a dinner for club members and their guests, musical entertainment and several boxing bouts. Dwight Whiting, the chairman of the club's membership committee, is in charge of the arrangements.

The University Club building when completed will be seven stories in height and will have a frontage on Hope street of 135 feet. The plans embody every modern club convenience, including dining-rooms, lounging and cardroomad a library smoking and billiard-rooms, as well as living-rooms for members. In addition to the men's quarters, a woman's annex, with a special dining-room and lounging-room, is to be a feature of the new building. The athletic features will include handball and squashball courts, a fair sized gymnasium and shower baths. Experts have stated that the plans of the new building indicate that the building and its appointments will be the finest of its kind in the United States.

To become a member the by-laws of the club require that a man shall be a university graduate or have been in attendance at auniversity approved by the club's board of directors for a period of at least three years. The present membership of the club is made up exclusively of university men in and about Los Angeles. The total membership at the present time is around 1000 and the membership has been limited to 1250.

UNION GRIP ON CHICAGO IS DOOMED.

Contractors Serve Notice and Public is Aroused as Result of Exposures.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Prospects that Chicago will break loose this week from the strangling grip of the closed shop became stronger when the Carpenters' District Council, the largest labor-union body in the building trades again voted unanimously to refuse the wage award announced by Judge Landis. The award placed their wages at $1 an hour but they demand the war scale of $1.25.

Notice had been served by the contractors that unless the men returned to work last week Chicago would be made an open-shop city. In view of the stand by the carpenters and other unions, it is believed the fight is now on. It was said today that nonunion carpenters are arriving in large numbers, all eager to work at the $1 an hour scale. One small city in the South wired it would send 1000 carpenters, all good workmen, if Chicago would guarantee them some sort of protection from sluggers and bombers.

Evidence before the Dailey Senatorial Commission shows how an agreement between the mill work manufacturers and the unions adds $250 to every $1000 expended by home builders. This agreement forbids the installation of any doors or other mill work manufactured outside Chicago. Doors that cost $3 thus cost Chicago builders $14.

An Oshkosh mill work manufacturer said a door manufactured by his company sold to wholesalers for $2. Retailers sold it for $4.60. Department stores in Chicago are featuring a "special sale" of similar doors at $11.98. The witness said this door could be sold at $9 with a 60 per cent profit. Allowing $2 as the price at the mill and 24 cents for freight, it will be seen that the $14 charged the home-builders allows a neat graft to be divided between the Chicago manufacturer and the labor-union heads.

SCHOOLS ARE INVADED BY BOOTLEGGER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. — Bootleg whisky is now invading public schools of Chicago. Four boys were picked up by the police early this morning and are being held until they are sober enough to tell where they got the moonshine booze. The oldest boy is 14 and the youngest 12, all pupils in different schools.

The only one able to talk said they stole a pint bottle of whisky from an automobile and bought a bottle of home-brew wine. They mixed the stuff and drank of it until they collapsed. The police are not satisfied with this explanation and believe some older person supplied the liquor.

Some time ago alleged agents for cigarette manufacturers haunted the school yards and parks near the schools, distributing packages of cigarettes free to all boys in order to create the habit of smoking and thus insure a lot of cigarette buyers as the children grew up. The police were able to break up this campaign and are inclined to believe the bootleggers are bidding for patronage in similar manner.

RUM RUNNER IS KILLED IN GUN FIGHT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FREEPORT, (L. I.) Sept. 18.—A pistol battle between rival gangs of bootleggers which lasted more than an hour and during which more than 100 shots were fired, killing one man and injuring another, startled this village early today. It was not until the arrival of Chief of Police Hartman and the entire Police Department, augmented by scores of residents carrying shotguns, that the fusillade ceased and order was restored. At least forty men participated in the revolver fight.

Shortly after daylight the police found the body of a man believed to be that of Tony La Guario crumpled in a heap as though he had dragged himself underneath a porch. He had been shot four times. A block away the police found Sylvestor La Scala. He was shot through the right arm. In his pocket was found an empty automatic revolver.

After finding the body of the dead man and also that of the injured man, the police rounded up more than seventy-five men and a few women, all of whom he sent to police headquarters. He then started an investigation into the shooting, and, with the aid of the District Attorney, learned that the battle was the outcome of a quarrel between two rival gangs of Italians, both of which are engaged in "running" whisky.

DRY ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS BRIBED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Criminal prosecution of prohibition agents alleged to have received graft from illicit liquor dealers was promised today following the suspension by Harold L. Hart, Federal prohibition director in this State, of four of his enforcement men. The four also have been recommended for dismissal, but their names have not been divulged.

A thorough investigation of other agents said to have accepted bribes is planned by E. C. Yellowley, personal representative in this city of Prohibition Commissioner Haines.

A reorganization of prohibition headquarters in New York City was declared to be a possibility as the result of the investigations of Yellowley. Most of the agents have been given clean bills of health by Yellowley, but it was said that several besides those suspended have received gratuities.

Rumors have been flitting about New York for several weeks of a general shake-up expected in the department. Yellowley, in an interview given out last week, told of several instances where bootleggers attempted to bribe enforcement agents.

An agent close to Yellowley said there was no doubt that prohibition agents here had received large bribes regularly from bootleggers. One agent was quoted as having said that until recently he had cleaned up $2000 a week, but now was compelled to share $1800 of this with a man higher up.

'TWAS A BIG DAY FOR SILAS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Sept. 18.—Riding on a train for the first time in his life, Silas Hunt, 88 years old, of Hayes Center, Neb., went to the Nebraska State Fair at Lincoln yesterday. At the same time Hunt saw his first airplane. Hunt came to Nebraska sixty years ago, driving an ox team.

Tells Girls How She Found Relief From Pain

West Palm Beach, Fla.—"When I was 19 years old I was irregular and had such terrible cramps it felt like a knife going through me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was cured. After I was married I had the same trouble caused by the added work of farming and heavy washings so I told my husband to get six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and by taking it regularly my troubles ceased and now I never have a pain or ache, and am regular. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and think every young girl should take it. You can publish this letter and it may be the means of helping some other girl or woman."—Mrs. MARY M. WAGNER, Box 759, West Palm Beach, Florida.

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering it does not seem to be the plan of nature that woman should suffer so severely and when pain exists something is wrong which should be set right. Every girl who suffers from monthly cramps should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

DEDICATE GREAT MEDICAL SCHOOL

Noted Scientists Gather in Peking for Dedication.

Elaborate Institution Gift of Aockefeller Foundation.

Will be Rallying Point for Research in Far East.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PEKING, Sept. 18.—The great Peking Union Medical College which has been erected here by the China Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation is to be dedicated tomorrow, and noted scientists and medical men from many countries are here either to take part in the ceremonies or to attend an international medical conference to be held in connection with the dedication.

The Peking Union Medical College has been in process of erection and construction since 1915. It is the chief agency through which the Rockefeller Foundation aims to promote the progress of western medicine in China.

It is an outgrowth of the Union Medical College, which was founded by the joint effort of six British and American missionary societies in 1906, after the Boxer outbreak. The China Medical Board of the foundation has assumed the full spport of the college, which is chartered under the laws of the State of New York.

PURPOSE OF BOARD.

The purpose of the China Medical Board is to make the college a rallying point for scientific medical training and research, not only in China, but also throughout the Far East. It will maintain constant relations with Europe and North America, through a system of visiting professors. Graduate students from other medical colleges are expected to resort to it. Practicing physicians and medical missionaries in China may receive from it stimulation and support.

The campus of the college, which is located near the heart of Peking and the Forbidden City, was formerly the site of the palace and garden of a Chinese prince.

FOURTEEN BUILDINGS.

Fourteen hospital and laboratory buildings have been erected thereon and these have been decorated in the conventional Chinese fashion in bright colors and with the elaborate cornices typical of imperial palaces and temples.

The college plant consists of laboratories of anatomy, physiology and chemistry, a pathology building, a 250-bed hospital with about thirty private rooms, a large out-patient department, a hospital administration unit with quarters for resident physicians and internes, a nurses' home and plants to supply water, heat, electric light and power and fuel gas. The buildings are fireproof and modern in every detail of interior arrangement and equipment, and yet are in harmony with the best traditions of Chinese architeture. The cost of the buildings has not been made public, but as they were constructed during the war, it is understood to have been very large.

SPECIAL COURSES.

Graduation students must successfully complete a five years' course in medicine and, at the present time, English is the medium of instruction, but ultimately the Chinese may be required. Special courses in all departments are open to medical graduates of all nationalities.

The faculty has been assembled from among men of high standing in the United States, Europe and China. Dr. Henry S. Houghton, its director, formerly was professor of tropical medicine and dean of the Harvard Medical School of China. Dr. Ralph B. Seam, acting superintendent of the college hospital, is now director of the Albert Merritt Buildings Hospital of the University of Chicago, with a leave of absence for this year.

Others of the college faculty are Dr. T. Dwight Sloan, formerly superintendent of the University of Nanking Hospital; Dr. Davidson Black, a graduate of the University of Toronto and formerly of the Canadian Army Medical Corps; Dr. Ralph C. Mills, formerly of the staff of Johns Hopkins Medical School. Dr. Franklin C. McLean, formerly of the faculty of the University of Chicago. Dr. Adrian S. Taylor, formerly of Johns Hopkins Medical School, and Dr. J. Preston Maxwell formerly medical missionary in China.

MANY CHINESE TEACHERS.

There are fifty-four Americans and Europeans and thirty-seven Chinese on the hospital and teaching staff of the college and the nurses' training school.

Lecturers from different parts of the world will visit the college to stimulate its scientific work, which is to include not only training for hospital work, but also medical research.

Among the members of the Board of Trustees are John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation.

In connection with the ceremonies of dedication, addresses will be delivered by Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., Dr. Vincent, Dr. S. S. Goldwater of New York City, Dr. Richard M. Pearce of the Rockefeller Foundation and by Dr. William H. Welch of Baltimore. Brief addresses of welcome will be made by Chinese government officials and representatives of medical societies in China.

COW AT LAST IS EXONERATED.

Mrs. O'Leary's Famed Bovine Not to Blame for Chicago Fire, Says Committee.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. — Mrs. O'Leary's cow, famed in legend as having started the Chicago fire of 1871 by kicking over a lamp, actually had nothing to do with the conflagration, according to a committee which conducted an investigation.

The committee's report, made public yesterday, declares that the evidence tends to show both Mrs. O'Leary and her noted cow retired early on the night in question and that the fire was started by some means not discovered.

SEALED MAIL CARS LOOTED.

Safes Break Into Santa Fe Train En Route to City.

Search of Five Men Hunted by Railway, County Officers.

Helps Fix Self With Shoes After Discarding Many.

Two mail cars on route from San Bernardino to Los Angeles as part of Santa Fe train, No. 7, were entered and robbed yesterday and Saturday between Needles and Barstow, according to reports received here late last night from San Bernardino.

Both batteries the cars were broken into and the safes ransacked and in the case of the robbery yesterday a number of the shoes he was trying on and put on a new pair which he found in a parcels post package which he found there, evidently having tried on a number of pairs before he found a pair that suited.

Although the exact amount of which cannot be ascertained a detailed report is received from New York on the contents of two cars, was carefully checked before being removed and every package was broken open. Some contained nothing but worthless shipments.

Sheriff's officers of San Bernardino and local Santa Fe officers are looking for five men who are believed to have carried out the robbery.

The robbery of Saturday was not discovered until a mail clerk noticed that a mail car had been broken into and made his inspection of it. It is believed that yesterday was the first time the train arrived

PROMOTE CONCORD AMONG ENGINEERS

DELEGATES OF SOCIETIES IN MANY NATIONS TO MEET IN NEW YORK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Delegates from engineering societies of England, France and America will meet here next month to establish a new international contact which shall promote concord among the English-speaking countries, and in the science of engineering and work along conservative lines for the establishment of international peace. This movement began during the war when the engineers of the countries linked their activities behind the lines. Their program of officials of engineering societies plain, is to open fresh international channels not unlike the Carnegie endowment for international peace, the Sulgrave institution and the English-speaking Union.

The meeting also will celebrate the return of the mission of American engineers who went abroad to confer the John Fritz medal upon Sir Robert Hadfield of London and Eugene Schneider of Paris.

PLAN STANDARDIZED PAPER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Plans are being considered for the standardization of paper for the elimination of waste and ample profit, it is said, to the manufactured product, quality of the manufacturer, announced the Commerce Department tonight. The Bureau of Standards department said, are co-operating in an effort to simplify unnecessary sizes, weights and qualities.

DECLARE STRIKERS WOULD CONTROL OIL INDUSTRY.

Producers Tell of Lawlessness and Attempts to Force Them Into Hands of Government.

Declaring that the oil producers made a serious mistake when they consented to have wage disputes adjusted by the Department of Labor during the war, and that the union leaders who are now directing the oil-field strike in Central California are trying to force the industry into the hands of the government by lawless acts, the following statement was issued last night by the Oil Producers' Association of California:

"The Oil Producers' Association of California represents between 80 per cent and 90 per cent of the industry affected by the strike. It expects the constituted officers of the counties concerned and of the State of California to see promptly that rights of persons and property in the oil districts are maintained.

"The cause of the oil strike and the present situation have been grossly misrepresented by the strike leaders in their statements to the public and to officers of the government. The facts are as follows:

WAS A MISTAKE.

"During the war period certain of the California oil companies accepted a suggestion that Federal conciliators representing the Department of Labor be used as mediators in connection with relations between such companies and their employees. The plan was accepted only by a part of the companies in this State. It was presented through the same channel, Verner Z. Reed of Colorado, to the industry elsewhere, but rejected. The companies which did not accept it have been at peace with their employees, establishing and maintaining agreeable relations direct.

"Those that did accept it have felt that it was a mistake, that it tended under the constant agitation carried on by labor leaders to break the bonds of mutual trust and understanding that should exist between them and their employees. The avowed purpose of many of these leaders is to force the government to take on the obligation of determining wages and working conditions in the oil fields, some of them having the idea that this will lead to nationalization of the industry. They actually assume that it is a violation of patriotism not to have the government interfere and determine these questions. There is no law requiring such mediation and all proceedings have been entirely informal.

"The oil producers believe that the slogan 'more business in government and less government in business' is proper and meets with the approval of the present administration. They have no desire to place upon agents of the Department of Labor, acting informally and without legal sanction, an obligation to give the final vote in deciding momentous questions, these agents being without responsibility for the results to the industry, whether employer or employees are at fault. At all times the producers are willing to meet with their own employees or representatives from among their number elected by such employees. There is no dispute as to wages or working conditions. None has been brought to the producers by the employees. As a matter of fact the newly established wages, there being no change in working conditions, are the same for the companies, where there is a strike as were established with the Shell company, which yielded to the demand for government mediation, and where there is no strike. The statements that men have been discharged for belonging to unions is false. The mediation program expired on August 31, the last work required being for the mediators to pass upon certain earnings of employees during the past year contingent upon continuous service, about which there has been no dispute. (It is now proposed to replace the former mediation commission with the Federal Oil Board.

"The purpose of the men heading this strike is plain, and that is by force to bring pressure upon the government to interfere and assume obligations of mediation and arbitration which they intend shall develop into control of the industry.

GUARDED BY STRIKERS.

"At this time a lawless condition exists in the oil fields of the San Joaquin Valley. The highways into those fields are guarded by strikers, vehicles using them are stopped and passengers permitted to use them only by permission of the strikers. The constables in these oil districts have deputized several hundred strikers, thus enabling them to carry weapons openly. At night barricades have been erected across the highways.

"Men who attempted to remain at work, except a few field transportation pumping stations, have been obliged to quit. Guards sent in to protect companies' properties against depredations have been turned back. A special trainload of such guards, sent not to operate properties, but merely to protect them, was derailed on the Sunset Western Railway, taken possession of by the strikers and forced to return to Bakersfield. Officers of the companies have been shot at. Stating it baldly, the properties of the companies have been taken possession of by the strikers. In some of the towns in that section no merchandise, not even drugs, can be bought except under permit from the strikers, and in some instances union employees are not allowed to leave town except with their permission.

"To yield to their demands under such conditions is to yield to a force that ignores the law while claiming to have respect for government. It must be remembered that a very large proportion of the men who have quit the service of the companies have done so out of fear and would gladly return to work at once if they could do so without danger of harm.

"The companies have no personal quarrels with their employees. They feel that the employees have not only been badly led, but badly misinformed. Union officials are demanding that an obligation be taken on by the government that during the last year has not been exercised in at least half of the industry of this State, and which is not exercised elsewhere at all in the industry, and which, applied to industry generally in the United States, would inevitably mean socialization. It is inconceivable that a self-respecting commonwealth should apathetically yield to the supergovernment set up by certain strikers in the oil districts, riding over the rights of both men and property guaranteed by our government."

At Saturday's meeting of the association in San Francisco M. H. Whittier was elected president; A. F. L. Bell and D. S. Ewing, vice-presidents. L. P. St. Clair, E. W. Clark, Paul Shoup, A. C. Diarlex, Allard D'Heur, Lionel Barnason and C. J. Berry were elected as an executive committee. George M. Swindell was elected secretary.

NOT AUTHORIZED.

While strikers in the oil fields near Bakersfield, Taft and Fellows insisted yesterday that the Pan-American Petroleum Company had entered into an agreement to renew a contract with the union, it was learned that officials of the union in San Francisco had not authorized the strikers to return to work.

It was learned that union leaders had been bringing pressure to bear to convince the government that it should step in and operate wells in the Elk Hills district which the Doheny interests have been handling on a basis whereby the government takes 25 per cent of the product. This land is in the Federal Naval reserve.

Since the strike began a week ago repeated efforts have been made by the unions to convince the government that unless it takes over these wells and operates them the properties will shortly become worthless, because tools will "freeze" in uncompleted wells and water will pyramid those which have been on the pump for some time.

RESUME PICKETING.

Picketing on the highways was resumed yesterday after a brief suspension of activities, despite the fact that Sheriff Newell of Bakersfield ordered a discontinuance of the practice. Ten miles from Bakersfield, and on other roads leading to Taft and Fellows, picketers were lopublicly, by the following bulletin received here yesterday:

"Sequoia National Park,
Office of Superintendent,
Giant Forest, Cal., Sept. 17, 1921.

"Since the lamentable accident that happened to Thaddaeus Brown of Lemoore, Cal., on August 31, it has been necessary to take additional precautions for the safety of those visiting the Crystal Cave in the Sequoia National Park.

"Mr. Brown, it will be recollected, is a stout gentleman, who was stuck for three days in Hell's Crack, about half a mile from the cave entrance, deep in the bowels of the earth. An attempt was made by park rangers to pull him through the hole, but his cries were so terrifying as the sharp stalactites scarified the skin of his lower waist that his would-be rescuers were forced to desist.

"The superintendent was notified of Mr. Brown's condition, and personally visited the cave. After thorough examination it was determined that it would either be necessary to blast Mr. Brown out with T.N.T. or starve him until his waist measurement was reduced sufficiently to enable his passage through Hell's Crack.

"Despite the indignation of other visitors who were barred from the beauties of the Organ Loft, the Frozen Cascade, the Marble Chamber, etc., by the rear portion of Mr. Brown, it was thought better not to blast him out, as undoubtedly some injury would result to the delicate formation of the cave.

"By the end of the third day Mr. Brown's waist measurement was reduced fourteen and one-half inches, and one final pull by two park rangers brought him through the hole minus his pants and some skin.

"All prospective visitors to the Crystal Cave are now measured at the Administration Building at Giant Forest, and those whose waist measurements are over thirty-two and one quarter inches are debarred from the crystalline marvels of America's most beautiful cavern."

Driven Back to Bow and Arrow by Profiteers

Profiteering by whites is said to have driven the Indians of the Southwest back to the use of bows and arrows in game hunting. A party from this city which toured through the Ute and Navajo Indian reservations in New Mexico and Colorado, found the redskins shooting jackrabbits and prairie dogs with bows and arrows.

Traders told members of the party that the Indians returned to the use of bows and arrows because of the high cost of ammunition. The Indians regard "jacks" and "dogs" as table delicacies, and they experience no difficulty in knocking them over with an arrow at from twenty-five to fifty feet.

SEE NEW TURN TO BURCH CASE.

To Bring Important Evidence, It is Expected.

Building of Defense During Conference, Forecast.

Important developments in the plans for the defense of Arthur C. Burch, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, are foreshadowed by the expected arrival here today of Dr. William A. Burch, the accused man's father, it was learned from defense sources last night. Dr. Burch, who left Los Angeles for Evanston, Ill., shortly after Burch and Mrs. Madalynne C. Obenchain, jointly indicted with Burch for the slaying of the insurance broker, entered a plea of not guilty, is expected in Los Angeles sometime this afternoon.

Neither Paul W. Schenck nor Richard Kittrelle, attorneys for Burch, could be reached last night for an explanation of the anticipated arrival of the accused man's father. From other sources it was learned, however, that Dr. Burch and the attorneys for his son will hold an important conference shortly after Dr. Burch's arrival, that the defense plans will be discussed from every point of view and probably a new policy adopted.

That Dr. Burch is bringing with him evidence of considerable importance to the defense was stated last night. This evidence, it is understood, was gathered in Evanston and Chicago, and will tend to throw a new light upon the heretofore unexploited angles of the Kennedy murder. Dist.-Atty Woolwine, who went to Chicago some days ago, also was gathering evidence there. That Chicago and Evanston will form the background for the prosecution's theory of the crime as well as for the defense story of Burch's arrival in California was admitted by both sides.

Dr. Burch also may have something to say about the so-called confession attributed to his son and published here a week ago. This confession was denied by Burch previously and subsequently to its publication. Dr. Burch arrived in Los Angeles on his first visit the day the so-called confession is said to have been made, and may be in a position to check the story of his son's interviewer.

The historic announcement some weeks ago by Malcolm McLaren, private detective acting as chief investigator for the District Attorney's office in the Kennedy case, that "a mystic love" as a motive will be established by the prosecution in its joint case against Mrs. Obenchain and Burch, was re-echoed in Chicago yesterday. It came in a form of an interview obtained by The Times' Chicago correspondent from C. A. Scott, who, with Mrs. May Mullinix and Mrs. Lillie Teal Howard, assert they saw Mrs. Obenchain in company with Burch at spiritualistic seances.

HERE IS A CHANCE TO WIN A WAD.

The $10-for-a-funny-idea sweepstakes contest centering about the famous Wad family creation of Artist Gale is off to a flying start. Announcement of the recontinuation of the popular comic strip in The Times, with the added feature of weekly prizes for the best ideas submitted, was joyously received yesterday.

Everybody is invited to enter the weekly contest for which, as a starter, the best idea sent in by next Thursday will receive $10; second best, $5, and all others good enough to use, $2 each. The Wad family, including our old friend Cicero Wad, Titus Wad, Gunnison Wad of infant terrible fame, Mrs. Spenda Wad and Elva Wad, with her countless suitors—all of these and many other members of the family are at your service.

Anyone may compete. Just think up a funny idea for a Wad family comic strip and send it in.

The first weekly contest closes Thursday night. The second week's contest begins next Friday, and the winners will be announced each Sunday. Checks will be mailed promptly and the name of the successful contributor will be used in connection with the strip suggested by him or her.

All ideas must be original or "drawable." Each suggested strip must contain at least one member of the Wad family; other characters may be added if desired.

Each strip must be either local in point or setting, or both; that is, pertaining to Southern California.

No limit is placed on the number of prizes that can be won by any one person and each contributor may submit as many ideas as he wishes.

Title and dialogue for each suggested comic strip must be supplied. Every picture should be described and each strip should contain four or five pictures. Acceptable ideas interpreted in fewer or more than this number of pictures will be considered, however.

Rough sketches to illustrate the idea, or actual finished drawings of strips will be accepted. Extra compensation will be given for all drawings portraying the Wad family members accurately in acceptable comic strips ready for printing.

Editors of The Times will select the winners each week.

Address all communications to Mr. Wad, care of The Times, Los Angeles, Cal. No manuscripts will be returned and all contributions should be legibly written or typewritten on one side of the paper, with sender's name and address at the top.

GIRL .. TO .. DANCE .. FOR .. HEROES.

Lola Gonzalez.

LOLA was never in Paris. She doesn't know a single one of the steps the men of the Ninety-first Division saw in the cafes there when they were on leave.

But she did spend half of her twenty years in Hawaii, and knows a lot of steps and other things never learned in school.

She is going to show them and some of those she did learn in school during the years she spent studying in New York, to the men of the two California regiments who helped start the Germans on their journey back to Berlin and defeat in September, 1918. She will dance at banquets of the Three Hundred and Sixty-third and Three Hundred and Sixty-fourth infantry regiments to be held at the Athletic Club and at the Alexandria Saturday, as part of the program of the second annual reunion of the Ninety-first Division. Fifteen to twenty thousand veterans of the Wild West division are expected to attend.

Oh, yes, Lola's last name is Gonzales. She has danced much in pictures.

CAUGHT, HE PUTS BLAME ON HOOCH.

Man Charged With Robbery Says He Bought Woman the Things Declared Stolen.

After warning his intended victims that he was a bad man and that he was going to cut 'em up in little pieces, W. W. Dawson had to "go and get arrested" before his diabolical program could be carried out.

According to the story told yesterday by his almost victims, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Chase of 2185 West Tenth street, Dawson called them and threatened them with dire punishment. He said that he thought he would kill Mr. Chase and disfigure Mrs. Chase. The couple, quite naturally, left the house. While they were gone, Dawson entered it and removed a dress and vanity case, it is charged.

This all happened early in the morning. Dawson was arrested soon thereafter. After he had been locked up and sobered up, he told the officers how it happened.

"Too much hooch," he said. "And besides, I bought Mrs. Chase both the dress and the vanity case." He is being held on a charge of suspected burglary.

FIGHT CANYON FIRE.

Laurel Residents Hold It Back Till Department Arrives.

Volunteers who fought off the flames until the men of the Hollywood division of the Fire Department arrived with a chemical engine probably saved Laurel Canyon from being wiped out by fire yesterday afternoon.

According to reports to W. E. Smith, fire warden in the canyon, campers let a fire get away from them, reporting it only when it got beyond control. Rodney Mills and Miss Fritzie Ridgeway, a film actress who resides there, assisted in putting out the fire.

The blaze lasted from 1 to 3:30 p.m., and was only put out after the Hollywood fire fighters arrived. Under the leadership of Lieut. John Home, a brother of George Home former Chief of Police, they managed to check the blaze, but at the sacrifice of several good suits of clothes.

PUZZLE MAKES BRAINS NIMBLE.

"Times" Observation Pastime is Praised by Banker.

Motley Flint Describes It as Mental Gymnastics.

Demands Alertness and Keen Attention to Details.

Has your brain had its daily exercise?

The Times' observation puzzle is becoming as popular a morning eye-opener as the punching bag, the setting-up exercises and the cold shower.

Motley H. Flint, vice-president of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, speaks highly of the value of the puzzle as a species of mental gymnastics, since it demands alertness and a keen attention to detail—two of the most valuable and potent factors in the success of any bank employee.

"Observation is of the utmost importance in the banking business," declares Mr. Flint. "It is an absolute necessity in the mechanical part of the business—such as using the adding machines, etc.—for the reason that the operator must be able to see correctly at a glance the exact figures on the checks which he is computing.

"It is still more necessary in the teller's life, not only in the interests of the bank, but also for the personal advancement of the employee. For instance, there is a bank in the East, situated in a city where there is a large population of immigrant labor. These immigrants, saving three-fourths of what they earn, took a long time to discover the convenience and safety of a bank. They preferred the woolen stocking at home.

"But, after a few losses by theft, a few of them took a chance. A young lady in the bank was given the duty of opening accounts for these foreigners. Deposits increased amazingly in that one bank, while other banks showed no gain in the immigrant account.

"Investigation proved that the girl was keenly observant. Not only did she remember the faces of these foreigners and their names and signatures, but she did not forget the little details confided to her—of the new baby or the sick wife.

"That girl has become one of the highest-salaried and most efficient officers in that bank, simply because of her powers of observation.

"It is very easy to get into a rut, and not to look away from our own feet in our own path.

"A study of The Times' observation puzzle will awaken many a sluggish brain to the fact that if we only open our eyes and look around us we may find that the road to success lies just across the street."

Romeo Robbed of Bankroll by Three Bandits.

While Romeo was roaming early yesterday morning he came to grief. The grief had a monetary value of $70.

Romeo, who is more generally known as Romeo Stevens of the Howell Hotel, 549 South Main street, was strolling along Fifth street at the unseemly hour of 4 a.m., when he was accosted in front of the Philharmonic Auditorium by three young men, who evidently believe that the early bird catches the worm. They lined Romeo up against the side of the building, ransacked his pockets and took his $75 in money.

MAILED MAIL CARS LOOTED.

Robbers Break Into Santa Fe Trains En Route to City.

Posse of Five Men Hunted by Railway, County Officers.

Bandit Fits Self With Shoes After Discarding Many.

Several mail cars on route from San Diego to Los Angeles as part of Train No. 7, were entered and robbed yesterday and Saturday between Needles and Barstow, according to reports received here last night from San Bernardino.

At both instances the cars were broken into and in the course of the robbery yesterday a pair of the shoes he was wearing was cut on a new pair he found in a parcels post package, evidently having tried on several pairs before he found what he wanted.

Although no loot has been secured, the exact amount of which cannot be ascertained, a detailed report is required in New York on the contents of the cars, was carefully compiled before removed and the registered mail packages was broken open, but contained nothing of value, it is stated.

Officers at San Bernardino and other Santa Fe officers are searching for five men who are believed to have carried out the robberies.

The robbery of Saturday was not discovered until a mail clerk noticed that one of the seals had been broken and a report was made to his inspector at Needles that of yesterday was discovered when the train arrived here.

NO DAMAGE TO CROPS FROM RAIN.

DECLARE STRIKERS WOULD CONTROL OIL INDUSTRY.

Producers Tell of Lawlessness and Attempts to Force Them Into Hands of Government.

Declaring that the oil producers made a serious mistake when they consented to have wage disputes adjusted by the Department of Labor during the war, and that the union leaders who are now directing the oil-field strike in Central California are trying to force the industry into the hands of the government by lawless acts, the following statement was issued last night by the Oil Producers' Association of California:

"The Oil Producers' Association of California represents between 80 per cent and 90 per cent of the industry affected by the strike. It expects the constituted officers of the counties concerned and of the State of California to see promptly that rights of persons and property in the oil districts are maintained.

"The cause of the oil strike and the present situation have been grossly misrepresented by the strike leaders in their statements to the public and to officers of the government. The facts are as follows:

WAS A MISTAKE.

"During the war period certain of the California oil companies accepted a suggestion that Federal conciliators representing the Department of Labor be used as mediators in connection with relations between such companies and their employees. The plan was accepted only by a part of the companies in this State. It was presented through the same channel, Verner Z. Reed of Colorado, to the industry elsewhere, but rejected. The companies which did not accept it have been at peace with their employees, establishing and maintaining agreeable relations direct.

"Those that did accept it have felt that it was a mistake, that it tended under the constant agitation carried on by labor leaders to break the bonds of mutual trust and understanding that should exist between them and their employees. The avowed purpose of many of these leaders is to force the government to take on the obligation of determining wages and working conditions in the oil fields, some of them having the idea that this will lead to nationalization of the industry. They actually assume that it is a violation of patriotism not to have the government interfere and determine these questions. There is no law requiring such mediation and all proceedings have been entirely informal.

"The oil producers believe that the slogan 'more business in government and less government in business' is proper and meets with the approval of the present administration. They have no desire to place upon agents of the Department of Labor, acting informally and without legal sanction, an obligation to give the final vote in deciding momentous questions, these agents being without responsibility for the results to the industry, whether employer or employees are at fault. At all times the producers are willing to meet with their own employees or representatives from among their number elected by such employees. There is no dispute as to wages or working conditions. None has been brought to the producers by the employees. As a matter of fact the newly established wages, there being no change in working conditions, are the same for the companies, where there is a strike as were established with the Shell company, which yielded to the demand for government mediation, and where there is no strike. The statements that men have been discharged for belonging to unions is false. The mediation program expired on August 31, the last work required being for the mediators to pass upon certain earnings of employees during the past year contingent upon continuous service, about which there has been no dispute. (It is now proposed to replace the former mediation commission with the Federal Oil Board.

"The purpose of the men heading this strike is plain, and that is by force to bring pressure upon the government to interfere and assume obligations of mediation and arbitration which they intend shall develop into control of the industry.

GUARDED BY STRIKERS.

"At this time a lawless condition exists in the oil fields of the San Joaquin Valley. The highways into those fields are guarded by strikers, vehicles using them are stopped and passengers permitted to use them only by permission of the strikers. The constables in these oil districts have deputized several hundred strikers, thus enabling them to carry firearms openly. At night barricades have been erected across the highways.

"Men who attempted to remain at work, except a few field transportation pumping stations, have been obliged to quit. Guards sent in to protect the company's properties against depredations have been turned back. A special trainload of such guards, sent not to operate properties, but merely to protect them, was derailed on the Sunset Western Railway, taken possession of by the strikers and forced to return to Bakersfield. Officers of the companies have been shot at. Stating it baldly, the properties of the companies have been taken possession of by the strikers. In some of the towns in that section no merchandise, not even drugs, can be bought except under permit from the strikers, and in some instances union employees are not allowed to leave town except with their permission.

"To yield to their demands under such conditions is to yield to a force that ignores the law while claiming to have respect for government. It must be remembered that a very large proportion of the men who have quit the service of the companies have done so out of fear and would gladly return to work at once if they could do so without danger of harm.

"The companies have no personal quarrels with their employees. They feel that the employees have not only been badly led, but badly misinformed. Union officials are demanding that an obligation be taken on by the government that during the last year has not been exercised in at least half of the industry of this State, and which is not exercised elsewhere at all in the industry, and which, applied to industry generally in the United States, would inevitably mean socialization. It is inconceivable that a self-respecting commonwealth should pathetically yield to the supergovernment set up by certain strikers in the oil districts, riding over the rights of both men and property guaranteed by our government."

At Saturday's meeting of the association in San Francisco M. H. Whittier was elected president; A. F. L. Bell and D. S. Ewing, vice-presidents, L. P. St. Clair, R. W. Clark, Paul Shoup, A. C. Diarlex, Allard D'Heur, Lionel Barneson and C. J. Berry were elected as an executive committee. George M. Swindell was elected secretary.

NOT AUTHORIZED.

While strikers in the oil fields near Bakersfield, Taft and Fellows insisted yesterday that the Pan-American Petroleum Company had entered into an agreement to renew a contract with the union, it was learned that officials of the union in San Francisco had not authorized the strikers to return to work.

It was learned that union leaders had been bringing pressure to bear to convince the government that it should step in and operate wells in the Elk Hills district which the Doheny interests have been handling on a basis whereby the government takes 25 per cent of the product. This land is in the Federal Naval reserve.

Since the strike began a week ago repeated efforts have been made by the unions to convince the government that unless it takes over these wells and operates them the properties will shortly become worthless, because tools will "freeze" in uncompleted wells and water will pyramid those which have been on the pump for some time.

RESUME PICKETING.

Picketing on the highways was resumed yesterday after a brief suspension of activities, despite the fact that Sheriff Newell of Bakersfield ordered a discontinuance of the practice. Ten miles from Bakersfield, and on other roads leading to Taft and Fellows, picketers were lo-

For instance, there is a bank in the East, situated in a city where there is a large population of immigrant labor. These immigrants, saving three-fourths of what they earn, took a long time to discover the convenience and safety of a bank. They preferred the woolen stocking at home.

"But, after a few losses by theft, a few of them took a chance. A young lady in the bank was given the duty of opening accounts for these foreigners. Deposits increased amazingly in that one bank, while other banks showed no gain in the immigrant account.

"Investigation proved that the girl was keenly observant. Not only did she remember the faces of these foreigners and their names and signatures, but she did not forget the little details confided to her—of the new baby or the sick wife.

"That girl has become one of the highest-salaried and most efficient officers in that bank, simply because of her powers of observation.

"It is very easy to get into a rut, and not to look away from our own feet in our own path.

"A study of The Times' observation puzzle will awaken many a sluggish brain to the fact that if we only open our eyes and look around us we may find that the road to success lies just across the street."

Romeo Robbed of Bankroll by Three Bandits.

While Romeo was roaming early yesterday morning he came to grief. The grief had a monetary value of $70.

Romeo, who is more generally known as Romeo Stevens of the Howell Hotel, 549 South Main street, was strolling along Fifth street at the unseemly hour of 4 a.m., when he was accosted in front of the Philharmonic Auditorium by three young men, who evidently believe that the early bird catches the worm. They lined Romeo up against the side of the building, ransacked his pockets and took his $75 in money.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column.

THE SECRETIVE RUSSIAN.

The Baroness X was born in Vienna, of a Polish mother and a Hungarian father. She spent five years at school in France and two years in a university in Switzerland. After that she married a Russian and lived in various parts of Russia until her husband died sixteen years later. Since then she has roamed around the world, settling for a year or two at a time in Germany, Italy and England and for months at a time in smaller countries. At present she is visiting America.

RUSSIAN WOMEN MOST INTERESTING.

It is clear that she has had unusual opportunities to study women in many lands. Asked which of them all she found most interesting she promptly replied, "Russian women." Then, seeing that a group of her hearers were interested, she developed her theme.

"The most interesting thing about the Russian women," she said, "is that one never really knows even one's dearest friends among them, no matter how many years one's intimacy with them lasted. One will think one knows them through and through. One will not have the sense that they are withholding their confidence or keeping one at a distance, such as many English and American women friends give one. They are affectionate and intimate and loyal and intensely interesting. Their lives seem to be open books. Yet all the time one really knows absolutely nothing about them. All sorts of tragedies and emotional dramas may be going on of which their dearest friends are absolutely unconscious.

THE DUAL LIFE OF MADAME X.

"One of the most fascinating women I ever knew had lived what is called a 'double life' for ten years. She had a devoted husband and a devoted family of children to whom she herself was also devoted. But she had in addition another life. She was the most looked-up-to the most respected wife in her part of the country. She was held up as an example to all.

"Suddenly the second man died. She had loved him deeply, but she gave no slightest sign of grief, no sign that he had been more than a casual acquaintance. She simply became in reality what she had always seemed, an ideal wife and mother. The 'other man' happened to be my brother. He was killed in an automobile accident in which I was with him. He had just time to gasp out that I must immediately go to his apartment and destroy all his papers. I did it—and in doing it I learned the truth. He himself had destroyed about everything from her, but there were one or two recent letters which he had not had time to burn.

THAT RUSSIAN RESERVE.

"The incident is not unusual, of course," the Baroness summed up. "We have it in all countries. But the way this was carried on was typically Russian. I am convinced that no human being has ever suspected the truth about those two, and that her closest friends, of whom I was one, would be the most astounded of all.

"Yes," she concluded slowly," she knew, that woman, that I destroyed my brother's papers. She must have intensely longed to know if I had found anything concerning herself. She knew I was with him at the last, and that my heart was breaking over his death. We were constantly together for three years after that yet never once, by even the flicker of an eye-lash, did she show any feeling except a friendly sympathy for me, though she must have known she could trust me. Wonderful? They are amazing, those Russian women!"

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

"Trust the Teachers."

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] With an appreciable value of the inter-relationship between the home and the school, it is with keen regret that a vitally interested new resident has been observing the spirit of controversy between the home and the school, or those interests which represent the home and the teaching force.

The time is upon us when the spirit of harmony is of paramount importance to the guardians of both.

Teachers as a whole are neither lacking in professional dignity nor respect for administration. Teachers' associations are a common organization in many cities—not in a spirit of defense or unionism, but rather for promotion of vital school interests. A teachers' council, advisedly promoted, could likewise be productive of most satisfactory results to both administration and teachers. The same fundamental principle has, in many instances, been successfully operated in the industrial world, and only recently was adopted by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

It is rather difficult to conceive of a body of teachers desiring to usurp authority vested in either the administration or board.

The situation appeals to the observer rather as a plea of the teaching force for a closer co-operative relationship—a closer unity of the branch advancing theory and plans with the force making their practical applications. Cannot one therefore illumine the other if afforded a definite opportunity for counsel?

Certain it is the teachers are our city servants to whom we entrust our children through the most delicately formative periods of their whole career. If they then seek a closer co-operation between their superior officers, who represent the homes by choice of election, is it unfair to our highest interests? Would we not better commend their interest and high purpose rather than denounce as autocratic when the board only is empowered to appoint, dismiss and decide.

If the Los Angeles teachers have vested in them the power that has been credited them, they are peculiarly exalted as teachers and perhaps they are illumined. Interest and close contact in other cities have shown teachers to be about as autocratic as a German peasant.

We will grant, as has been mentioned, that many mothers are better qualified than many teachers. Let us also add that to many teachers, because of negligence or inability, falls the responsibility of training which belongs to the home. Therefore could not the assertion be fairly reversed?

The parents are represented through their chosen board. Is there need for their voice to be duplicated through a "Parent Council?" What need for more power over the defenseless teachers?

These hasty accusations break rather than stimulate the fine spirit of co-operation and harmony we should cherish between the home, the board, the superintendent and the teachers. The situation appeals to the observer as a misunderstanding of what the Teachers' Council would wish to be. It is accused of being covetous of authority wholly beyond its jurisdiction—and to which it does not seem to aspire.

Let no trivial differences, which permits of adjustment interfere with the sublime unity which should exist. Give the teachers a fair chance to co-operate—to promote our threefold interests—and I believe they will be found true to the trust given them, with no loss of professional dignity on the part of the administration and the board.

Defends Actors.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] While not desiring to discuss the merits or demerits of the Arbuckle scandal, I beg to offer a few words in defense of the personnel of the motion-picture industry, hundreds of whom I know as respectable, hard-working citizens, as sober and upright as the average run of citizenship. As to Mr. Arbuckle himself, whom I know personally, he is a kind-hearted man of generous impulses, who would not, I believe, intentionally injure anyone. His convivial habits are probably the cause of his troubles. Ever since the time of Shakespeare the puritans and the man in the street have been ready offhand to condemn the actor as a loose liver, but the members of the motion-picture industry as a body will compare favorably with any other group, and in fairness they should not be judged by the conduct of any single representative.

EDMOND FORTUNE.

Parking Near Residences.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There is a law against parking automobiles in business blocks of the city in certain hours, but the residence districts are not protected against the insult of darkened automobiles infesting the streets, and invading the sanctity of homes, at all hours of the night. I say invading the sanctity of the home because the landscape is as much the home as the site the house occupies.

The condition that compels a citizen sitting on his own porch to be confronted night after night with that class who love darkness better than light, bringing the gutter to his very door, is a persecution and an outrage.

There is also a law to protect the business district from the denizens of the red light district. This accounts for the turning of decent residential streets into resorts. No one, not even the boys and girls, is unwise as to what those darkened cars mean. It is not always amorous pairs. Sometimes men, as many as four, will turn out every light and sit silent as if waiting. How safe is a girl or a pair of sweethearts, or the man known to have money passing this group, who claim the right to occupy the public streets for the night? What citizen feels safe to go to sleep with such a group of mysterious watchers within thirty feet of his door? His outgoings and incomings are known. His value as a victim for a hold-up is appraised and the hour most safe to rob him can all be arranged in these silent watches of the night and I doubt not are often successfully planned.

Some times boys claiming respectable homes take advantage of family standing to allay suspicion with the police and to learn just how far they can trespass without incurring a penalty. There can be nothing more fatal to an honorable career of these boys than the nights in darkened cars in some sequestered street in a quiet, decent neighborhood where the police have no occasion to call.

It seems to me that the residents should be considered and the Council should be asked to enact an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to park cars at night in the residence district while the inmates huddle silent and in the dark for hours. Without such laws the evil will grow.

HOSPITAL AN ATTRACTION.

Little Marjorie, age 4, was the only one of the family of four to escape injury when their auto was in collision with another. Mother, father and a sister went to a hospital with semi-serious injuries and when they returned home they were loud in their praises of the attentions of the nurses and the kindness of neighbors in sending fruit, flowers and bonbons.

A few days ago Marjorie toddled into the street and was struck by a passing auto, being knocked down and suffering a bump on the head. She was able to hurry into the house, where she said to her father: "Daddy, do you think this bump is big enough for me to go to that hospital?"—[Indianapolis News.

Making More Money.

Aptitude for Housekeeping Called Fundamental for a Woman Pharmacist.

A NATURAL aptitude for housekeeping is the fundamental requisite for a woman's success as a pharmacist, says Miss Susannah G. Haydock, the pioneer woman druggist of Philadelphia, thus taking issue with the popular conception that it is the woman to whom domestic affairs do not appeal who is best fitted for business or a profession.

"I have helped to train a great many girls who took up pharmacy as a profession," says Miss Haydock, "and I have dissuaded a great many more from going into this branch of business, not because I do not believe it is an ideal occupation for a woman, but because those girls were not by natural inclination and instinct fitted for it.

"Whenever the prospective student has told me that she was taking up pharmacy because she had no interest in children, cooking or housework, I have advised her that the best thing she could do was to go back to her mother, help her in the management of the household and learn to like these things. Making allowances for the fact that it is a case of measuring things by the grain instead of by the cupful or teaspoonful and that the 'mixing' is done in a test tube or beaker instead of a pot or pan, there is little difference between the compounding of a medicine and a cake. It is the same natural ability to mix things that makes either kind of work a pleasure to the worker. A girl won't be a bit happier filling a prescription than making doughnuts, if she hasn't this fundamental domestic instinct."

Miss Haydock's own career shows that pharmacy presents an excellent opportunity for the woman who wants to make good in the business world, for she was a public school teacher before ill health forced her to give up that work, and, at the advice of her physician, she opened a drug store of her own after taking a pharmacist's degree, having been successful in this line of work for more than thirty years.

Question: Is Manuel Araullo, the new Chief Justice of the Philippine Supreme Court, the first Filipino to hold this position? F. G. R.

Answer: Judge Araullo succeeds Victorini Mapa as Chief Justice of the Philippine Supreme Court. Judge Mapa was the first Filipino to hold the position.

Q.: Please advise how ordinary cotton can be made absorbent. M. A. D.

A.: Boil best quality of cotton with a 5 per cent solution of caustic soda or potash for one-half hour. Wash thoroughly, press out all water as far as possible, and immerse in a 5 per cent solution of chloride of lime (bleaching powder) for fifteen or twenty minutes, wash with a little water, then with water acidulated with hydrochloric acid, then with water. Boil once more for fifteen minutes with caustic soda solution, and wash with acidulated and plain water as before.

Q.: Where do the martin birds winter? They are leaving Ohio already. E. J. G.

Q.: Has Poland been recognized as an independent country? G. D. A.

A.: Poland became an independent country in November, 1918, and has been recognized as such by all the great powers.

Q.: Is it true that cases of hydrophobia are unknown south of the equator? G. M.

A.: The Public Health Service says that hydrophobia occurs in all parts of the world. There is no truth in the statement that it does not exist below the equator.

Q.: How many States celebrate Labor Day? L. M. G.

A.: Labor Day is recognized as a holiday in every State and Territory with the exception of Wyoming and the Philippines.

Q.: What does the Hawaiian word, "Aloha" mean? M. P.

A.: Aloha may be translated in many ways—as welcome, greeting, friendship, love, brotherhood, mutual understanding and good-by until we meet again.

Q.: Which State had the first legislation for the abolition of slavery? S. W. S.

A.: Massachusetts was the first State to declare her soil free. Her constitution, adopted in 1780, had a bill of rights prefixed to it, which a negro named Quaco tested in 1781. The courts decided in his favor and slavery was abolished.

Q.: Where is the mountain Meru? T. N.

A.: Meru was the name of the abode of the gods in Hindu mythology. It was supposed to stand at the center of the world and to tower to a height of 80,000 leagues, the sun, moon and stars revolving around its summit. It was supposed to have been located somewhere north of the Himalayas.

Q.: How often should a person have his teeth examined? G. O. T.

A.: The public health says that every person should have careful examination of the whole mouth by a dentist at least twice a year.

Q.: Do honeybees eat honey? E. W. G.

A.: Humanitarians say that to live on the sense of sight. While this does form the greater part of their food, they eat insects and spiders.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

SOME GOOD PICKLES AND RELISHES.

Mixed Pickles: 1 quart small white onions, 6 large red peppers, 1 quart small cucumbers, 1 quart sliced green tomatoes, 2 tablespoons white mustard seed, 1 tablespoon ground cloves, 1 teaspoon celery seed, vinegar. Select small green tomatoes and slice these thinly, discarding the first slice from the stem-end; soak these slices in a brine made of 1 cup of salt and 1 gallon of water, overnight. In another bowl soak overnight, in a similar brine, the red peppers cut in attractive-looking pieces, the onions whole and the cucumbers whole. In the morning drain all these vegetables, rinse in cold water, and drain again. Then put them into hot, sterilized fruit jars mixed, with the spices sprinkled through them and fill the jars to the top with boiling-hot vinegar. Seal at once. (These are very crisp and delicious when first opened, but they grow softer after being opened a little while, so for this reason it is best to put them up in pint-size jars or even in half-pint size, so that they will be used quickly after being opened). This makes a pretty pickle in the jar, especially if care is taken to have the red pepper pieces evenly distributed.

To Put Up One Quart Dill Pickles at a Time: Fill a glass jar with pickles the size of a finger and between them sprinkle a few dill seeds. When the jar is filled, add 1 tablespoon salt and pour cold water to top. Put more dill seed on top of pickles and a few grape-tendrils, then seal airtight. Each day put these closed jars in the sun. The water will get cloudy and then, in time, it will clear again. When it clears the pickles are ready for use. (If you use a two-quart jar, add 2 tablespoons salt.)

Spanish Pickles: 1 peck green tomatoes thinly sliced, 4 large onions also thinly sliced, 1 cup salt, ½ ounce cloves, ½ ounce allspice berries, ½ ounce peppercorns, ½ cup brown mustard seed, 1 pound brown sugar, 4 green peppers finely chopped, vinegar. Sprinkle alternate layers of the sliced tomatoes and sliced onions with the salt and let stand overnight. In the morning drain and put in a preserving kettle, adding the remaining ingredients and just enough vinegar to cover all. Heat gradually to the boiling point, let boil one-half hour, then put in hot glass jars which have been boiled 10 minutes in clear water. Seal at once.

India Relish: 3 red peppers, 2½ pounds either of citron melon or of watermelon rind, 3 heads brown sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 teaspoons each of ground cinnamon, ground mace, paprika, mustard and white mustard seed; 1 tablespoon each of curry powder and celery seed, and 1 quart of vinegar. Remove green rind from melon (if watermelon is used discard all the soft portion) and cut into strips or dice. Cover with brine made of ¼ cup salt and just enough water to cover; let stand overnight and in the morning rinse in cold water, drain, dry on a cloth and chop fine. Put peppers, cabbage and onions through meat grinder (or chop fine by hand) and let these also stand overnight with a similar brine as that used for the melon; in the morning drain and squeeze in cloth. Mix all ingredients together and let boil 1 hour, then put in hot, sterilized jars and seal at once. (If any reader cannot buy Curry Powder from her local grocer I can send her the address of a firm that will sell it to her by mail. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to me for this address.)

[All inquiries addressed to Mrs. Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in daily turn. This renders considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped, self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.]

WHY

DO WE SPEAK OF A "TINKER'S DAM"?

[Copyright, 1921, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.]

While the "dam" in this case sounds like a bit of profanity, it should be noted that it is spelled without the final "n" which denoted the expletive and is, in reality, nothing more than an ordinary dam used to prevent the encroachment of a liquid—in this case the molten solder which forms part of the stock in trade of every tinker, the father of the present-day plumber.

The genuine tinker's dam was devised in the old days when rosin, instead of acid, was commonly used for soldering. To prevent the solder spluttering away over the surrounding landscape or wobbling off into space or trickling down into the tinker's hoot, a little dam or inclosure of warm rosin was built around the hole or joint to be soldered. This invariably melted at the critical moment—in fact, it wasn't worth a damn and the tinker, as he observed the melting, usually gave vent to a properly emphasizing "damn!" As Archbishop Trench, in one of his lectures on the English language, remarks: "Neither the tinker's dam nor the tinker's 'damn!' was of any avail." It really doesn't matter which one is used for, as an expression of utter uselessness, one is as good as the other. But 'dam' is correct, so far as the history of tinkering goes."

The Daily Fun Hour.

BY HONOR WALSH.

Zoo-Zoo.

There are several variations of this game. As played with much fun at an Adirondack resort, white or colored cards are provided. On each card is inscribed the name of a different beast, bird, fish, reptile or insect, such as camel, goose, porpoise, rattlesnake, mosquito, etc. There should be as many cards as there are players. The leader, called the zoo keeper, holds a catalog of the names which he has inscribed on the cards.

When all are ready to play the zoo keeper shuffles the written cards and passes them around face downward, one to each player. No one must peep at the name on another's card. Every player is permitted to give one look at his card to ascertain the name he has drawn, and after that his card must remain on the table, blank side upward, or, if there is no table, the cards should be put into his pocket out of sight.

Then the zoo keeper looks at his catalog, selects a name at random and says, for instance, "Elephant, what can you do?" The player who has drawn the card marked Elephant is obliged to give an imitation of the appearance and actions of the mammoth animal. He must not laugh, no matter how grotesque his impersonation may be, but the players not acting at the moment may indulge their merriment as much as they please; indeed, part of the game is to attempt to make the performer laugh, since an actor's laughter (unless he is playing hyena) incurs forfeit for him. Forfeit is also imposed for failure to respond promptly to the zoo keeper's call.

H. Blumenberg, Ore Grande, electric production of ammonia; J. W. Corser, Los Angeles, high speed piston; E. W. Dunn, Los Angeles, oil burner; S. W. Forsman, Los Angeles, means for sealing containers; George Buttress, Los Angeles, expanding pulley; T. A. Bateman, Los Angeles, valveless rotary pump; E. J. Grieve, Los Angeles, surface decorating; H. H. Hamerstrom, Sierra Madre, leak indicator for tire valves; S. N. Hall, Los Angeles, pump mechanism; T. J. Keeping, Los Angeles, caster; E. E. Mallory, Los Angeles, stool; W. D. Nickum, Glendale, electrical water level indicator; H. F. Richter, Los Angeles, hydrocarbon burner; H. Simon, Laguna Beach, combination square; R. E. Stewart, Los Angeles, indicator, and Aden Wakefield, Alhambra, hinge marker and cutter.

OSTEOPATHS TO MEET.

Local Society Getting Ready for Next Year's Gatherings.

When the Los Angeles Osteopathic Surgical Society meets at its headquarters in the Ferguson Building, tomorrow evening, it will be addressed by Dr. T. J. Ruddy, president of the board of trustees of the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons. His subject will be the nonsurgical and nondrug treatment of catarrhal deafness and associated catarrhal diseases. The society, under the direction of Dr. T. C. Young, of Glendale, will immediately begin preparations to entertain the American Osteopathic Society of Surgeons, as well as the American Osteopathic Association, which will meet in Los Angeles in conjunction with the general osteopathic conventions next June. Between 2000 and 3000 delegates are expected.

(A DREADFUL thing has happened. The most unfortunate accident . . . Freddie was paddling me slowly down the river in his canoe. It was a lovely night . . . moonlight . . . distant music . . . and the odor of tuberoses . . .

AND then, suddenly, he asked me what I thought of W. L. George, and when I said that, if he wanted to talk Irish politics, I preferred de Valera, because he has such a romantic name—Freddie gave one groan and collapsed backwards out of the canoe.

AND that was the last time anyone saw Freddie alive. It does seem such a waste too, because there's no one here who can paddle as well as he could. And the really terrible thing about it is that the accident could all have been avoided if I had only used the

OCTOBER VANITY FAIR

If you prefer the books of Norman Douglas to the boots of his famous namesake W. L.—if Diaz suggests Barbizon to you, and not Mexico, oil paintings and not oil shares—if you can hear of Gobelins without inwardly wondering whether Cousin Jim's division fought on that sector—you will certainly want to read this latest number of Vanity Fair.

IN THIS ISSUE:

W. L. GEORGE continues his psycho-analytical study of women-kind. Erik Satie is as fantastic a writer about musicians as he is in writing about R. C. Aldrich, who wrote "Zell", recounts the follies of authors of "realistic" novels, and Charles Brackett, one of the scenario scribes.

HEYWOOD BROUN discusses the stage and the ball park with equal wit and acumen. A page of poems by Edna St. Vincent Millay. Humour by George S. Chappell, Donald Ogden Stewart and Nancy Boyd. Satire by F. M. Colby. Criticism by Kenneth MacGowan and others.

PHOTOGRAPHY is surveyed by George Jean Nathan's latest achievements from the studios of Europe and America, while authoritative articles on sport, finance and clothes round out the issue.

TYPOGRAPHY is covered in George Jean Nathan's review of the Most Absurd City in the World, Frank Crowninshield's outline of his phenomenal success as a publisher of monthly magazines, and Theodore Dreiser's view in the South Seas.

LAST STEEL SHIP TO BE LAUNCHED.

Thirty-fifth Vessel Built for Shipping Board Will be Sent Down Ways at Harbor.

Marking the completion of $73,000,000 worth of steel freighters in four years by the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, the West Chopaka, the last of thirty-five vessels built to fulfill war-time contracts, will be launched at 9:50 a.m. today, at the company's plant at Los Angeles Harbor.

Mrs. Fred L. Baker, wife of the president of the shipbuilding company, was sponsor for the first big vessel that slipped down the ways from this great plant, and the honor of sponsoring the last of the notable string of steamers also will be hers. The launching will be witnessed by several hundred business and professional men and their wives and friends from this city.

Immediately after the ship takes the water, members of the launching party will be guests of the Los Angeles Steamship Company at a luncheon aboard the Harvard. Mr. Baker also is president of this company. The luncheon will be served while the Harvard takes the party to Catalina Island for a day of recreation. There will be band and orchestra music and dancing both going and returning. The party is expected to get back late this afternoon.

Since Dec. 15, 1917, the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company has constructed thirty-five steel vessels, having a total carrying capacity of 320,000 tons.

Some idea of the importance to this community of the contracts executed by this company, may be gathered from the statement that during the last four years as many as 11,000 men have been employed at one time in the company's plant.

The largest pay roll of the company for any one month was that of August, 1918, at the peak of production when the utmost need existed for ships to carry food and ammunition to the armies in France. The total pay roll of the local shipbuilding company for that month was $1,500,000.

FACES CHECK CHARGE.

M. L. Waite Held as Passer of Eleven Pieces of Worthless Paper.

Charged with passing eleven worthless checks, M. L. Waite was arrested yesterday afternoon by police and Pinkerton detectives at his home, 5856 South Crocker street. It is said by the officers that the checks ranged from $10 to $40 and were given to local stores.

According to the report of the detectives assigned to the case, Mr. Waite was arrested on a similar charge in Ventura some time ago, but, because of his family, was released on probation.

LONG-RANGE SHOOTING.

It is claimed that the United States has the specifications for the construction of a gun that will shoot a five-ton projectile a distance of 300 miles. That ought to sink another rivet in Mars's coffin.

BETTER THAN A WAR PROGRAM.

Our idea of a program of preparedness is interpreted by the woman who has her Christmas shopping out of the way by Thanksgiving. Then she can play Thanksgiving as a double-header.

A TIRELESS PERFORMER.

A marathon musician played the piano for sixty-six straight hours without a moment of rest. An artist like that could be mighty popular as a flat-dweller. Think of a party jassing the lyories for three unbroken days!

NEED RENOVATION.

They are using the vacuum-cleaner idea for loading and unloading coal. Why not utilize the vacuum cleaner to renovate the garrets of our wild-eyed Socialists? It is almost impossible to dust their brains with a whisk broom, but the vacuum cleaner suggests competent and practical service in this direction.

MAY BE FOUL PLAY.

The Japanese government is eagerly insistent upon the stipulation that there shall be no bases on the Pacific. What does the Mikado know about the game? He'll have to leave it to the umpire. It is ridiculous to talk about a coast-league season without bases. Wait till the Mikado hears from Bill Wrigley.

THE HOME-OWNING HABIT.

According to the building department over 10,000 bungalows have been put up in Los Angeles this year. That is, there are more than that number of new homes of one family each and a vast majority of these are bungalows. The bungalow may change its size, shape and color, but the building of it continues to be the chief diversion of the Southland.

HER WIFELY DUTIES.

Some women are awful peevish and hard to get along with. Here is one of them suing for a divorce because her husband hitched her up to a wagonload of kindling and drove her twenty-six miles. She said her name wasn't Elizabeth. She also says that the next time she is going to marry a man with a wheelbarrow. The husband's viewpoint is that Emerson advised every man to hitch his wagon to a star and his wife was as good as some of the stars he had seen. The wife should help bear the husband's burdens and if a wagonload of kindling isn't a burden, what is it? He said that, although his wagon had a tongue, his wife's tongue was waggin', so that he just naturally got frustrated. Another wreck on the shoals of matrimony.

PEDESTRIAN TRAFFIC.

When a lot pedestrian in Broadway wished to make the right-hand turn at Seventh street he stuck out his strong right arm after the approved manner of the motorist and those behind or at his side veered their course or slacked up from force of habit. Why isn't this a good idea for pedestrians to follow up? When a walker wants to slow up at a window he might let his paw trail gracefully behind him and when he wishes to make a right or left-hand turn he would extend the proper fin to indicate his purpose. If he wanted to go ahead at full speed he might take the middle of the walk and make a noise like Henry. The City Engineer might study out some safe and sane rules for pedestrian traffic to be incorporated into a city ordinance.

PINK OR WHITE MAIDENS.

Nowadays a girl must have an interesting powder puller instead of the hectic splendor of the rouge pot. According to the best advices from Paris, the highly colored, rosy-cowed girls are passe. A maiden may have all the powder that her nose and complexion can carry, but she should cut out the red paint. A little dry calcimine for decoration is quite the thing, but none of the Titian stuff. The complexion adornment comes from the powder rag and not from the brush. There is supposed to be a pallor that goes with intellectuality and the girl is now trying to be interesting and intellectual. She is showing more of her ears and less of her knees. This is supposed to be prophetic that brains may take the place of jazz.

HIGH COST OF BEAUTY.

Another thing to worry about is the reported scarcity of models—that is, cloak exploiters and other model young women. This unhappy dearth is said to be caused by the high cost of beauty reinforcements. If a girl has to have her hair marcelled twice a week and also stand for a couple of shampoos, a massage, a bleach and a manicure treatment it eats the heart out of a $10 bill. To spend this much every week on the hair and complexion is quite a drain on the purse of a girl who also has to dress and live in a rather showy manner. Therefore it is that some of our cutest models are taking up stenography or going back to the farm where they can wash their hair every Fourth of July and dry it when the wind blows.

MARK OF THE BEAST.

There is a Persian allegory which vividly portrays the results in the after-death state of noble or bestial living while upon earth. Each soul—so runs the legend—is indissolubly joined to the counterpart of itself in the land of souls. This reflex image of itself it had made by its thinking and living while upon the physical plane of life. When one who finds itself linked to a hideous and loathsome image protests at the insufferable alliance it is silenced with the grim verdict: "What I am thou hast made me! I am thyself!" An oriental conception of the stern, uncompromising justice which works unerringly upon all planes! It is as much in force today as it was in those ancient times when the Zend-Avestas with their keynote of purity were the Persian law of life. We call this law, which was embodied in the mystical allegory, the law of cause and effect—the reaping as we have sown. It is a perfectly just and scientific law—this gathering in kind of the fruitage of act and thought. Our system of jurisprudence is based upon it—our courts of justice put it into effect. It is not possible for anyone to escape it. When individuals or classes of people seem to do so it is but a debt whose payment is deferred, with interest compounded.

We sometimes hear it said in excuse of degrading impulses: "It is human nature." It would be closer to the truth to put it thus: "It is bestial nature—the animal within getting the better of the human." The impulsions of the human are always Godward. The human seeks to link itself with the divine. It shudders at contact with the animal which it finds within. It abhors its mark upon the soul.

In view of some degrading crimes of late the mark of the beast appears to be greatly in evidence. The laws of the land seem made chiefly to be broken or set aside. Whether the violators hail from the movie ranks, from the exclusive domain of the smart set or the slums makes no difference in the status of the crime. Defying the law with impunity places them in the category of criminals. The Eighteenth Amendment appears to be observed and kept only by the class of citizens who never needed it. The others break it when possible to do so. It is a dead letter whenever opportunity offers for setting it aside. The chances are many if one has the price—as proven by the outwitted Federal authorities. The crimes committed since the amendment went into force are becoming more fiendish, more revolting, daily. There are innumerable drug fiends where one existed before. Naturally all other crimes follow increasingly. The beast in man is rapidly overcoming the human and growing to proportions horrible to contemplate.

When ostensibly respectable citizens can indulge in drunken debauches as indecent as any which the most corrupt era of ancient Rome could furnish, it affords another problem for the sociologists. While living under a code of national laws which have placed intoxicating liquors under the ban, it is possible to hold the wildest Bacchanalian revels in the leading hotels.

Evidently there has been too much laxity in certain quarters. Whether or not the Eighteenth Amendment was a wise or a just law does not in the least release any class of citizens from its observance. The fact that it is on the statute books as an amendment to the Constitution and a part of our national code renders the keeping of it an obligation of honor. It is the duty of all citizens to keep it inviolate. No class is exempt—although we hardly expect the criminal elements to obey any law. They have put themselves beyond the pale of the law—below instead of above it. When any members of the "smart" set or the "swift" set indulge in spectacular carousals they belong in the same social strata as the denizens of the red-light districts. Their escapades are as revolting in faultless evening attire as in the garb of the slums. The mark of the beast is as pronounced and ineffaceable.

WOMEN AND DISARMAMENT.

The storm raised in feminist circles about the inclusion of a woman at the disarmament conference has not yet quite subsided. Miss Alice Robertson, Congresswoman from Oklahoma, declared she knew of no woman fitted to serve in so important and responsible a capacity and will probably never quite live down her frank remark.

But, while the suffragists are raging around the question on a purely sex basis, there are many other considerations which make the appointment of a woman undesirable, even though one could be found with suitable qualifications.

For this is to be an international conference in which the nations will be represented by responsible statesmen and no woman will be included among their delegates. For the United States to intrude a single woman into the conference would be an impertinence against the women of other nations for the sake of a superfluous gallantry to our own. There could be no good reason why a Japanese lady, a French lady, a Chinese lady, an English lady should not be included if an American were considered qualified. And, while those countries could no doubt find a woman as well qualified as ourselves, it would, in this transition stage of female emancipation, turn the whole affair into a social tea party—an innovation that must essentially react against the unimpaired judgment of the delegates. We may as well admit that statesmen have not yet become used to listening respectfully, intelligently, impartially to women upon the affairs of nations, and, while this may be a consummation devoutly to be wished, it would be unfortunate and undesirable to undertake their training and tuition at such an advanced and superlatively important conference. Or, if it is the feminine tuition that is desirable, a big international conference does not appear to be the best occasion to choose for elementary instruction.

In addition, we must remember that in many of the countries to be represented at the conference women have reached neither the educational, social nor political standards enjoyed by the American woman and that the masculine attitude towards women in general by the delegates from such countries would be proportionate to the degree of feminine progress evident in their own nations. So that a lone American female representative, no matter what her qualifications, might yet tend to belittle the prestige of the United States.

It is a feminist argument that delegates from these "backward" countries would, by the inclusion of an American woman at the conference, receive a much-needed lesson by example in their attitude towards women. But again we contend a vital international conference is not the time and the place for such an innovation and could do nothing but substract whole-hearted consideration from the questions under discussion.

In the meantime, if there is, indeed, such a passionate desire on the part of women to discuss and aid the great question of disarmament, there seems no good reason why a separate feminine conference should not be arranged. Responsible women meeting together from the various countries, feeling qualified to sit upon such a conference, would have ample opportunity to contribute their measure of good judgment, ideals and solutions of great problems to be considered and, according to the result of such a feminine council, the question of feminine qualifications would be proven or disproven. Such a conference could only prove enlightening from every point of view—in showing how far feminine intuition may supersede exact knowledge, how feminine intelligence can grasp the intricacies of the problems involved, feminine plans of solution as differing from or coinciding with those of the men, and feminine practicality for applying principles.

We would suggest Los Angeles as a highly suitable location for such a conference and the fullest publicity should certainly be accorded to it. Any worth-while contributions the women had to make to the vital question of disarmament would then be salvaged to the cause, while any embarrassments that might be occasioned through their imperfect understanding of international conditions and "that little knowledge which is such a dangerous thing" would be spared from the official conference.

HOLLYWOOD BANDLORDS.

According to a mighty wail that is rising out of Hollywood, the Arbuckle case is already reacting against the film profession and certain landlords have given their cinema tenants notice to quit.

"No, you haven't done anything yet, but you may." is the attitude these landlords are adopting—and if this sort of thing becomes general Hollywood will soon be peopled with homeless wanderers. The writer personally knows half a dozen cases. The tenants have not shown any evidence of ribald tendencies; just the fact that they are "in the movies" has been sufficient to condemn them.

It is proper and desirable that landlords should insist upon reputable tenants, but it is also even more desirable that they should not penalize worthy people and adopt arbitrary tactics of prejudice, just because renting conditions are peculiarly advantageous to the landlord just now, and confuse power with righteousness. It is safe to say that, if the supply of homes exceeded the demand, many of these landlords would fail to take so stern a stand on possible future indiscretions and would gladly retain a tenant on his present showing of good conduct. For the landlords to now adopt this extreme measure of precautionary righteousness is just about as reasonable as that we should whip our small boys every day because they will probably deserve it before the day is out.

Eschew disreputable tenants by all means; nothing will so assist towards public propriety as adamant landlords. But an indiscriminate routing of all and sundry persons connected with a craft because it harbors a small percentage of rotters can only create tribulations, suffering and gross injustice.

Nevertheless it is just as well to note that this disastrous Arbuckle case has had just this effect. It isn't wholly reasonable, but it is just so. And while public opinion may not be unanimous on the subject, there is enough of it to justify the landlords in their extreme stand. It becomes increasingly obvious that any profession that wants to remain in good public standing must, indeed, admit that it is its brother's keeper, that it is not sufficient to lead one's own life and maintain one's own good standards.

And there is always the "half-way crowd"—those people who pride themselves on being able to go "so far and no farther," who delight in skating upon thin ice, who play with fire and regard the danger signs as not for them. This is the "smart set" that considers it can afford to be risque, to flirt with the improper, to indulge in behavior which, if carried to its logical conclusion, terminates in an Arbuckle case that they would shudder to be associated with.

And this is the set which has probably inspired the landlords to their drastic action. "You have not done anything yet, but you may." There are so many of them—and the landlords have probably had occasion to read the signs before. So, while we are exhorting the landlords to keep their heads, to exercise just discrimination, it will be just as well if the "smart set" hastens to set its house in order and institute such reforms in its general behavior that it will be above all possible reproach. Then the worthy members of the craft will not be victimized. When members of other professions descend to malpractice and defy specified ethics—doctors, lawyers, merchants—the rest of the profession calls a halt and exercises censorship from within. It may be just as well if the fourth largest industry in the country places itself on a similar standing of self-imposed ethics.

HEROES UNSUNG.

Heroism in the spotlight is not uncommon, when applause for a meritorious action is assured in advance, when the sacrifice is made in the sight of gaping millions. But the highest ideal of heroism is an act impelled by a sense of honor and duty in an affair with which the public has no concern, one that accident only discloses; a sacrifice that conscience alone can reward, that even the recipient may not appreciate.

During recent weeks there has been considerable discussion in the local press concerning the moral attributes that compose a "man in a million," and there is a disposition to award the palm to participants in celebrated cases; but the attention of The Times has been directed to an incident that has escaped public attention, yet is worthy to be engraved in tablets of marble.

One night in August a young man and his sweetheart were riding in an auto in one of the streets of Long Beach. Something went wrong with the engine and the young man alighted to investigate. A man stepped out from the shadow of a pepper tree and presented a revolver to his head. Thinking he had to deal with an ordinary footpad the young man threw up his hands. The assailant adroitly slipped a rope noose about his neck and choked him into unconsciousness.

Then he started the engine, leaped into the car and drove away in the darkness with the fainting and horrified girl. Two hours later he drove the machine back to the outskirts of the city and released his victim after threatening her with death if she attempted to identify her abductor. The girl told her mother what had taken place and the young man informed the police. A few days later the assailant was identified, placed under arrest and locked up in the Los Angeles County Jail. He was killed shortly afterwards by a guard while attempting to escape.

Last week a quiet wedding ceremony was performed in Long Beach. It was the marriage of the young man and the girl who were affianced before the tragedy. It is said that the ceremony had been fixed for December, but that the young man insisted that the date should be advanced. He accepted voluntarily the consequences of the abduction. If a child is born within the next year he will never know whether he is the father. But he did not flinch.

True, he only did his duty, only acted the honorable part. But how many under similar circumstances would have been impelled by the same motives? Possibly he is unaware that he is a knight errant who does not disport his plumes and his shining armor to the public gaze. But he has given an example of manhood that is a welcome contrast to the incidents of murder and lecherous debauchery with which the public is only too familiar. Such instances of heroism, though in a lesser degree, are not uncommon in the daily life of the American people. Sin is made alluring by its flaming colors, but the white flower of purity of thought and nobility of deed still blooms at our feet.

SONS OF THE RICH.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

There were five millionaires on a camping party—old-time friends who had risen from poverty by their own exertions, stealing back for a taste of the simple life.

And in those still, silent watches of a summer night over the camp-fire their talk turned to their sons. And they were exceeding sorrowful.

What chance, they asked, has the son of a rich man?

All of their sons were rapidly growing to manhood, and what would their futures be? They were wise men, these millionaires, for they had no illusions about these, their boys—just ordinary human boys and up against the most exacting test that civilization offers to human nature, the test of making good without the urge of necessity.

"I couldn't stint the boy, that seemed so niggardly. And, besides, I remembered my own trials and hardships working through high school, naturally I had to spare the boy that. And now he is in college—doing pretty well for a rich man's son, but I'm afraid, I'm afraid," said the successful real estate man.

"I know," admitted the merchant prince, "even when you can get 'em through college, fairly well equipped all around, and God knows that isn't easy, no outsider seems to want to employ a rich man's son, and in one's own concern, if one starts him at the bottom, as he should be started, his position with the employees is invidious. It requires an unusual personality for a boy to get by under those circumstances. The youngsters can't help feeling their advantage, putting things over, unless one is adamantly stern with them, and that is about the hardest thing for a father to do."

"Yes, that is just it. If our boys were unusual, unusual enough to enforce self-discipline, we could do so much for them. Every rich man's son would start where father left off and rise to amazing heights—rich men's sons would rule the world. But they are just boys, just plain, human boys—and, God, it's difficult," agreed the great publisher.

"Well, mine are just kids yet, but I mean to be mighty stern with 'em when the time comes. They are having a pretty good time now—gee, when I think of my kid days and what we didn't have—but directly they are old enough I'm going to cut it out. None of your spendthrift weaklings for me. You see, I'll watch 'em," promised the manufacturer.

"Maybe you will and maybe you won't. If you haven't started already it will be too late. Why, you never deny those boys of your anything. Heard they struck for bicycles last week—and got 'em, in spite of your protests and fears that they would kill themselves in the traffic. Oh, you're just as weak as the rest of us," jeered the merchant prince. "Oh, don't look so sick, I've been through it."

"Oh, well, the other kids in the neighborhood all had bicycles—and besides they are such little tikes yet, can begin by spoiling their childhood. Can't be a piker when they know father has the price. But you wait till they are older, so I can reason with them," countered the manufacturer.

"You'll have got the habit by then—and so will they. Oh, I've been through it. My Jack is in college now—and I never spoilt his childhood, either. But—but, oh, well, boys will be boys. I guess he isn't doing any harm. Still, I wish I hadn't let him have the car. You know these damned automobiles—oh, well, it's done now. Break his heart if I took it away. Guess his mother wouldn't stand for it, either. You see, the Smith boy is up there, too, and he has a car. But I'll admit I'm worried," and the rich real estate man's voice sank to a whisper.

And these five rich men are responsible for nine rich men's sons. They are sorely troubled. They want so much to act for the best, they know so well the pitfalls the youngsters are heading for, they remember so well the grim necessity that urged them on in their young days and they ken that old Chinese proverb that says, "If you hate your son, cram him with dainties."

They are not fools, these five rich men, they are human fathers confronted with the result of their own success, confronted with the average human nature of their own boys, confronted with their own eternal desire to give, give, give and deny them, their children, nothing, though it finally breaks their hearts.

They know very well that all character is based upon personal effort, self-denial, self-discipline, resourcefulness, achievement in the face of obstacles. They know that life's golf course must be rich in hazards, traps, bunkers, penalties—but for the life of them they cannot bear to see these boys of theirs put to the test of a championship course while they can seemingly make such a shining score over the private home nine holes! Such fond and foolish fathers, who, knowing the arduous but sure route, cannot resist trying the dangerous short cut for their sons. But they have seen other rich men's sons—and they are afraid.

For these sons of theirs are just ordinary human boys—but the sons of the rich have temptations that the sons of the poor wot not of. It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for the rich man's son to enter the Kingdom of Fine Achievement and Noble Endeavor. And yet how wide and deep are their dazzling opportunities—"chances" offer on all sides—but they are not the mighty, fighting chances that make men great.

When a rich man's son makes good there must be rejoicing in heaven indeed, for he has overcome more dire obstacles, more insidious opposition than poverty ever knew. And all over the country today rich men are sending up a silent, passionate prayer to heaven that these, their sons, may, by some miracle, escape the Nemesis of parental wealth and generosity.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM.

BY HERMAN J. STICH.

Just for Fun,

They tell me this story is old, which, if it were true, would to my mind, in this particular instance, mean that it has soaked in the rarifying flavor of time; and which, if it is not true, is a powerful reason for now exposing it to the spotlight of publicity, so inoculating all who read it with an incurable attack of temporary good humor. And if this makes the majority of us smiling and happier for at least a short while, then it is well worth its length and breadth in gold.

I think Raymond Hitchcock is responsible for this, as he is for most of the good ones going the rounds. And just for fun, then, with no attempt to extract a moral, draw a lesson or make a point, we will give it as nearly as I can as I heard it.

A man came home after having been away for some time and he asked his old negro servant how things had been during his absence.

"That's too bad," said the master, "how did the dog die?"

"How did he die? Oh, he was burned to death, sah."

"I'm sorry to hear that. And how did it happen?"

"Well, you see, sah, de dog was in de barn when de barn burned down and he couldn't get out in time and he burned to death."

"The barn burned down, did you say? I didn't know that—how did that happen?"

"Oh, didn't you know, sah? Dat am a sad story. De house done burn down and de barn done ketch fire from de house and de dog was in de barn and de dog burned to death."

"Oh—that's the way it happened—but how did the house catch fire?"

"Dat happened dis way, sah. One of de candles from yo mother-in-law's wake done set fire to one of the curtains of de house and de house burned down and de barn ketched fire and burned down and de dog was in de barn and when de barn burned down de dog burned up."

"My mother-in-law's wake? What do you mean? What wake?"

"Why, didn't you know, sah? Your mother-in-law done died."

"No—how did my mother-in-law die?"

"Shock!"

"Shock from what?"

"Oh—you wife, sah—de madam—she done run away wif de chauffer, sah, and de shock done kill yo mother-in-law and when dey had de wake one of de candles set fire to de curtains of de house and da house burnt down, sah, and de barn ketched fire from de house and de dog was in de barn and de dog burned to death, sah, see?"

"Yes—yes, I see. Outside of that, though, everything is all right, isn't it?"

EDITORIAL OPINION.

Every time a producer turns out from the studio a play which lives up to the best dramatic traditions he makes a gain in the estimation of that great number of people who want the best and will have the best or nothing. It is these people who have complained, and properly so, that the movie has two serious defects: the first being immorality, the second vulgarity.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

President Obregon of Mexico takes a sane course in inviting five of the biggest oil men in the United States, holders of about $1,800,000,000 par value of securities representing Mexican oil wells, to meet him in Mexico City for a frank discussion. He really isn't half so intransigeant as the constitution of his country.—[Brooklyn Eagle.

The moral obligation to assist the railroads arises from the government's maladministration of them during the war period. The economic obligation arises from the fact that prosperity in many other industries is dependent on efficient and successful railroad operation.—[New York Tribune.

Into the mammoth cave of hallucination walks Sam Gompers and pulls the hole in after him when he calls upon wage-earners, organized and unorganized, to support his nonsensical Atlantic City proclamation by resisting attempts at wage reductions and urging all the people to join in the demand that our processes of production be stabilized and that the "well-organized and concerted efforts of the exploiters of our land for the further reduction of wages shall come to an immediate end."—[New York Herald.

Not only each generation, but each locality, it would seem, needs to learn the lesson that no petty force that mere man can exert or command is powerful enough to precipitate moisture from the atmosphere. The absurdity of producing rain by artificial means is exposed by scientists at least once in a decade, but almost every year new magicians arise and find backers for rainmaking enterprise.—[Portland Oregonian.

The Old World is as willing as the New to do what it can to alleviate distress in Russia and save the lives of those confronted with the specter of famine. And the shortest way to furnish such relief where it is needed most is through private, not governmental agencies. The civilized conscience of mankind will not be willing to enter into relations with the despotism that now rules Russia. To feed the starving Russian masses it is not necessary to give aid and comfort to the cause of the Bolsheviki.—[Boston Transcript.

What has become of the local Overall Club?

Even a fat man, when he is weighed, is often found wanting.

Of course, America will retain the Davis cup, but with prohibition we have nothing to put in it.

If the reduction in the prices of Ford automobiles continues they will soon be on sale on the bargain counters of the 5-and-10-cent stores.

In spite of the program of retrenchment, the growing crop of assistants to Atty.-Gen. Daugherty continues to flourish like unto the green bay tree.

The German mark has now reached the lowest price in history, less than 1 cent. That is almost as depressed as Democratic hopes in this country.

Postmaster-General Hays says that too much money is being hoarded by the people and he wants a billion dollars released. There goes our two-bits.

The silk hat is coming back. The next thing will be the long-tailed coat with silk facings. Not to speak of pantaloons that the wearer has to be run into red-hot in a more or less fluid state.

Hundreds of events are scheduled for the entertainment of the visiting Pacific Fleet by the citizens of Los Angeles. Would it be the proper thing to refer to our guests as "floating" population?

The propaganda for the betterment of the Filipinos is being renewed. There is much to be said on both sides of this question, largely depending on whether one is over found in the islands.

Stories of severe weather for this time of year and heavy falls of snow are reported east of sun-kissed southern California. We should worry. All the signs point to a severe winter, which means that many more tourists to this land of sunshine.

A stiff advance is reported in the price of the fines imposed in the local Federal court for violations of the national prohibition law. The machinery of the law is strictly unsupporting, so far as that branch of the law-enforcement service is concerned.

In the coming international conference to see what can be accomplished toward stopping all war the United States will be a dominant figure. That much is already known. In the high post of Secretary of State we have a man who is equal to the task.

It has been determined that the American troops will not be withdrawn from the Rhine provinces until after the ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany and peace will not then. So it will be impossible to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas.

The wireless and the flying machine are wonderful, of course, but it is our judgment that the fellow who has made a substitute for butter that even fools the farmers into buying it has accomplished more. Another wonder is the extermination of the house fly.

The loss of life and property by the floods at San Antonio is appalling. Some day men will learn how to build cities where they may not be menaced or destroyed by forces of nature. The brain of man has not yet learned how to harness. The ways of the omnipotent will not be denied.

The Democratic press is in a veritable dizzy over the coming disarmament conference. They dare not oppose it as that would be poor politics, but they cannot afford to go on record as not favoring any plan by which the dangers of future wars may be minimized. On the other hand they are afraid to approve of the meeting, because it is a Harding meeting, and must all through. Such are the tragedies of Democratic politics.

When King Boris of Bulgaria visits the United States he will go to the little village of Lexington, Mass., to honor the grave of the man buried there, whose soul prayer was offered once a year in every Bulgarian church. Januarius MacGahan, born and raised in Perry county, Ohio, revealed the Bulgarian atrocities in 1876, upset a government and made possible the "freedom" of Bulgaria from the Unspeakable Turk.

The State Supreme Court of Florida has declared the state poll tax unconstitutional. The argument was given in the case of a Japanese appellant. The court held that, under the existing treaty between the United States and Japan, the tax is inoperative for any purpose. In other words, the treaty is paramount to a State law. The only way to change the status of the Japanese and that is to change the treaty. State sovereignty is given another blow on the point of the chin.

SHE WAS A DREAM.

(A Rondeau.)

She was a dream, a lyric sight
And inspiration from the start!
And so I sang with all my might
Of love and hope that live and move
And thoughts that live and never die!

Would she awake and tell me why
Poetic themes are never dry?
Ah, still I revel in delight;
She was a dream.

Why should my muse be ever shy
And kill the truth to gild a lie?
For I awoke with eyes bright
Her vision fled was not of night.
The nightmare came from eating pie—
She was a dream.

REV. E. E. HELMS.
CENTENNIAL CHURCH.

"Which better is a man than a sheep—how much? That's a question and easy to answer it. We are about to answer it. Not to that, there are many points in which a sheep actually excels the man. And, too, there is forthcoming in some measure that the man and the sheep are the same. The only difference being that the man has a few rounds more up the ladder of evolution. Howbeit a man believes there is a real difference between a man and a sheep. Wherein? Not likely to occur first to him because man is impressed more simply longevity than longevity is no evidence of worth. A beetle is a very long lived thing. A golden winged beetle under the beetle subject is pure butterfly. . . . Let it suffice to say a man is better than a sheep because he is made for a sheep hath not. When it comes to physical life hath not whereof to boast. The vulture hath a telescope instructed to which man is blindness. As to sense of smell is man's scent to that of deer? As to hearing—a robin hears the worm hidden deep in the earth. Not even a savage's keenness like that. The sense of a cat's whiskers are electrical wire, sensitive to the touch. Man possesses no such sense. No, no, man—man lost in a wilderness waste, dying of thirst, coming to a pool cannot tell whether drinking thereof will slake his thirst or whether the waters are poison impregnated. But the wild animal roving the forests, but touching the waters with its tongue knows instantly and instinctively whether it be water of life or liquid death. When it comes to calling the roll of the five senses, the sheep has the better of the man.

"But man has a memory. What is memory? The power to recall. A sheep possesses the same like power. But man possesses the power of reason. Arguments a plenty are forthcoming, based on observations and facts abundant that a sheep is not wanting in powers and processes of reasoning.

"If a man is really better than a sheep it is because he has something the sheep has not. What is it? The Book calls that something a soul. A sheep has five senses, a man has six; the soul sense. This is what gives man a moral character. A sheep has no moral character. A ram kills a little child and all undisturbed it continues to feed itself on the green grass about the dead child. Not so man. The missing link has never been discovered and never will be—for the missing link is the soul. The soul is the sense whereby man cries, 'Abba Father.' No sheep ever did or ever could do that."

REV. E. F. DAUGHERTY.
FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

"The individual, the community, the nation, the whole wide world now and then above everything else needs the proclamation of the 'gospel of warning.' It has never been a popular gospel; its proclaimers the course of history down, have been scoffed at, sneered at, laughed at and rejected, ofttimes stoned, imprisoned and rejected in a death of shame, but the life need of admonition never subsides because the world gets wisdom slowly and distasteful warnings are all too soon rejected.

"At the door of the scriptural temple, two leaves have not been turned until the warning of God to Adam and Eve to let the fruit of the forbidden tree alone, is faced. The last page of the book holds the words, 'If any man take away from the words of this book'—let him beware! Open the book on any page, law prophecy, wisdom, literature, gospel narrative—and in neither direction can you read far until faced by some expression in warning's gospel. . . . In natural life that spiritual law equally holds. Besetting all our physical experiences is this gospel; pain? It is warning's signal.

"In morals? The harvest of drunkenness, the shock of moral scandal, the smudges of licentiousness always existing, persisting, come because the fast young man thinks he can avoid his wild oats reaping, and the indiscreet young woman thinks she will draw the line short of sorrow—but fails.

"The characteristically fatal folly of our race is heedlessness for admonitions, hear and heed seem the blindest and deafest.

"Sin is not merely stupid, but a stupifier; those who run in folly's path go blindfolded and bandage tightens as the pace increases.

"Warnings, threat and penalties thwart the pleasure of the world—and pleasure the world of our humanity is bound to have. We would rather face any other fact in the gospel of Christ than its sure promise of condemnation for the presumptious and faithless; the fact is not popular in the world's life; it never has been.

"Human lust, greed and avarice are so impatient of delay, so intolerant of any interference with plans for indulgence that it turns the strength of its hate and vengeance on every stalwart proclaimer of warning.

"Our times are soft and easy, and the popular demand is for one in pulpit forum or press who can smooth things, excuse folly, glorify war or impiously sanction greed in its many manifestations."

REV. DAN A. TRUNDLE.
ALVARADO CHRISTIAN.

"Paul applied the principle of classification to Christian attributes. One case in point is the twelfth chapter of Romans; here he gives a most wonderful summary of fundamental virtues of Christian life as to the effect its various relations will produce.

"Putting the great motive first of the mercies of God as a strong persuasion, he begins by urging sacrifice upon our part as an indispensable perquisite victory upon this great battlefield. As touching the former covenant; the old is dead, the new is living. The Jewish was only a foreigeism, a prediction in type, while this is the reality, the substance, the living idealisation. It is urged as a reasonable requirement for the evident fact that God always gives us thirty-six inches for a yard, sixteen ounces for a pound and sixty minutes for the hour. Do this and avoid being cramped, dwarfed, dwindled to the ever downward, baser standards of the world. Do this and, instead of being passively molded to the conformation of lower world-forms, be transformed by the heavenly ideals of a perfect life. Do this and ultimately lead the way to a world-wide unity of race, of program, of relation, of universal peace that can be attained in no other spirit. Thus will we destroy enemies by extinction of hate. Practical love, filled with the Spirit of God can turn bitterest enemies into dearest friends. In like manner will the dreariest, deadliest deserts become the most charming, beautiful and productive landscapes."

RABBI E. F. MAGNIN.
TEMPLE B'NAI B'RITH.

"No other work has ever wielded the influence on human thought and achievement that the Bible has and no other work ever will. You can no more invent a substitute for the Bible than you can invent a substitute for the sun's rays. Man invents artificial light and heat but the power of the sun is pre-eminent. There are other great masterpieces of literature and religion. But they are to the Bible what a stepmother is to the normal ideal mother. There are good stepmothers and bad mothers. But a good mother is better than a good stepmother. Man does not need a new Bible. What he needs is a proper understanding of the Bible. What he needs is an application of its eternal principles to everyday life. What he needs is to understand that he must separate the chaff from the wheat and select for his guide the best passages of Sacred Writ. What he needs is the realisation that the Ten Commandments are the eternal foundation of an ideal social organization and that they must be applied to the specific instances and events, of political, economic and social existence."

REV. ALDEN LEE HILL.
HIGHLAND PARK CHRISTIAN.

"Ever since Peter opened the Kingdom of Heaven on the day of Pentecost, the door of the kingdom has never been shut. Christ said, 'I am the door, by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved.' There is no other door by which we can enter, for the Master has said, 'No man cometh unto the Father but by me.' When one becomes a Christian, he constantly faces open doors that lead to service and usefulness. When Paul came to Troas he declared, 'A door was opened unto me of the Lord.' The ascended Christ dictated a letter to the church at Philadelphia, saying, 'I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it.' But there is a door that we can shut and open at will. It is the entrance into our own heart and life. Hear the Master say 'Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him and sup with him and he with me.' If we neglect or reject the Christ during these days of choice, the day of judgment will reveal the door of eternal joy forever closed against us. In the parable of the virgins, we read, 'They that were ready went in with him to the marriage, and the door was shut.' Too late! Barred forever!"

DR. W. E. TILROE.
LAKE-AVENUE METHODIST.

"The task is of the indigenous in the earth. One does not need to be heavy hearted to say, 'Blessed be work.' Men never come to noon but by way of the night and morning. They are not as lazy as they dare be. The great rule is the love of work for work's sake. Culture, wealth, power, love, are all at the price of the shovel and the hoe. That God should be a task is not in the least strange. Were He inevitable He would be cheap. Men do not worship God because they do not earn Him.

"The sheer size of the God achievement makes it a task. Men are fascinated and overwhelmed often by a very small section of things. Did they happen upon the God of things it would be an insane world. The good book thinks it a job to believe God is.

"The littleness of men makes God a task. That He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him, that a dwarf may have His ear, has never been easy to grapple. So human beings have had their idols and Nazareth. One step to God, God at first hand, was so unthinkable.

"The prescribed diligent search for God is evidence that He is a task. His temple at the side of the road is quite likely to be forgotten. An easy religion is the decay of religion. One who wants to be good for nothing always gets what he wants. He never gets God. God is a task.

"The challenge of the tragic day in which we live is that we make a business of religion. Until the conscience of the earth shall be more than a diversion, ornamental, an appendix, it will be a sick old earth. The left hand will never win the bout of life. God is a task.

DR. CARL PATTON.
FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

"The process of moral degeneration is known by many names. Sometimes we call it 'going to pieces.' Sometimes we call it 'getting seedy' or 'running down.' Our forefathers used to refer to it under the stronger phrase, 'going to hell;' and this was really a pretty good name for it. Some men degenerate in a few months; some take years for it. Sometimes a man spends many years getting ready and then goes to pieces all in a day. Sometimes he is in pieces a long time before anybody sees it. Whisky furnishes a perennial root; so do gambling and all other forms of fast living. Many men, however, go by the easier and slower routes of stinginess, laziness and moral shiftlessness.

"Whatever the route taken, the end of the journey is the same. Every man has in him a certain moral fiber, like the fiber of wood or leather. This fiber is what makes him good for anything. Moral degeneration does not come from anyone bad habit; nor even from two or three. It is not the practice of any one vice; but it is the weakening and rotting of this moral fiber itself.

"The simplest way to avoid going down the hill is to go up it. Every time you put duty above pleasure; unselfishness above ease; self-control above self-indulgence; the fear of God above the fear of men; you get further away from the wreck and refuse at the bottom of the hill and lessen by so much the possibility of your ever landing among them. Historically, the great preventive of moral degeneration has been the gospel of Jesus Christ. When this gospel comes, not simply into your ears, but into your heart, and you make it the conscious purpose of your life to love your enemies, to do good to them that hate you; when you recognize all men as your brothers; God as your Father, and Christ as your personal Savior and friend, then your face is set toward the heights. The spirit of God that has been in the world from the beginning, and that from the beginning has been the world's only real safeguard from moral disaster and wreck, finds its perfect expression in the life of Jesus Christ. When you become a follower of His, you make one of that vast procession which from out all time and place has been moving onward toward the kingdom of heaven."

DR. W. G. MILLS.
ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.

"What will save the world, or any part of it, from the situation in which it finds itself?" said a friend to me lately. My answer was: 'A true spiritual revival will do it.' But what sort of a revival is that? The sort that gives man a vision of God and His holiness; the sort that shows men somewhat of the wickedness and shamefulness of sin; the sort that awakens the conscience and gives a new sense of responsibility; the sort that shows men that without God they are without hope in this world and for eternity; the sort that exposes the folly of looking for social reconstruction without moral foundations and of expecting the kingdom of heaven without individual regeneration; the sort that insists, as God insists, upon the need of 'being born from above;' the sort that accepts Jesus Christ as Savior and crowns Him Lord; the sort that is loyal to the missionary commission of the cross; the sort that comes through a new sense of need, a new vision of Christ, a new experience of grace, a new enthusiasm for God, and a new passion for those for whom Christ died. No other sort of a revival has ever brought salvation to a desperate world and no other ever will."

WOMEN VETERANS PLAN GET-TOGETHER DINNER

No Finer or More Fashionable Silks Than These

"ANYTHING crepey looks good for this season," say the authorities. So, among the new offerings there is a wealth of these beautiful soft crepes for draped frocks, and in the heavier grades, such as Canton and satin crepes, for tailored designs.

All 40 Inches Wide. In Black and Every Autumn Color

Canton Crepes, $4.00 and more
Balkan Crepe, $5.00 yard.
Crepe Sylla, $7.00 yard.
Crepe Durbar, $5.00 yard.
Duvetyn Crepe, $6.50 yard.
Crepe Roma, $6.50 yard.
Crepe de Chine, $1.95 to $6.50.
Cinderella Crepe, $3.50 yard.
Crepe Elizabeth, $6.00 yard.

Georgette Crepes from $1.95 to $3.50 a yard.
(Second Floor)

New Autumn Coatings; Beautiful

SO CHARMING, in fact, that many a woman who has not been accustomed to sewing will find their lure impossible to resist. In the new wool velours there are novelty plaids and stripes in color combinations that are positively inspirations. The luxurious quality of plain colored Tricotines, Poiret Twills and French serges are quite as tempting in glorious new Autumn shades.

Bolivia Coatings, $6 and $7.50
Moussyne Coatings, $6.50 yard
Evora Coatings, $12.00 yard.
Panveline Coatings, $8.00 yard.
Marvella Coatings, $14.00 yard.

CAMCO CORSET

You'd never know you were wearing a reducing corset—the Camco is so easy and comfortable. Coddal ms, for the short, heavy figure, illustrates how simply the lock and tackle lacing system reduces the hips. We'd like to show you the various Camco models.
(Third Floor)

And of Course Good Linings Are Essential

IN FACT, they frequently have the effect of "making" the entire creation, be it gown or wrap, with their ornate designs and vivid colorings.

Apropos of the Newest Apparel

IT MAY be said that in all the years in which Coulter's have sold women's garments, we never received so many compliments upon our complete and attractive showing as are being made daily this Fall.

In Dresses, for instance, there are all the new soft crepes—Canton, crepe de chine, Roshanara, Georgette, satin Canton, wool Canton and the twills so favored—in black and Fall's best colorings—and in a variety of ways of making that meet every possible whim or requirement—$25.00 to $110.

In Other Garments—the assortment is equally lovely—will you see them?
(Third Floor)

The Costume Blouse Is Smart

AND essential, if madame would be smartly garbed this season. Very often the wool chenille trimming with which the blouse is embroidered, or the beading that makes it distinctive, will be found in shades that exactly harmonize with one's suit or wrap—in any event, the contrast can be made most effective.

Such colors as Mohawk, navy, brown, black, yellowstone and the other favored Fall tones provide diversity in plenty.

Prices, too, are very pleasing—
$8.75 and more.

PASADENA, Sept. 18.—Two of the most important events in the history of the Boy Scout movement in Southern California are scheduled to be held in Pasadena within the next few weeks. On the 30th inst. at Camp Huntington, the home of the Pasadena Scouts in Rubio Canyon, merit badge awards are to be made to over 200 Scouts who qualified in various tests at the present summer camp of the Pasadena Scouts at Catalina. This is the largest number of Scouts to qualify for merit badges in Southern California, according to Tallman Trask, Scout executive of the Pasadena Council of Scouts. The other event will be an official visit from Dr. George J. Fisher of New York City, deputy Scout executive of the United States. Dr. Fisher is coming early in October.

Six organizations in Pasadena have signified their intention of joining in the Community Chest movement which is being launched in Pasadena to handle all welfare and relief work. It is expected that a big drive for financial support will be made early in November.

A special train is being arranged by Pasadena Lodge of Elks to take its members to the State convention of the order, which will meet at Santa Cruz early next month. The lodge is also to send its drill team of forty members and its band of thirty-five men.

The Universalists held their last services today in their church, having sold the property to the First Nazarene Church. The latter congregation is to take possession a week from today. The Universalists have worshiped in the church for over thirty years. The congregation is planning to erect a new church in the eastern part of the city.

Extensive improvements are being rushed to completion at Pasadena High School. The second unit of reinforced concrete grand stand is being finished at a cost of $15,000. It will seat 3000 people. A three-acre tract is being paved to be used as a parking space for students' cars. Owing to the crowded conditions in the school, several additional class rooms are being constructed by placing partitions across large study halls.

DIED IN SALT LAKE.

Miss Margaret P. Merrill, for three years a teacher at the Polytechnic elementary school, died today in Salt Lake City, according to word received by Pasadena relatives. Miss Merrill had intended returning to Pasadena this fall. She was one of the most popular faculty members of the school.

The sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Hollister, 1145 Constance street, and the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnham of 390 South Marengo avenue were observed today with receptions at their homes. Mr. Hollister is 87 years of age and his wife 81. Mr. Burnham was for many years a newspaper publisher in New England.

MILITARY HNORS FOR HERO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 18.—The body of Albert E. Forker, one of the thirty-six Redlands men to lay down their lives in service during the war, was accorded full military honors by the American Legion here this afternoon and was laid to rest in Hillside Cemetary. The funeral services were held at the great amphitheater in Library Park. Major H. H. Cooke, chaplain of the local post, officiating. The body was escorted from the funeral chapel to the amphitheater by comrades of the dead soldier.

NEW SLOW RECORD FOR POSTCARD.

Goes Twenty Miles in Twelve Years; Addressee Long Since Dead.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UPLAND, Sept. 18.—A postcard mailed in Upland in 1909 reached its destination in San Bernardino yesterday. It took twelve years to go twenty miles, traveling at the high speed of one and two-thirds miles per year. The man to whom it was addressed died in 1911.

Athlete Saves Drowning Girl at Long Beach.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 18.—Three women and one man were rescued from a terrific tide rip that prevailed along this coast today.

Emma Zeuehl of 1304 East Ocean avenue had been carried 1500 feet out to sea when cries for help attracted the notice of S. Weinert, who was just returning from an eight-mile run to Seal Beach. Weinert plunged into the ocean, swam to the woman's assistance and brought her to the beach just as life guards, police and the fire-department pulmotor arrived on the scene. She was soon revived and was taken to her home. The rescue took place at the foot of Seventh Place.

Life Guards Dicey, Linderman and Whitmore rescued two sisters, Margaret and Mary Brink, from the tide rip from the foot of Eighth Place. Both girls were more than a half-mile out when rescued.

The same life guards brought in Alonzo Schnitzline from the same vicinity.

Officials of the Shell Oil Company of California announced today that they had closed a lease for an entire city block from the Pacific Electric Company at Eleventh street and Obispo avenue and would erect at once a $100,000 oil terminal. Huge warehouses and machine shops are among the buildings that will be erected at once.

Baby, Kicked by Horse and Shot, Still Thriving.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donnelly, who live in the Etiwanda section to the east of Ontario, decided today that their 4-year-old son, Allen, has a charmed life, when the child's survival of a kick in the face by a horse marked his second escape from death by a hair's breath within the week.

A few days ago little Allen was struck by the bullet from a hunter's gun while playing in a field near his home, but the bullet was nearly spent and inflicted only a superficial wound.

He was kicked full in the face by a horse today and only the fact that the animal was unshod saved him from death in the opinion of Dr. A. L. Weber, who was called to attend him. No bones were broken, but the child's face is badly cut and swollen.

CHARIOTEER READY.

District Supervisor Has His Steeds Trained and is Confident.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Sept. 18.—Tom Clark, Supervisor for the Ojai district, is getting ready to take on any and all comers this year in the chariot race to be held at the County Fair in October. Clark, who has many fine horses on his ranch, has for years, driven his own team in the county fair chariot races and has never been beaten.

This year Tom Mix and Bob Anderson are to bring teams to the fair and Clark is looking for a run for his money. However, those who have watched his driving for years able. He is an exceedingly skillful driver, which counts for a good deal in chariot racing, and also has fast horses trained for the sport from colthood.

Police Judge at San Diego After Speeder.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 18.—Seventeen speeders were released from the City Jail this morning, after having served twelve-hour jail sentences imposed by Police Judge E. L. Davin.

After asking the speeders' opinions as to deterrent measures in Police Court yesterday, Judge Davin announced that the jail sentences which he is meting out to speeders will be increased by twelve hours each week-end. Speeders caught this week will serve twenty-four hours in jail, next weeks' hurry-up squad will serve thirty-six hours and so on until the present speeding wave is abated.

Under the law he can increase the sentences until a limit of thirty days in jail and a fine of $100 is reached.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LA HABRA, Sept. 18.—The Hacienda Country Club, situated in the picturesque hills north of La Habra, opened its nine-hole golf course today with a general jollification by members and friends. The temporary clubhouse, equipped with the usual modern conveniences is finished, and with the putting greens in good shape and the course well covered with Bermuda grass, it was decided not to wait until the completion of the other nine holes for the official opening. Many of the visitors enjoyed a picnic dinner, making use of the tables and brick ovens provided.

The president of the club is Alonzo E. Bell of Santa Fe Springs, and half a dozen communities, including La Habra, Whittier and Fullerton are represented on the board of directors.

LOS ANGELES MAN MUST ANSWER FOR ACCIDENT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 18.—F. M. Akin, 435 Plymouth avenue, Los Angeles, has been served with a warrant of arrest and summons to appear before Justice Abner McCrary of Mission to answer to the charge of breaking the control on the Mill Creek road to Bear Valley. This resulted in a collison in which Raymond Reynolds and R. H. Washburn were injured.

Officers claim that Akin arrived at the control at 4 o'clock and asked when he could go ahead. He was told by Officer Hi Clark that he could go at 5 o'clock. Akin stated that he misunderstood and thought the control officer told him he could go any time before 5 o'clock.

Jay Boone, traffic officer, says that Akin offered to pay all the expenses of the accident. The injured men were brought to the hospital here and are out of danger.

TO ERECT PLANT AT VENTURA.

ROB WHILE POLICE RAID CHINATOWN

Flying Squad Kept Busy Answering Hold-up Calls; Diners Victims of Bandits.

While squads of police officers were conducting gambling raids in Chinatown and other sections of the city early yesterday morning, the Flying Squadron, in command of Lieut. Slaten, was kept busily engaged answering an unusually large number of appeals for help from victims of hold-ups.

One of the most daring cases occurred in a small rooming-house at 578 North Hill street. Answering a telephone call from this address stating that a Mexican, half-crazed with the effects of smoking marihuana, was offering death as an alternative to anyone failing to hand over their valuables.

Officers Barnes and Thompson found that the Mexican, single-handed, had held up and robbed seven young men after backing them into the dining-room of the rooming-house at the point of a revolver. According to the officer's report, the Mexican, who is said to be known to the police, entered the front room in which the seven young men were enjoying an after-dinner smoke on the pretext of seeing a friend. When inside he drew a gun and compelled one of the party to do the searching. Those who held their hands towards the ceiling and lost valuables were: Joe Raymond of 1334 Wall street, $10; M. Escudero of 578 North Hill street, $25 and a watch; Frank Rodriguez, two gold rings; Thoman Luas of 1610 East First street, $1.50 and a watch; A. H. Alcanter of 752½ East Eighteenth street, $10; L. S. Soto of 408 North Figueroa street, 90 cents, and J. Portillo, who lost $1.25. Mr. Luas saved $15 by tucking it inside his collar. Rufella Andrade of 350 North High street, who lost no money, saved a gold ring by hiding it.

Man Run Down; Driver Nabbed in Mile Chase.

Zig-zagging around blocks at a rate exceeding thirty-five miles an hour, according to the police report, after he had driven his car over Frank Ferry of 824 Castelar street, Benjamin Swartz, a salesman living at the Meringo Hotel in Pasadena, late last night failed to outdistance Motorcycle Officer Wearne and went to jail on a felony charge of failing to render aid.

Mr. Ferry, according to Officer Wearne's report, was knocked down by the automobile driven by Swartz at Alpine street and North Broadway. Wearne stated he chased Mr. Swartz a mile before he finally overtook him. Mr Ferry was treated at the Receiving Hospital for minor abrasions and contusions.

HELD ON GUN CHARGE.

Police Believe They Foiled Plot to Smuggle Revolver into Jail.

A probable attempt to smuggle a revolver in to one of the prisoners in the City Jail was frustrated early yesterday morning when Officers Weyerman and White in the desk sergeants' office at Central Police Station located a 32-calber weapon loaded and half-cocked tucked down under the waistline of Gus Gests, who applied at the City Jail for lodging.

The gun was not noticed during the first search. But a few seconds later it was seemingly jarred and caused Gest's trousers to bulge in front whereupon the officers took it out as evidence and booked Gests on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

TO TEACH SAFETY IN A NEW WAY.

Folk Lore Classics Designed to Carry Appeals to Reduce Accident Total.

Teaching of safety through childhood fairy tales, is to be started today by the Los Angeles Railway in co-operation with the Board of Education.

More than 300,000 copies of folk-lore classics are to be distributed to school children from the first to fifth grades, inclusive. The back page of the booklets is devoted to pictures and verse, showing how automobile and street car accidents happen and how they can be avoided.

It is the hope of Mrs. Suman M. Dorsey, superintendent of schools, and agencies working with the Board of Education in accident prevention, that the children will take the little books home to their parents and incidentally interest them in the move for greater safety.

Each book contains eight pages with colored illustrations. Sixteen different books are included in the series and each child will receive eight, according to his grade in school. The distribution will cover two months.

The safety suggestions on the back of the books are not confined to street cars, but include autos and

The babes of yesterday are the daring helmsmen of today

What is this new civilization our young people are working out for themselves—and for us?

THE youngsters have briskly flung aside the conventions we used to talk of tearing down!—

"A new procession has formed since Armistice Day," they exult. "Join it."

We swing in. But can we keep up the pace?

IN all this indulgent shaking of heads, these tolerant speculations as to what next, is there any serious appreciation of the fact that this is really a new era we are in?

The old ethics are gone. The new generation has its new ethics.

Who among us is meeting this new civilization with breadth and constructiveness?

THREE years ago Pictorial Review electrified the world of women's magazines by proclaiming aloud the secret of its success.

While others had kept on editing for the memory of the woman that used to be, Pictorial Review had evidenced an uncanny aliveness to the reality of the woman that was coming!

The American woman was awake! The wide world itself was the boundary of her activities and interests—

And the one magazine which had recognized abundantly those new interests and activities was the one to which she had swung unerringly.

TODAY, Pictorial Review proclaims a new success—throws out a fresh challenge to all other women's magazines: What do you make of this new era? What part are you taking in it?

Women of this new era are doing things. They have questioned and speculated long enough. Today they act.

And the magazine that would hold their interest—it, too, must act.

It must be unafraid. Must take firm hold, among things that are changing, of those things which will endure. In the swirl of loosened forces, it must stand by the young pioneers at the helm, to encourage and support and report.

Divorce, Marriage, the Illegitimate Child, the Unmarried Mother, the Married Woman in Industry—and in Business, the revelations of Psychoanalysis, the Education of the Child, the Insurance of Maternity, the whole broadening of Civic Responsibilities, the ghastliness of War and its aftermath—what is the younger generation making of the age-worn problems whose unshakeableness baffled us?

DURING the past two years, Pictorial Review has reflected with vigor and freshness the new alignments that have been and still are in the making on these vital aspects of the new civilization that is shaping—

Without tinge of fear or propaganda, Pictorial Review has recognized the new attitudes that have been developing toward these old complications.

AND the response to Pictorial Review's awareness has been after all only an evidence of the reality and intensity of this quickening of the younger generation itself.

Year after year the magazine has increased in circulation, until today at a price* exceeding that of its major competitor, it finds it necessary to print 2,100,000 copies of its October, 1921, issue.

*Pictorial Review, 25 cents a copy.
*Ladies' Home Journal, 15 cents a copy.

No other woman's magazine so vividly reflects tendencies of today

Is the dictum of our youth that divorce shall be had for the asking?

More divorces yearly in America than in twenty European countries combined. Is this the result of a less serious attitude toward marriage? Or is this tearing down of old props an honest endeavor to build a finer, more enduring structure. In one year Pictorial Review has published nine articles analyzing the trend in thought on this question.

What sort of schooling will our children's children get?

In the public schools of tomorrow will work and play, science and the arts, be as important as the old arithmetic and spelling books? In Pictorial Review the rights of the school child will be treated with expert attention. Educators and plain mothers and fathers will discuss the new tendencies in education.

What shall we do with the children of unmarried parents?

Because for centuries we have shut our eyes to the existence of these babies, 35,000 of them die yearly. Today people ask—"Is it fair that the children suffer for the fault of the parents?"

Pictorial Review is the only woman's magazine which has voiced conspicuously the pathos of these suffering sojourners. The fearless study this magazine has made of this subject has won the commendation of thousands of men and women.

The women's contribution in return for the vote

A review of the important government and community measures that Pictorial Review has actively sponsored, reads like a survey of the whole world of restless thought and activity that is working out better ways for civilization.

Maternity Insurance, Increase of Teachers' Salaries, Federal Aid for Increased School Facilities, A Permanent Woman's Bureau in the Department of Labor, International Disarmament, Prompt Government Action on behalf of Disabled Soldiers, Solving the Shortage of Trained Nurses, Cleaning Up the Movies, A Square Deal for the Illegitimate Child, Uniform Divorce.

Fiction must reflect and make vivid the problems of the times

A vigor that is missing in contemporary women's magazines. Authors know that they are free to work out in this magazine sincere interpretations of life. This is why writers of penetration and high standing contribute their best work to it.

Pictorial Review's short stories have been accorded first rank among all popular magazines. And among the best selling novels of the past year, three were first published in Pictorial Review.

At 8 p.m., thousand-dollar-a-night society horse show.

At 8:30 p.m., airplane fireworks display, Samuel Long and Capt. Otto Enderton.

At 10 p.m., American Legion dance in pavilion.

With a challenge to the world to show finer live stock, agricultural and horticultural products and babies, the Los Angeles county fair will be formally opened for a week's exhibit and festivities at 10 a.m. today at San Fernando.

The first horse show, which is heralded as the "classiest" horse event in the State, will open at 8 p.m. today and will be repeated every night during the fair. There will be many in the arena and $1000 in awards will be made each night. Hamilton Bassett is in charge of the show.

The Supervisors, Mayor Cryer of the city and Dr. George P. Clements of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will be present today to help officially launch the fair.

At the same time a special Pacific Electric car, equipped with speakers and a brass band, will begin a three-day tour through Southern California to advertise the fair and invite the public to attend.

Brass bands have been secured for the fair grounds, and there will be a band concert every hour of the day and night in different parts of the grounds.

Judging in the junior and adult classes in live stock will begin this morning. Judging in the various departments run by the women of San Fernando Valley, including the baby show, culinary, needlework, art, plants and flowers also will begin today.

The cafeteria at the fair grounds is prepared to take care of the people, and free parking space for thousands of cars is ready. E. R. Elkins, chairman of the fair, announced that the most direct automobile routes from Los Angeles to the fair grounds are the San Fernanda Boulevard; Hollywood Boulevard over Cahuenga Pass and through Universal City and Lankershim; and the Ventura Boulevard through Van Nuys.

Land Patents by Hundred Are Unclaimed Here

About 450 original patents issued to homesteaders in the local land district are lying unclaimed in the office of Register Groves and Receiver Mitchell in this city, it was announced yesterday.

They cover certificates issued by every President from Grant in 1868 to Harding in 1921, and include papers bearing the signatures of Presidents Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Wilson, Cleveland and Harrison.

Homesteaders concerned may secure these patents by the surrender of their certificates of final proof or affidavits showing that they are the owners of the land in question.

The failure of a homesteader to call for the official authority granting the land he occupies as a home to him and his assigns is one of the anomalies of human nature. Ordinarily it would be supposed that a man would look after his title to his property the first thing, but nearly 500 have not done so in the local land district. The entries cover land in Los Angeles, Kern, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, San Diego, Ventura, Riverside and Orange counties.

The Imperial county patents were transmitted to El Centro when the new land office was opened there two years or more ago.

TO PRESENT COMEDY.

"A Poor Married Man," a farce comedy, will be presented by the Victory Dramatic Club in Alhambra Hall, Fraternal Brotherhood Building, Thursday evening. Members of the cast are William Myers, Myrtle Myers, Josephine Schols, Clara Crowley, Rose Roper, Leon Paulson, Harry Crowley and Roy King. The production will be directed by Clara E. Wiggins.

60 ONE-DOLLAR BILLS!

In order to emphasize the importance of promptness and perhaps save contestants from disappointment, THE TIMES will give away 10 one-dollar bills each day beginning today and up to and including Saturday, September 24. Each morning 10 names will be taken from the answers received during preceding 24 hours, each of these contestants to receive a Reward for Promptness. All puzzle answers reading THE TIMES between now and Saturday noon will be eligible.

Anyone May Compete in the TIMES' Observation Puzzle. Study the puzzle picture and pick out the objects having names which begin with "B." For the nearest correct lists of such words THE TIMES will award the 60 prizes shown in opposite table.

Class "A" is open to everyone without restrictions of any kind. Merely send in your list of words with your name and address on top. No subscription need be sent to THE TIMES, nor is it necessary for the participant to be a TIMES subscriber.

Classes "B," "C" and "D" are open to those who send a new or old subscription for 3 months, 6 months or a year; in all cases payment to be made in advance. (Present subscribers who are paid in advance may extend their subscriptions.)

RULES OF CONTEST

(1.) Any man, woman or child who is not connected with the Los Angeles Times in any capacity, or who is not a member of an employee's family, may compete.

(2.) All answers will be divided into four classes, each class will be judged independently, there will be fifteen prizes in each class. While anyone may compete in more than one class, or may submit more than one list of names, not more than one prize will be awarded to any individual, the largest award being given to him which any one of his lists entitles him to.

Class A—Open to all. Anyone may compete.

Class B—Open to those who send in a new or old three-month subscription to the daily and Sunday Times, or who renew their own subscription for three months, payment to be made in advance.

Class C—Open to those who send in a new or old six-month subscription to the daily and Sunday Times, or who renew their own subscription for six months, payment to be made in advance.

Class D—Open to those who send in a new or old twelve-month subscription to the daily and Sunday Times, or who renew their own subscription for twelve months, payment to be made in advance.

(3.) Contest closes Sept. 30, 1921, at 6 p.m. All answers must be deposited in The Times main office or Los Angeles branch office, or bear a postmark not later than that hour.

(4.) Answers may either be deposited in contest box in Times branch office, 619 South Spring street, or Times main office, First and Broadway, Los Angeles, or may be mailed to Puzzle Manager, Circulation Department, Los Angeles Times.

(5.) All lists of names should be written on one side of paper. Number sheets consecutively. Write your own name and address on each page in upper right-hand corner.

(6.) Only words appearing in English dictionaries will be considered. Slang and obsolete words are barred. Only words beginning with B will count.

Only names of objects or parts of objects will count.

Words of the same spelling may be used only once, even though they apply to different objects.

An object may be named only once even if more than one of the same kind appear in the picture.

Parts of an object may be named in addition to the object itself.

Do not use hyphenated words (words spelled with a hyphen in standard dictionaries). Do not use compound words unless same are spelled as one word in standard dictionaries. (Contestants cannot invent new words by joining together two or more words.)

(7.) The answer in each class having the nearest correct list of names of visible objects shown in the picture that begin with the letter "B" will be awarded first prize in that class, etc.

(8.) More than one person may co-operate in submitting a list of names, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household or group, which has been working together.

(9.) In the event of a tie for any prize, the full amount of the prize will be given to each tied participant.

(10.) A committee of well-known Los Angeles people having no connection with the Los Angeles Times will act as judges, their names to be announced in a few days. The judges will use Webster's New International Dictionary as their reference; participants agree to accept all decisions of the judges as final and conclusive.

(11.) Judges will meet on October 3, and announcement of prize winners and the best list of B words submitted as determined by them, will be published as soon thereafter as possible.

(12.) All questions or correspondence regarding the observation puzzle should be addressed to Puzzle Manager, Circulation Department Los Angeles Times.

The same puzzle picture will appear throughout the [illegible]

Out-of-town patrons should send payment for subscriptions direct to TIMES office in order to avoid any chance of error in crediting list of names. In such cases, however, local TIMES agents get the same credit as though money were paid to them and they make deliveries in the regular way.

YANK PEP AIDS ORIENTAL MISS

Wandering Passport Lends to Short Melodrama.

Boone met West in Los Angeles Monday and—the unusual happened. The Orient, represented by demure Miss Moh-ding Ma, who has headache at present, while the Occident, played by Capt. Rex Goodell, formerly of the United States army, and now Y.M.C.A. education secretary, only smiles more broadly. A clergyman, a Southern Pacific official, a spinster missionary, a matron and a colored porter were supporting cast in the rapid-fire little melodrama enacted in and around the Southern Pacific depot. The events occurred thus:

At 11:15 a.m., in the Y.M.C.A. office, a telegram was delivered to Capt. Goodell which stated: "Arrive Southern Pacific train 80 at 12 a.m. en route home. Wilmot."

"The captain telephoned the railroad office.

"What did No. 80 get in?"

"On time; 10 o'clock."

"When does the next train leave for San Bernardino?"

"At 11:15."

"Thanks." The captain hung up. He studied his watch.

CAPTAIN PLANS.

Mr. Boone had been a favorite friend of the captain in Shanghai and had entered the ministry. When he was coming home on furlough to visit his father, Dr. Henry Boone of San Bernardino, founder of St. Luke's Hospital in Shanghai, "I must see Boone," muttered the captain as he dashed for the Y.M.C.A. Auto School park:

At 11:15 in the depot, Capt. Goodell found Mr. Boone—and Miss Ma, an attractive "co-ed" en route to the University of Texas. The pretty Chinese miss was already in tears and evidently greatly excited.

"If you had got my wire on time and let us you might have helped Miss Moh-ding Ma switch her transportation from that compliating transcontinental train which runs through a part of Mexico," said Mr. [illegible].

"Her passport was retained by the American Consul in San Francisco, to be mailed to her college address. And if she once crosses in to Mexico the United States immigration officers will never allow her to return without a passport. If we get her transportation switched from the Espee train we would still have to get her baggage, which is with her, across a half mile from here in a hack. Even in speedy Los Angeles you can't do that before the 11:23 train leaves."

The railroad official flagged a switching engine; the cars came to a standstill. Through the coaches panted the quartet until they broke in upon the quiet meditations of the chaperon missionary. The captain grabbed an immense hat-box. It burst open. Boudoir articles and a multitude of souvenirs rolled out. Frantically Miss Ma gathered these into her arms. There was no time to repair hat-boxes. The captain grabbed a steamer rug, and made a bundle of the hat-box, satchels and all loose belongings.

They commandeered a porter. Then back they rushed, the passenger agent clearing a way for China, America and Africa.

At 11:13 a.m. the perspiring representatives of three continents reached Miss Ma's new Pullman and exchanged smiles.

OFFICER CALMLY VIEWS HOLD-UP.

Saunters Up Just in Time to Learn that Victim Lost Nothing.

This is reciprocity carried to its highest plane. Never disturb nor annoy a policeman, and, in all probability, he will neither disturb nor annoy you.

Early yesterday morning a patrolman stood at Second and Flower streets with a great load upon his mind and his feet. A. J. Pfaffeneauer of 116 South Olive street walked by and, after he had gone a block, was accosted by three men. The officer saw this, but saw nothing unusual in the incident.

Then he saw arms and legs waving in the air and he thought there might be something to it after all. He, therefore, sauntered in the general direction of the disturbance, thinking that several acquaintances were fighting.

The three men who had accosted Pfaffeneauer left the scene before the officer arrived, however, and when the policeman got there he discovered that there had been a first-class hold-up. The only disturbing feature of the whole affair to the bandits was the fact that Pfaffenaeper lost nothing.

SEEK .. THRILLS .. BELOW .. BORDER.

PIONEERING in an airplane in uncharted and unmapped country is the plan of two Los Angeles men, Lester E. Hardy, an aviator, and Arthur T. Adams, a deputy county constable, who will leave the Rogers Airport today on their vacation and to find a reputed hunter's and fisherman's paradise somewhere in Baja California. The trip will be taken merely for adventure and pleasure, with special emphasis upon hunting and fishing.

It was planned to take flight yesterday, but an accident, which partly wrecked one wing of the airplane, halted the departure until today. A mechanician cranked up the engine at the same time that a young man in the car touched the throttle. This caused the machine to move forward and crash against a hangar.

Messrs. Hardy and Adams, in planning what is said to be the first airplane vacation from the local aviation fields, decided to land first at San Diego, fly from there to Holtville, making later stops at El Centro and Calexico. From Imperial Valley the men on the indefinite air trip will go to Yuma and make final arrangements for the trip south.

The two intend to follow the Colorado River southerly to the Gulf of Lower California, making frequent stops for camping, hunting and fishing. Because of the scarcity of gasoline below the line, it was said, cars will have to be taken to land at stated periods at Mexican towns.

It was stated that test flights will be made from Mexicali to Ensenada and north to Tijuana, to determine the feasibility of establishing quick communication between the three Baja California towns.

Mr. Hardy will make maps and charts of his trip and supply these for use of other aviators, he said. A log book will be kept as well and information obtained will be recorded.

All Highways Watched for Autoist Who Fled After Fatally Injuring Woman.

Patrolmen on every beat in Los Angeles and Hollywood and police officers of outlying towns were ordered late last night to watch for an automobile which earlier in the evening ran over and fatally injured Miss Gavina Quesada, 30 years of age, of 3255 East Fourth street, as she was about to board a street car at East First and Conrad streets.

Officers Gibson and Kincaid of the Boyle Heights Division declared they have the names of a score of witnesses, who stated that the driver of the automobile which struck Miss Quesada sped away from the scene of the accident without stopping to render assistance.

The young woman was rushed to the Receiving Hospital by Officers Kincaid and Taylor a few minutes after she was struck down. She died there an hour later. The body was removed to the J. D. Button mortuary.

Witnesses gave the officers the license number of the fleeing death car as 118-619. According to the officers, Miss Quesada was one of a score of persons attempting to board the street car when the automobile containing two young men sped by. A complete description of the car was given to the police.

Scores Nabbed as Gamblers by Raiding Squads

More than two score men and women were nabbed in morals raids yesterday, mostly on gambling charges. AT 406 Nort Main street, 116 Plaza street, 755 North Los Angeles street and 763 North Alameda street fourteen men were arrested on lottery charges by Sergt. McCarron and Officers Steward and Rosner.

In another part of the city ten men, giving their occupations as clerks and one salesman, were arrested. This raid took place at 1139 South Hobard Boulevard. The officers conducting the raid were Lind and Adams. Those arrested were George Sawyer, 27 years of age; E. R. Robinson, 30; Harry Jones, 28; Joe O'Neal, 29; Al Clark, 28; Joe Cassidy, 28; Frank Mane, 31; Joe Collins, 25; F. J. Dunlop, 28; George Lawrence, 24, and Harry Payne, 29.

Nine more men were surprised in a room at 552 South Hill street when Officers Behrendt, James and Bergman broke up their assorted game of cards. All were taken to the City Jail.

Still another raid was conducted at 1618 Trinity street by Officers Green, Broady and Robertson. In this case one negress, Mrs. Hatty Catheron, was charged with conducting a gambling game. Bail in her case was set at $150. One negro and two other negresses were also taken at this address.

Theater Men's Strike Scarcely Causes a Ripple

Motion picture operators who struck on Saturday night for a six-day week with a "swing man" for the seventh day, simply kicked themselves out of a job, as members of the Los Angeles Theaters' Association declared last night that business is normal and that plenty of help is available.

Roy Miller of Miller's and the California Theater asserted that every theater in the association was open for business yesterday on schedule time, with plenty of competent help, and that a least twenty more operators could have been put to work had they been needed. The machine operators at Grauman's Million-Dollar Theater were scheduled to leave their posts last night.

Before they quit work, the machine operators in local theaters offered to accept a 7½ per cent reduction in pay, but demanded that "swing men" be provided. The theater owners announced that a 5 per cent reduction in the pay of operators would go into effect this week.

Scorned Wife Files a Spicy Divorce Paper.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—A spectacular invasion of a low-roofed bungalow in a pine woods at midnight by a scorned wife seeking evidence of her husband's infidelity, an unsuccessful ruse to gain entrance, the flashing of a pocket searchlight into the boudoir of her rival, and an angry opera singer flourishing a cane, threatening to kill the invaders—such were the high lights in the suit for absolute divorce filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Mrs. Angelica B. Cavedina against her husband, Metropolitan Opera and concert singer, who won fame under the name of Mario Laurenti.

The raid took place last June in West Hurley, near Woodstock, N. Y. Mrs. Cavedina saw her husband and a pretty Italian woman enter a bungalow, it is charged. A lamp was lit in the bedroom, according to the affidavit, and shortly afterward blown out by Laurenti, who was scantily attired.

In her complaint Mrs. Cavedina asserts that her husband, a protege of Scotti, earns $12,000 a year, but he repudiated a separation agreement last July and ceased paying $100 a month for the support of herself and a 4-year-old son.

PRESBYTERY BANQUET.

Delegates to Attend Dinner in First Church Tonight.

Delegates from the Presbytery of this district, which extends south to San Diego, will attend a banquet to be given at 6:15 p.m. today in the First Presbyterian Church at which the chief speakers will be Dr. David R. Breed of Pittsburg. Dr. Breed spoke yesterday morning in Westlake Presbyterian Church. He is opening a series of conferences in the various Presbyterian centers of the Southland, and will continue them until September 28, when a final conference will take place in Pomona.

Those who own books and who are not too soft-hearted to lend them will appreciate the action of the Dean who, according to the Boston Herald, put upon his bookplates this quotation from Sir Walter Scott:

TO FILM MAN OF ADVENTURE.

Eddie Polo Will Impersonate Defoe's Great Castaway.

Universal Expects to Shoot Some Scenes Abroad.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Robinson Crusoe is to be a film hero!

That big league adventurer, Crusoe, his man Friday, his dog, his goat, his gabby parrot, all are to come to life on the screen, with Universal sponsoring. And the old boy isn't going to be crammed into six short reels, either. He's going to ramble along in a serial.

Robinson Crusoe is known in every tongue. He's almost as well known as Mary Pickford and Charlie Chaplin, and his fame dates back a good deal further.

When you know a favorite story of yours is to be filmed, you at once demand to know who is to play the leading role. And it is with pleasure I announce that that doughty old guy Robinson is to be professionally reincarnated in no less virile and popular a player than Eddie Polo, star of Universal black-and-blue drama for the past seven years.

It seems, in fact, that Irving G. Thalberg, manager of Universal, and Eddie Polo, have had Robinson Crusoe up their sleeves for some time. It remained for William Lord Wright to suggest a snappy way to do the story, and for Anthony W. Coldeway to write the scenario. Albert Russell is to direct.

MAKE SCENES ABROAD.

But this isn't all. It's quite possible the film will be made abroad, or at least some scenes for it. Polo is expecting to leave about the middle of October for Europe, to travel a few months before beginning work on the serial, joining his wife and daughter in France, where they are visiting a sister of his.

The film will start off with a prologue showing a group of children gathered around Polo, who, in proper old-age make-up, will declare he is their great, great grandfather, Robinson Crusoe; after which the picture will dissolve into the adventures of Crusoe. The serial will proceed through the adventures of Crusoe, after which it will again show a chapter in which Crusoe and the kids take part, with Crusoe saying, "Now, I will tell you some stories you have never heard," which will serve as a prologue to the latter episodes, founded on adventures of the hero in many lands.

Nothing being now sacred to the camera, these adventures will take place in the catacombs of Rome, the cathedrals and doges' palaces of Venice, while the sacred ground of Jerusalem and the pyramids of Egypt will also furnish "location."

Eddie Polo is ideal for the part of Crusoe. He was a circus man all his life starting at 4 years old, until he became a stunt man for Universal seven years ago, when he joined the organization, playing in Francis Ford's serial, "The Broken Coin." He is a fearless horseman and athlete. For some time he was star trapeze performer for Barnum and Bailey.

CIRCUS ADVENTURES.

His career has been full of adventure. A great storm came up one night when the show was playing a small town in Texas. The big top was lifted clean off, tent poles were unearthed from their bases, and many persons were killed. Polo aided in the rescue work until a falling tent pole put him out of business. In Schenectady a big part of the tent was burned and many persons were killed by fire and stampede. All the safety nets were burned. Polo was right in the midst of his trapeze act in midair when the fire broke out. He managed to let his trapeze down and escaped.

Elephants of the show broke loose in Riverside about twelve years ago. The first intimation Polo had of it was when, walking down the main street, he beheld a barber, with his razor in his hand and his customer with the towel still tucked under his chin, rush from the shop yelling. Next minute an elephant stuck its head out of the barber shop door.

NARROW ESCAPE.

The animal rushed a livery stable and killed a couple of horses, but was rendered docile when another elephant was brought down to keep him company. Polo was also in a big flood in Butte, Mont., where he aided in rescue work; and down in Mexico City, where he was working in a large arena with an elephant, some time ... two goats, the elephant suddenly "went bad," as the circus men call it, attacked Polo, stirred up the cats, and Polo, badly scratched, barely escaped with his life.

In New York Eddie Polo was considered a king-pin stunt man. He met a pretty burlesque queen of 16, and married her. She died when only 18, leaving a little girl, Malvina. Polo was so crushed by her death that he did nothing but wander the country for eight months. Even now the tears come to his eyes when he speaks of his child-wife.

A broken-hearted man, he wandered finally to San Francisco, where he landed without a cent. One night while walking down Market street he was thinking sadly of his fallen fortunes when somebody grabbed him by the shoulder. It was Henry Bergman, an old friend, who took him to his own manager and got him an engagement with a burlesque show. Afterward he went back in the circus business, and he designs that when he goes abroad he's going to take Bergman along and show him one good time.

Polo married again several years ago, his present wife being then postmistress at Venice. He first met her when he went to call for his mail while his circus was in winter quarters there.

CHEERED HER UP.

Some of the new penny-in-the-slot weighing machines have two pointers—one which may be set by hand to make a guess as to weight, and the other to register the exact weight. A correct guess returns the penny.

A woman puffing under a considerable gross avoirdupois stepped on the platform of the scales at the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh-street subway station, turned the guess pointer to 183 and dropped a penny in the aperture. The weight pointer swung around to 182.

"I'm off a whole pound," the woman sighed contentedly as she climbed down.—[New York World.

Yesterday and Today

Battery of platen presses and operators, sketched from press rooms of Times-Mirror Printing & Binding House.

From its earliest development the art of printing has, with equal force, given added impetus to commerce, science and religion.

Since the middle of the Fifteenth Century, when the first book was printed from wooden blocks on which rude characters were painstakingly carved—the crude press of the Sixteenth Century, with its faulty operation and meager capacity—down to the wonderful mechanical equipment of today—the art of printing has shown steady progress.

"Ask your neighbor about Peerless"

"They're washable, but—can I trust them to a laundry?"

Yes, Madam, you can confidently trust your fine silks, flimsy laces and delicate wools to the tender care of the Peerless washing experts. They're most carefully rocked and rocked in roomy tubs of rich, creamy suds of far purer soap than you can buy in bar form. Then they're carefully rinsed and re-rinsed in four or more baths of Peerless softened well water—far purer and softer than the city water from your tap.

Your most cherished, delicate garment comes back from Peerless more beautifully sweet and fresh and clean than you'd believe possible. Just try it.

The Peerless practice of treating every piece of laundry individually is the secret of Peerless' beautiful work. Your laundry is sorted into 26 distinct classifications of fabric, color, etc., and each is washed separately! You can trust anything washable to Peerless.

Oil, Mining Development in Many Fields.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

You are politely requested to submit samples, carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying stating what tests are desired. Make sample of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analyses with cards, or scraps of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will hereafter receive no attention whatever.

Of Commercial Value.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—Question: With this I am handing you two samples of rock which were obtained from a large deposit in San Diego county. Will you please advise through The Times whether there is any value attached to the same. C.

Answer: It would appear that if both of the samples occur in large deposits you have a very good proposition in which to make some exploitation for minerals used in the clay industries, and in pottery. The glistening white sample is of massive quarts of fairly good grade for surface ore, and indicating a higher grade at depth. The quartz is slightly impure with iron and manganese. The grayish-yellow sample is impure with traces of iron and manganese, but on the coating only; otherwise it is a good grade of orthoclase (potash feldspar.)

Doubtful Ores.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—Q.: I am inclosing three samples for classification and analysis. I am particularly interested in sample No. 1 because I think there may be some mineral in it other than gold or silver. I have had it assayed for gold and silver with negative results. Could you suggest what mineral to have it assayed for in so far as this No. 1 sample is concerned. "M.D."

A.: We tested sample No. 1 for vanadium with negative result. The specimen seems to be a burnt-up and altered feldspathic rock carrying iron and manganese with botryoidal chalcedony as coating. No. 2 is probably an altered slate and lava. No. 3 is low grade gypsum with iron oxide (ilmonite.)

Opal.

A.: The sample is a golden-yellow, transparent variety of opal.

Iridium Absent.

BOUSE (Ariz.) Sept. 2.—Q.: I believe the sample I am sending you is iridium, belonging to the platinum group (?) The metal is a silvery gray and is very well distributed throughout the eight-foot vein. Kindly let me know what this is. The locality of the ledge is fifteen miles from Bouse. C.

A.: The sample is of silicate rocks; chiefly garnet and including the greenish garnet known as uwarowite (lime-chrome garnet.) Zinc-lead present in low percentages; iron oxides, ilmenite, and chromite sparingly contained, and we find no reaction whatever for iridium.

Lime Sulphates.

SWANSEA (Ariz.) Sept. 2.—Q.: Will you kindly classify the two samples inclosed. S.

A.: No. 1 is impure gypsum (gypsite.) No. 2 is an altered gypsum with lime carbonate in low percentage; potash and sodium sulphate detected in the mass. Both specimens represent substances of low value in the fertilizer industry.

Sulphide and Oxide.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Q.: Inclosed in safety-razor box are two samples. Will you please inform me whether or not there are any metallic values in either sample. K.

A.: No. 1 contains a fair percentage of magnetic iron ore held in a matrix of pegmatite (graphic granite.) There is some microscopical yellowish mica, and a like variety of pyrite in the rock which (both) somewhat resemble gold. No. 2 carries a high percentage of pyrite with arsenopyrite.

Not Radioactive.

BIG PINE, Sept. 2.—Q.: I am mailing you today a sample of ore for tests. The concentrate of this ore secured or obtained from panings indicate vanadium, and possibly ores of radium, platinum, palladium, and thallium. Kindly analyze and publish results. M.

A.: The work you ask for is not possible by qualitative analysis. The best that we can do for you is to state that we get no reaction for vanadium from the pebbles and chips of mineral submitted by you.

Many Minerals.

HIGHLAND, Sept. 4.—Q.: Once more I come with a few specimens. No. 1 is a yellowish white chalk-like specimen; what is it, and does it contain phosphates or potash? No. 2 reminds me of hornblende, but it carries magnetic iron, please name it. No. 3 is a copper ore from the Ironwood Mountains; does it carry platinum? Nos. 1 and 3 are from the Eagle Mountains. Thanking you for many favors through your department. K.

A.: Sample No. 1 is chiefly silica, it is between floatstone and pumice. Soluble potash (in water) and phosphates absent. No. 2 is an altered iron ore containing some bronze mica and pyroxene; hornblende sparingly present. No. 3 is a mixture of greenish iron silicate; magnesium silicate present, with copper traces, and is, in part, amygdaloidal lava. No native platinum detected in any sample.

Potash Traces.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—Q.: This sample handed to me by a prospector friend is said to be from a very large deposit; apparently what must have been a lake bed at one time. Does it contain anything worth while? J.

A.: The sample is a silicious and aluminous mixture containing some iron and low per cent calcite.

Feldspar.

McFARLAND, Sept. 5.—Q.: Find sample of feldspar inclosed on which advise me if there is any value to it as for pottery manufacturing. There is a large body of this mineral in sight. S.

A.: The sample is rather impure with iron and dendritic manganese to be of value in the pottery industry. Try and obtain a better grade from the deposit.

Conglomerate.

ONTARIO, Sept. 5.—Q.: I am sending you under separate cover a sample of red soil. Please examine for oil and greatly oblige. Q.

A.: Oil could occur at a locality from which you obtained the sample, but it is not known what other formations are associated with mineral represented by the sample. The specimen is chiefly a silicious conglomerate carrying a little amygdaloidal matter as matrix, and present therein we find iron oxides, calcite, and no reaction for oil.

Free Gold Absent.

CALEXICO, Sept. 6.—Q.: I am sending you herewith a sample of ore which I would like you to analyze and classify, and advise me at the earliest possible moment if of any value, etc. S.

A.: The sample is hornblendic granite, containing some pyroxene, garnet, and mica. Traces of galenite appear in the rock.

Powdered Silica.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—Q.: Will you please analyze the inclosed sample of mineral. I shall greatly appreciate your classification. I have 500,000 tons of it in sight. Transportation facilities easy. T.

A.: The sample is named in the subheading. It would appear that those industries requiring silica for part or all of their products should give you a chance to try out the grade and quality of the quartz deposit you refer to. It is probable that the granular sample does not all occur of that variety, and that much of the quartz is massive.

Bronze-Yellow Mica.

LA VINA, Sept. 7.—Q.: Herein a sample of mineral and I would like to know about its gold content. B.

A.: The shale sample contains quite a lot of bronze mica suitable for so-called "gold paint powder" if separated from the gangue. Free gold absent.

Free Gold Absent.

CALEXICO, Sept. 8.—Q.: I am sending you a sample to have you try it for gold and silver. Thanking you for past favors. R.

A.: We do not fire-assay for gold and silver. The samples are interesting ones and contain a fair percentage of fluorite (fluor spar.) This mineral should be further prospected for as it is in good demand when pure. The specimens run low in lead (galenite) with sulphides known as tetrahedrite, of the variety Fahlerz.

Doubtful Ore.

SELMA, Sept. 7.—Q.: I am mailing you a sample of sand found in Shasta county, California. This sand pans out some free gold, and free platinum. I have been wondering if there are values in it that I cannot see. B.

A.: The specimen panned one minute color of gold; free platinum absent. We have, however, on other sand from the locality referred to by you, obtained flake platinum. Magnetic iron was found in the sample of good percentage; titaniferous iron quite a lot, and quartz, hematite, garnet, detected in analysis.

NEW MEXICO PLACERS.

Our thanks are due to Mr. August Wolf of the Chamber of Commerce, Las Cruces, N. M., for the following news item:

Messrs. McGee and Price, the former of Northern Idaho who are developing water to work placer ground in the Picacilla district in Lincoln county, northeast of Las Cruces, report that the dirt will yield from $5 to $6 a yard.

Many locations have been recorded in the last thirty days, and prospectors are sinking wells and putting in power pumps to increase the water supply.

Merchants at Carrizozo are paying $18 an ounce for the gold, which means that the metal must be at least 20-carat fine to allow a margin of profit for the buyers.

Placer mining in the Jicarillo district was started more than twenty-five years ago, and was known to contain some good ground; but, owing to a lack of water, the miners pulled out for other diggings. During the last ten months, however, prospectors have been going in there and making locations, and it is reported that the camp has taken on new life.

ANGELENO COMPANY DRILLING IN NORTH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FRESNO, Sept. 16.—The Fresno United Oil Company, composed of a group of Los Angeles business men, now drilling on an eighty-acre lease on Sec. 20, T. 15 S., R. 18 E., northeast of Raisin City, in an effort to open up an unproven territory, is working one tower with a tubular steel rotary rig and is now down between 100 and 200 feet. The crew which has been working over two weeks, last week secured mud from Coalinga to mud out quicksand. The company is said to have invested more than $50,000 in the project. Stock sales have not been solicited here it is stated.

Officers and directors of the company are: A. J. Koll, president; H. N. Ham, vice-president; W. S. Sparr and C. N. Esender, directors, and Walter Ham, secretary and treasurer. W. A. Ogden is the acting drilling superintendent while John Oliver is the company's driller.

The company plans to install electric equipment soon and will run three towers. Bunk house and a tool house have been erected on the property.

It is reported that the Standard Oil Company has leased the 160-acre Crosby ranch, between the Fresno United Property and Raisin City, for development work.

A Modern Little Bo-Peep.

A Ford stolen from an Oklahoma farmer a few weeks ago was found one morning last week in front of the owner's home. We always have maintained that a Ford which had received the right kind of treatment would, if stolen, make its way back home unless confined under lock and key.—[Toronto Kelley in Topeka Capital.

OIL PRODUCTION JUMP IS SEEN.

Miley at Huntington Beach Stages Comeback.

Wents Syndicate Takes Over Richfield United.

BY ELWOOD J. MUNGER.

Within the next ten days the production of Signal Hill will be increased from 2000 to 4000 barrels. The Shell Company of California has three wells standing cemented and is about to cement two more. As the oil sand and production immediately follow the drilling out of the cement, the Shell wells, Babb-Tucker, Horsch and Stakemiller will add the new production for Signal Hill.

Of the independents, the Crest Oil Company is the first to be near production at Signal Hill. The Crest set pipe at 2821 feet and had an excellent showing of oil before cementing.

The San Martenas Oil Company finds the sands dipping deep and at 3000 feet the formation is showing only a few minor oil indications.

The Standard Oil Company has passed the 4700-foot mark at Bixby No. 1, but no worth-while oil showings have been found. Few wells in Southern California ever come into commercial production after passing 4500 feet. The Standard is not leaving the Long Beach field even though the outlook for the company is not good. A recent move was made whereby the Standard has secured property in close to the production of the field. The Standard has located a well on the golf grounds and will commence drilling as soon as rigging-up work is completed.

The big Miley well at Huntington Beach has come back with almost all its old-time strength. Miley No. 1 is producing from 500 to 600 barrels of twenty-one gravity oil. Drilled to 2705 feet, this well started off with an initial production of 1500 barrels, but sand quickly came in and choked off the oil flow. The well is now flowing partially free at 575 barrels. It is believed that as soon as all the sand is cleaned out it will double its present production.

WELLS LOOK GOOD.

Of the smaller concerns in the Huntington Beach field, the Gypsy Syndicate holds out perhaps the best promise of any. Two wells have been drilled and they are rounding into shape and both look good for 300 and 400 barrels. Gypsy No. 1 landed a string of eight inches in hard shell at 2330. Immediately under this was found an oil sand carrying a grade of oil that seems to be higher than any yet found in this portion of the field. No. 2 drilled out the cement at 2315. This well has shown indications strong enough to warrant the prediction of a 300 or 400-barrel well. The Gypsy Syndicate is under the joint management of K. A. Hoxie of the Union, William Meridith of the Argonaut and H. K. Macklin, formerly of the Standard Oil Company.

Work under the direction of the Malis Syndicate was resumed on the Huntington Central's No. 1. It is the intention of the Malis to get the Huntington Central well cleaned out and put on production as soon as possible.

Huntington Beach still attracts new companies as well as the old-line operators. The latest concern to enter the field is the Richfield Southern. The Richfield Southern has taken over the remainder of the properties held by the Placentia Richfield Central, and will begin development immediately. The properties adjoin the Republic Petroleum Company and are regarded as some of the best in the field. The Richfield Southern Oil Company is backed by Samuel Kraemer, Jr., and George Wenta, wealthy Placentia orange growers. The concern has plenty of capital and will be able to go ahead with all contemplated development work.

Success seems about ready to crown the efforts of the Petroleum Midway Company at Huntington Beach. Vollmer-Meyer No. 1, drilled to 3275 feet, has all the appearances of being a big well. So strong has the gas and oil pressure been for a number of days that it has been necessary to mud up heavily and take other precautions to prevent the well from blowing out. It is the intention of the Petroleum Midway to drill deeper into the oil sands before bringing the well in.

On the Huntington A property the Standard brought in a 300-barrel well at No. 4. The new well was completed at 3145 feet. Huntington E-2 is being prepared to bring in at 2300 feet and looks good for a couple hundred barrels.

The Talbert Oil Company is not entirely satisfied with the showing well No. 1 is making at 2660 feet, and has decided to drill deeper.

The sale of the Bolsa Chica Oil Company's Huntington Beach property to the Standard Oil Company for $100,000 has been confirmed. It is the intention of the Bolsa Chica Oil Company to retire from the Huntington Beach field for the present and concentrate its efforts on building a production on Signal Hill as soon as possible. It is understood that the Bolsa Chica Oil Company and the A and T Oil Company are to be dissolved and a new company, the Consolidated Producers, formed.

The best well of the week at Richfield was brought in by the General Petroleum at Hugo No. 2. This new well, drilled to 3200 feet, came in a 600-barrel well and is producing 21 gravity oil. The General Petroleum, having entered into a contract with the United States for the drilling of Carpenter No. 2, has started work.

One of the most important moves in Richfield was made last week when the Wents Syndicate was organized to take over and drill the holdings of the Richfield United on a fifty-fifty basis. The Wents Syndicate is headed by George W. Wents, general manager of the Placentia-Pacific Oil Company.

PRODUCTION INCREASED.

Making one of the most remarkable showings of any producer drilled at Richfield, the Petroleum Midway's Krug No. 4 has increased its production from 1200 to 1360 barrels. Yarnell No. 9, the Petroleum Midway's deep test well, has passed 3800 feet and is not showing anything worth while.

The strong showings of oil and gas at the Ridge Oil Company's well on the Chapman lease continue and a profitable producer is expected between 4000 and 4100 feet.

In the Brea Canyon field, the Columbia Oil Producing Company received a disappointment when Menchego No. 2 drilled to almost 4300 came in a ten-barrel well. The well is almost in the shadow of a number of General Petroleum and Union gushers on the Tonner and Stearns properties.

Menges Hill, the old Brea field section, produced a 200-barrel well at 4900 feet. The new well is the property of the Fullerton Oil Company and is known as No. 16.

The Shell Company of California has just abandoned two wells in the Whittier field. In Turnbull Canyon the Shell drilled a test well to the depth of 4100 feet on the Hart property and failed to get any oil. Drilling on the Cole well was discontinued at 4600 feet. Aside from a little gas, the Cole well showed at no time any very strong indications of oil. A year was spent in the drilling of the Cole well, and the Hart drilled with electric motor and cable tools required almost two years. Aside from a fifteen-barrel well drilled on the Baldwin lease, the Shell Company's only success at wild-catting in the Southern California field has been at Signal Hill.

The Amalgamated Oil Company's Butterworth well, drilling at Santa Fe Springs, has passed the 4600 mark without getting much of any showing of oil. The outlook for the well does not look very promising. The Union Oil Company has a couple of deep wells drilling on the Meyer lease at 4300 and 4400, that are showing hard sand only. Production at Santa Fe Springs is deep and it begins to appear that all the wells now drilling will have to go close to 5000 feet to get it.

The Puente Hills looks more like an oil field with the Chino-Corona United pumping oil. The well was put in production late last week and is making about 200 barrels. The percentage of the production is running about 70 oil and 30 water.

SLOW PRODUCER.

As yet the Bardeen well has not been made a successful producer. It seems to carry lots of oil, but refuses to make much of a showing on production. As the depth of the hole is only a little more than 1200 feet, it has been decided to drill deeper and tap what already looks like a very rich oil sand.

The Standard Oil Company is making preparations to abandon its Behon No. 1 at Hawthorne. Drilling was stopped at 5158 feet. At no time has this well showed any indications of oil, save for a gas blow-out that occurred at about 3000 feet. Examination of the gas revealed the fact that it was of the marsh variety. The Standard, along the Behon well, is abandoning the Landowners' No. 1, drilled to 2800 feet on adjoining property.

At Redondo, the Chanslor-Canfield Oil Company is going ahead with the drilling into the oil sand. Drilling is now at 3045 feet and is in the oil sand. Drilling will continue until this oil sand is drilled through, or enough tapped to insure a good producer.

STAGNATION MARKS LONDON EXCHANGE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Stagnation again was the rule on the London Stock Exchange. Most sections, the speculative, in particular, have shown they are at the mercy of outside influences, chiefly Paris, and of demoralized foreign exchange.

More operators are out of the market. This is not surprising in view of the serious unemployment situation and the fact, known on the last day, that the Irish conference had been canceled because of the uncompromising attitude of the Sinn Fein.

In addition, there was some liquidation in home account, probably the result of the Grand Trunk sensation. The gilt-edged market has been exceptionally active and strong. All available money went into that channel, while hope of a reduction in the bank rate stimulated business. This reduction did not take place, but the reaction was only temporary, as the coming of a 5-per-cent rate cannot be delayed long. Following the Irish development, the market tendency became easier.

The foreign bond market also was somewhat busy, with the interest centered in Brazilian issues for American account, and on Mexicans, on the possibility of the reorganization of the foreign debt of that nation.

In rails the home stocks scarcely were mentioned. Among foreign rail shares Argentine's relapsed after the recent spurt following reports of a poorer crop outlook.

Oils have been under the influence of Paris. French selling, due to the sensational rise of the exchange rate, upset the market and prices generally fell. Toward the close a recovery seemed likely, but did not materialize.

The Policy of Successful Supervision

IN ARIZONA, the Corporation Commission, which is an organization similar to the California Railroad Commission, maintains regulation over the Central Arizona Light and Power Company, which is favorable and fair to the Company.

This State Commission in decisions regarding this Company has said . . . "it is essential to the growth and prosperity of the Company, that it be permitted to earn sufficient return upon its investment to enable it to pay suffiecently high rates for money so as to attract a ready capital into its business to maintain itself financially sound."

And in discussing the return which the company should receive upon the value of the property, the Commission stated that it should be sufficient to . . . "cause investors, who are acquainted with all the facts to view Company's securities with as much favor as the average public utility. . . ."

This is favorable regulation. It is one of the factors which determined our loan of money to this company on its First and Refunding Mortgage fifteen-year 8% gold bonds. Now we offer these bonds to you for the investment of your funds.

For full information about this Company, its earnings, its property, the territory which it serves, and about these good bonds, write, telephone or call at our office today.

Notice of Sale of Enrolled Vessel to Long Beach Fisheries Company, Inc., and to Whom It May Concern:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN: That under the provisions of a certain mortgage of an enrolled vessel, executed and delivered by Long Beach Fisheries Company, of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as Mortgagor, to G. E. Van Landingham, a corporation of the State of California, as Mortgagee, dated April 8, 1921, and received for record in the office of the Collector of Customs at the Port of Los Angeles, District of Los Angeles Number Thirteen, at 10 o'clock A. M. on the 14th day of July, 1921, at nine o'clock A. M., and recorded in Liber 1321-5 of Mortgages, Folio 18, said vessel is now owned by said Mortgagor and hereinafter described will be sold at Municipal Wharf, Long Beach, California, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, on the 26th day of September, 1921, at the hour of twelve o'clock M., on the 26th day of September, 1921, to satisfy an amount due upon such mortgage on the day of sale, the sum of $2868.94, together with costs of sale. KERN IS HARD HIT BY STRIKE

Most Productive Fields District Throttled.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 17.—With approximately 8000 men in the Kern county and Coalinga oil fields on strike, development work is virtually at a standstill. It is estimated that a monthly production of approximately 6,288,300 barrels of petroleum will be affected by the strike if it continues for at least a month. This was the production of the fields this year, in the fields affected by the walkout. The fields chiefly affected are the Midway-Sunset, McKittrick, Kern River, Buena Vista, Lost Hills, Belridge and Coalinga. Lost Hills, Belridge and Coalinga. The Midway fields include Elk Hills, Taft and fellowes. During the July production was 1,290,000 barrels.

About 100 companies were operating in these fields when the strike was called. Some of these have since signed the workers' agreement and are again pumping, though not all work has been started. The Standard Oil Company, which has not been affected by the strike or-produced 1,290,000 barrels of oil in the Midway-Sunset fields in July, a greater amount of it being taken from the Elk Hills. Unless the strike envelops this company, the production will continue.

The Sunset field proper contains about 100 operating companies and production figures in round numbers amount to 435,000 barrels daily.

The next largest field on the West Side in point of production is Lost Hills. The total monthly average production from the eleven companies operating in this field is 817,000 barrels. The forty-five companies operating in the McKittrick field produce on an average of about 207,000 barrels of heavy oil monthly. There is practically no production in the Devil's Den, Buena Vista, from twenty-five to thirty companies hold property. The largest producer is the California Oil Company, whose daily production averages ten barrels of heavy oil.

INDEPENDENTS HIT.

The Kern River field, which is the largest in the county, contains approximately 125 leases. The Associated is the biggest producer, its fifty properties producing about 240,000 barrels a month. Thirty-one leases in Kern River field are operated by the Standard and thirty-four Independents, until the time of the strike, were actively engaged in this territory. The total monthly production for this field approximates 640,000 barrels.

There is approximately 8,000,000 barrels of oil in storage in the Coalinga field. One of the big producers in the Shell Company which had signed the oil workers' wage agreement prior to the strike and consequently is not affected. A summary

DANGER FROM WATER.

The danger of possible damage from water infiltration, due to the many wells standing idle in the fields, has been a point of conjecture among the operators and employees of the State Oil and Gas Well Supervisor. Just what the result will be cannot be determined until work has been again resumed on these wells. In a number of instances where tools were left in the well by drillers who quit work, these may freeze and cause considerable damage, making resumption of drilling activities difficult. A case in particular is on the property of the government leased by the Doheny interests in the Elk Hills where seven strings of tools have been left in the holes. The government has given the Doheny people assurance that the wells will be protected and, if necessary, men will be sent into the fields to work them until after the present controversy is ended.

Only six permits were issued for new wells in Kern county last week. Two of these have been started, as they are not affected by the strike. They are the Standard No. 4 well on Section 23, 32-24, in the Midway and the Shell Company's No. 1 well in the Goose Lake country, Section 36, 27-22. The other permits were for two wells by the Pan-American Petroleum Company in the Elk Hills on Section 1, 31-24; the Pacific Oil Company in the Midway on Section 31, 31-24 and Cortland Lawrence, No. 1 well, Section 10, 27-25 in the Kern River field.

The Franklin Oil Company of California is ready as soon as the present difficulty has been cleared away, to start operations on Section 25, 29-21, in the Belridge district, about five miles northwest of McKittrick. It will finish a well started by the Leader Oil Company in 1908 and drill to 3150 feet. Operations were ceased on account of the withdrawal act.

Business men at Bakersfield stated last night that a shutdown in all the Central California oil fields is imminent.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Buying of wheat by exporters and foreigners has slackened in volume, and at the same time it has resulted in the selling and exporting, including that not cleared, of around 100,000,000 bushels, or one-half of our exportable surplus. Clearance of this wheat leaves the United States in a position where it has disposed of an unusually larger percentage of its surplus and actually creates a bullish position here. At the same time it has created a bearish position abroad for the present with the situation in European consuming countries reflected here, which tends to offset our bullish position.

Should we overexport during the next few months it will be necessary to import wheat from Canada, which can easily be done. No. 3 Canadian northern wheat is offe. d at Buffalo at close to an importing basis, duty paid, and for a week past New York has reported offers of Canadian flour in the East undersselling that from our Northwestern States.

The grain trade here is skeptical regarding the foreign news, many close observers expressing the opinion that there is method in sending all the depressing reports from the other side. It is true that considerable wheat and corn have been shipped by exporters that has not been sold abroad and its arrival has resulted in forced sales being made there at below replacement levels. In other words, exporters are taking their losses as rapidly as possible. Recent developments indicate that exporters have overbought and that foreign-consuming countries are not anticipating their requirements to any extent and that they will buy leisurely, their expectations being that the will be enabled to get all the wheat needed this season at fairly reasonable prices. But should the Argentine crop prove a small one, their position might be decidedly changed. There is an impression among the trade that the foreigners are propagandizing regarding the size of their crops, as conditions in the last four months have not been such as to suggest large yields, and the impression prevails that some of their crop reports will not stand close analysis.

PICKETING UNDER BAN.

San Luis Obispo Sheriff to Keep Roads to Oil Fields Clear.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Sept. 18.—There must be no picketing of San Luis Obispo county thoroughfares by striking Kern county oil workers, it was ordered here today by Sheriff Gaylor.

The Sheriff said tonight he had found two small groups of pickets on roads leading out of San Luis Obispo county to the Kern county oil fields; had issued orders to them to cease picketing, and had been promised they would leave this county tomorrow.

POLICEMAN ARRESTED.

Negro, Patrolman Less Than Month, Charged with Extortion.

Having been in the service less than a month, Arthur Moten, a negro policeman, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Glen, Stevens and Scott and charged with extortion. The man was taken into custody at his home, 1387 East Thirty-third street.

According to the report of the officers, Moten arrested three sailors in a room at the St. Agnes Hotel. After he held them for a time they gave him some money and were released, they complained to the police. Moten was appointed an officer August 19.

MARKET TREND SHOWS PROMISE.

Exports for August Register Gain in Values.

Cotton Taking Fairly Up to Prewar Levels.

Price Declines Are Followed by Recoveries.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Most of the financial weather signs which came in sight last week were signs of promise; all of them served to supplement and reinforce whatever had been indicated by the earlier occurrences of the month. The increased figures of the previous week of the country's iron production in August, embodying the result of expansion in demand and moderate recovery in iron prices, was matched this week by distant rise in prices for at least one important steel product, itself a sequel to the consumers' inquiry embodied in the 40 per cent increase of basic steel output last month.

The halt in world-wide trade reaction, already measured partly by the midsummer pause in the general decline of commodity prices, found another expression in the increase of 17 per cent in value of our merchandise exports for August, as compared with the month preceding. The Census Bureau's report on last month's cotton consumption and export showed takings by home spinners to be fairly up to the prewar level for the month and shipments to foreign countried to have made the highest August total of the war or post-war period.

EMPHASIZES CURIOUS FACT.

It will be observed that most of this favorable news was in the nature of statements as to what actually happened last month. This emphasizes one rather curious fact—namely, that when the financial community was confronted with what seemed to be outward indications of industrial inertia, recovery in trade was already under way.

Since last June observant financiers have taken note of the fact that, for the first time since the decline began a year and a half ago, each fresh decline in prices was followed not by a halt around the lowest, or by recovery of a trifling part of the lost ground, but by upward reaction to higher prices than had been reached before the new decline began.

What the stock market has shown in its movement of the last week or two is a disposition to carry the recovery further. The September markets have also brought money rates easier than those of July or August and they have not brought even the usual autumn expansion of loans and circulation at the Federal reserve banks or the usual autumn decline in reserve bank ratios.

NO SPECULATION EVIDENT.

For the easier money situation, the loosening of the credit deadlock in the South and the beginning of repayment of the long-deferred debts of the cotton belt have been one influence. Perhaps not the least reassuring indication of the past week is the fact that, while the underlying strength of the cotton market, the stock market and the wheat market has been evident enough, their tendency was to stop short of extravagant speculation and to hold values on a basis of conservative recovery.

This attitude of the market is the more important in that it removes misgivings lately entertained in many responsible quarters that abrupt recovery from the long depression might be followed by an effort to resume the speculation of 1919—which would only invite a fresh collapse.

BAY CITY TO GREET BANK MEN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—To assist Los Angeles as the host city to proffer the hospitality that is distinctively Californian, the bankers of this city have appointed a special committee for the reception and entertainment of delegates to the American Bankers' Association convention next month who include San Francisco on their itineraries. The associated banks' committee is getting in touch with the several State bankers' associations to secure definite information about itineraries and personnel of delegations or groups who will stop here for a day or two on their way to or from the convention.

The visitors will be received as the personal guests of local bankers and they will have an opportunity to get a glimpse of the attractions of the city.

Subcommittees on golf, motor trips and other forms of entertainment have been appointed to provide refreshing relaxation for the financiers from distant cities. San Francisco delegates to the convention will have an opportunity to get in personal touch with fellow-bankers whose visits to this city will be made part of the return trip. It is known that several trains will come west over the southern route and return by way of this city.

Russell Lowry, vice-president, American National Bank, is chairman of the local committee, which includes R. R. Yates, vice-president, First National Bank; W. W. Douglas, vice-president, Bank of Italy; Stuart F. Smith, vice-president, Bank of California; W. E. Wilcox, vice-president, Anglo and London Paris National Bank; H. B. Ainsworth, vice-president, Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank, and J. B. McCargar, vice-president, Crocker National Bank.

OIL LEADS IN VALUES.

Compilation of the final returns from the mineral producers of California for 1920 was completed yesterday by the statistical division of the State Mining Bureau, under the direction of State Mineralogist Fletcher Hamilton. The total value amounts to $242,099,667 worth of crude materials. There are fifty different mineral substances, exclusive of a segregation of the various stones grouped under gems, and all of the fifty-eight counties of the State contribute to the list.

As compared with the 1919 output, the notable features of 1920 are the continued increase in petroleum valuation, the decreases in the metals group and increases in the structural and industrial groups. The net result was an increase of $46,256,666 over the grand total value of the year 1919, of which increase, petroleum accounted for more than 75 per cent.

The metals group was the only one as a whole showing a net decrease, being due mainly of gold, copper and quicksilver. Notable increases were registered by silver and lead.

BUILDING INDICATION.

An interesting feature of the returns is the status shown by the structural materials group. The total value for this group jumped from $16,796,784 to $29,723,405, due mainly to cement, miscellaneous stone (crushed rock, sand and gravel,) brick and tile, and magnesite, in the order named. This indicates a renewal of building and construction activity which had been curtailed during the war period.

The industrial group showed an increase in total value, from $3,041,981 to $3,567,760. The more important items were diatomaceous earth, barytes, lithia and talc. In the salines group, there were important increases made by borax and soda, but which were nearly counterbalanced by a decrease of almost $1,000,000 by potash.

California yields commercially a greater number and variety of mineral products than any other State in the United States, and probably more than any other equal area elsewhere of the earth. Previous to 1916, the total annual value of her output was surpassed by but four other States, they being the great coal and iron producers of east of the Mississippi River. In 1916 and 1917, because of their enormous increases in copper output, Montana and Arizona passed California in total value of those years; and Arizona for 1918. Of one item, at least, borax, California still remains the sole producer; and for many years was also the sole domestic source of chromite and magnesite. The State produces at least 75 per cent of the quicksilver of the United States. For some years it has been leading all others in gold and platinum, while alternating in the lead with Colorado in tungsten, and with Oklahoma in petroleum.

The distribution of the 1920 output by substances is shown in the following tabulation:

Alaska-Cleary GOLD

It's like picking up gold to own Syndicate Units in the placer mines of Cleary Creek, Alaska! The Creek has already yielded $24,000,000 worth of GOLD, and authorities place the reserves at $42,000,000.

A syndicate of Alaska miners has organized to get machinery to work the claims and so cut the cost of operation from $4 to 30c a cubic yard. Such saving makes it well worth their while to let you in on the ground floor.

$10.00 Units

Only 10,000 units will be sold at this price—par value. At this price you become actual part owner of the world-famed Cleary Creek Gold Mines. A partner in all the improvements and equipment now installed and to come.

Price Will Be Advanced 50 Per Cent

And as soon as the required funds are raised to install the machinery, up goes the price. Two dollars now does the work of three later.

Big Money

The most profitable lines of mining is the PLACER GOLD industry, crushing gravel deposits and modern machinery runs the cost of production from old-time hand mining.

Act at Once

Those who get in NOW, stand to make the biggest profits. This syndicate intends, in time, to control the whole Cleary Creek area. And you can join us now at $10 a Unit.

Costs 30c Cubic Yard to Mine

WILL RETURN TO STAGE.

JACKIE SAUNDERS TO APPEAR IN WOODS COMEDY.

By Grace Kingsley.

Are all those picture stars who have said they intended going back to the stage acquiring cold pedal extremities? It would seem so. Nazimova, Mae Marsh, Dorothy Gish, Mabel Normand and others, too numerous to mention, have given up their stage plans, from the latest accounts.

But there's one who has just received an offer who yesterday announced her firm resolve to accept, let the chips fall where they may. She is no less a person than Jackie Saunders, former star of the Balboa Picture Company, and lately leading woman with William Farnum, Metro Pictures and others.

A. H. Woods has prevailed upon Miss Saunders to return to New York and at once begin rehearsals in a new Woods production, the name of which Miss Saunders does not know, but she suspects it may be the Avery Hopwood farce, "The Demi-Virgin." This Mr. Woods has just contracted to produce.

She is taking a rest in the country this week, but early Monday morning will see her aboard a train bound for New York.

In private life Miss Saunders is Mrs. E. D. Herkheimer, blessed with a little 3-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, Jr.—and Jacqueline and her nurse will accompany the star East.

HOOT GIBSON WHANGS HIT OVER SUPERBA.

They are certainly promoting laughs over at the Superba this week with Hoot Gibson's latest, "In Action," and the Century comedy, "Stealing Home."

A sort of pale cross between "The Three Godfathers" and "The Three Musketeers" is the feature. Gibson, J. Farrell MacDonald and Francis Ford are a trio of good-natured adventurers who adopt a young girl and who bring home the bacon fighting for her. Hoot is likable and full of paprika as ever, but it's MacDonald who corners the laughs. He hasn't had a chance to shave since "The Three Godfathers," apparently, but proves himself a comic godfather, this time, and is just as clever in that role as he was in the sob stuff.

MacDonald is a real trouper.

So is little Clara Horton, whose beauty and appealingness aren't all she has to offer. She has a fine instinct for drama, which would never let her go wrong. Francis Ford, in a sort of Bret Harte gambler's make-up, adds picturesqueness. Dorothy Wolbert, as a gabby tabby who objects to the young girl living alone in the house with her three guardians, proves herself the fine little all-around player that she is. And there's a "houn' dawg" owned by MacDonald, a constant source of grief to his master and of laughter to the audience.

A delightful little scene is that in which the hero, on buying the ranch of the orphaned heroine, in order to protect her against the crooks, stages a fake hold-up of his two partners with the girl holding a gun which he has unloaded, and which she exchanges for a loaded one, unknown to him, ending in her shooting the gambler fellow's hat off.

There are some hair-raising riding stunts and fights, which were applauded by the nearly-all-men audience. Hoot Gibson in "In Action," certainly is.

About the funniest ball game in film captivity, together with a novel bubble-blowing stunt, is a feature of a capital Century comedy, "Stealing Home."

There is a male quartet which harmonized to the hilarious delight of the crowd. The boys nearly stopped the show—would have done so entirely, but for the hard-hearted man grinding the projection machine.

Audience Chooses Program.

The audience decided things yesterday at Grauman's. At least, it was their choice of numbers which made up the program played by the orchestra, under the direction of Mischa Guterson, at the impromptu concert, a novel musical entertainment given at the picture theater.

The presentation amounted to request program, with a variation in that everything was informal. Actual calls for numbers and the applause were the guides to the selections played. While some one was urging Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav" or the same composer's elegiac "Andante Cantabile" from a string quartet, others were asking for classic Bach or Handel compositions, and modern by D'Indy, Ravel and others.

The actual result of the impromptu voting, which was in charge of Arthur Wensel, placed on the program "William Tell" overture (Rossini;) "Souvenir" (Drdla;) "Kamenoi-Ostrow" (Rubinstein;) "Ave Maria" (Bach-Gounod,) and Coronation March from "The Prophet" (Meyerbeer.) As all the numbers were familiar to the orchestra, they were played with effectiveness and, besides, a certain spontaneity befitting the character of the concert.

The soloists were Lillian French Barr, soprano, who gave "The Birthday Song" by MacFayden, and Spross's "Jean," exhibiting a lyric-soprano of compass and quality, and S. J. Weis, bass, who rendered with resonant voice, though revealing slight insecurity in pitch, an aria from Verdi's "Ernani" and, for encore, an arrangement of the negro folk-melody "Deep River."

"Experience" in Second.

"Experience," the picture adaptation of the modern morality drama of the stage, is showing in the second week at Grauman's Rialto Theater. In settings and feminine loveliness it has very marked attractions, while the cast brings to the fore such interesting people as Richard Barthelmess, who plays the role of Youth; Marjorie Daw, Kate Bruce, Lilyan Tashman, Nita Naldi and others. The film was directed by George Fitzmaurice.

The remainder of the program is made up of musical numbers and film novelties. The principal soloist in the former is Norma Gregg, dramatic soprano.

CHILD STAR LEADS.

RICHARD HEADRICK IS HERO IN IN STAHL PICTURE.

By Edwin Schallert.

Now that Jackie Coogan has established the precedent, it will perhaps be quite in order for a number of children to slip into the incandescents alongside the adult stars. Certainly Richard Headrick, who toddles away with the show in "The Child Thou Gavest Me" this week at the Kinema Theater, is in line for such promotion. Thanks, no doubt, to the direction of John M. Stahl, he does the most enthralling bit of kid acting that has been seen on the silver sheet since "Peck's Bad Boy," and I even believe that he edges ahead of Jackie in seeming emotion.

Every ray of brightness in the Stahl production is contributed through young Master Headrick. His little tow head and his half-mischievous smile become the constant signal for a laugh before the film is half through the projection machine. What is more, he manages in the later episodes to clutch at the feelings of the public with tears that are imbued with every semblance of reality. His bright, spontaneous charm gives a fine reality to the spoken titles, childishly humorous, that are allotted to him.

"The Child Thou Gavest Me" is, after the fashion of Stahl productions, striking in the skill of its technique—a technique which manages cleverly to cover many a dangerous fault in plot construction.

Provided nobody goes poking around it too much, this photoplay card-house will probably withstand the milder jabs of criticism. It is so laden with human interest, embellished by fine acting, that the shakiness of its structure is hardly to be perceived, until the first impression wears off, and then I question very much whether the film follower will have any particular interest in or recollection of the plot itself, but merely retain something of that joy which the child in the picture brings to the father and mother who are estranged.

Outside of the interest which attaches to the child charm of Master Headrick — supplemented by the clever direction of Mr. Stahl, the portrayal which principally commands is that of Lewis Stone as the father bent on revenging a wrong done his wife before their marriage. Mr. Stone again gives us an interpretation of notable finesse, convincing one of the reality of a very doubtful character. Barbara Castleton is emotionally compelling as the wife. William Desmond has infused naturalness into the role of the husband's suspected friend. Adele Farrington has an interesting bit as the heroine's mother.

At Whittier Affair.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Victor Carley, baritone; Viola Wasterlain, violinist, and Kathleen Shippen, pianist, to assist in a program tomorrow evening before the Whittier Woman's Club. Club members will present a musical sketch, "The Rehearsal."

A dancer will illustrate some of Mr. Carley's French ballads, and also give a solo number, accompanied by Misses Wasterlain and Shippen.

Apollo Club Resumes.

With some forty voices, the Apollo Club of Hollywood has commenced rehearsals under the direction of Hugo Kirchhofer, at the Woman's Clubhouse of Hollywood. It is planned by the organization to give three concerts this season, and the intention is to increase the membership beyond the present number. The date has not yet been set for the first concert.

Six of the injured are at Lawrence Hospital, Yonkers. The other three, after treatment were placed under arrest.

GERMANY EXPECTS TO OPEN EMBASSY SOON.

WILL APPOINT AMBASSADOR TO WASHINGTON AS SOON AS TREATY IS RATIFIED.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—It is reported here that the German government expects to be able to open its Washington Embassy in October when office personnel will be sent over to occupy a building under direction of Embassy Councillor Horstman. Appointment of an ambassador is awaiting treaty ratification.

A meeting of the German National Council last night constitutionally approved the German-American peace treaty. The Bavarian representative, states Councillor Von Wolf, while declaring Bavaria's acceptance of the treaty, nevertheless makes an exception to repetition of the Versailles Treaty clause regarding Germany's responsibility for the war.

HUGHES AT PIANO.

Goldwyn Author Will Play Accompaniment for Song.

A unique event in local theater history will take place tonight at the California Theater to mark the opening of the third week of "The Old Nest." This is the personal appearance at both performances of Rupert Hughes, the author, who will play the accompaniment of his new song, "God Bless Our Home," which will be rendered by Lawrence Tibbett. Mr. Hughes wrote the words and music for this number and dedicated it to his photoplay "The Old Nest."

Hughes is well known as a musician and composer. He has played accompaniments for several of his compositions at local women's clubs. Among his literary works are a number of books on musical topics, including "American Composers," "Musical Guide," "Love Affairs of Great Musicians," and composed and published "A Riley Album," based on the works of J. Whitcomb Riley.

ROBINSON ON[illegible]

[EXCLUSIVE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Three Pacific Coast will represent the Far [illegible] ions called by the President when th[illegible] Department of Commerce next Mon[illegible]day, one of them will be a promi[illegible]nent [illegible] as belated acceptances are rec[illegible]eived [illegible] by Secretary Hoover.

Perhaps the most prominent of the coast representatives and cer[illegible]tainly the most experienced in mat[illegible]ters of this sort is Henry M. Rob[illegible]inson of Los Angeles, president of the First National Bank. Robinson has had national and international experience in labor matters and has for years been a large employer of labor and his selection is widely praised here.

IN PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

Robinson was one of the most active of the Americans in the la[illegible]ter end of the peace negotiations at the close of the World War and emerged from a trying position with the respect of both the representa[illegible]tives of labor and the employers. Since he was a member of the sec[illegible]ond industrial conference and was chairman of the bituminous coal commission of 1920, Robinson also was a trustee of the United States Shipping Board and had a close in[illegible]sight into the labor troubles of that organization.

Mortimer Fleishhacker, another California banker, from San Fran[illegible]cisco, who was a mediator for the Shipping Board during the war in labor matters and a regent of the University of California, is an ex[illegible]pert on international exchange and
